Girl Reveals Hoax in Icebox Holdup

Today

Mr. Hoover on Crime.
No More Proverty.
Who Sold the Whisky?
Lo, the Poor Farmer.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HERBERT HOOVER tells newspaper editors that crime is our problem, and it is not chiefly a prohibition problem.

The President sees the country's foundations subsiding under crime's attack.

He says: "9,000 are murdered every year in the United States, little more than half as many arrested, less than one-sixth of the slayers convicted.

"At least 50 times as many robberies in proportion to population are committed in the United States as in Great Britain, and three times as many burglaries."

PROHIBITION has increased crime, says the President, "by the vast sums that are poured into the hands of criminal classes by patronage of illicit liquor, by otherwise responsible citizens.

"But only 8 per cent of crimes come from the prohibition amendment."

HOW many crimes come from contempt for law and the Constitution, shown by "the otherwise responsible citizens?"

When the merchant and banker have their bootleggers, the highwayman feels that he has a right to his blackjack, the burglar that it is his right to own and operate a jimmy.

THE President, sincerely and courageously determined to enforce the prohibition law, will find it a task compared with which controlling Mississippi floods would be child's play.

THE Berliner Tageblatt says Herbert Hoover's "Fundamental object is abolition of poverty. The benefits of modern technique should come to the people as a whole. Equal rights for all, and not merely for Wall street and Rockefeller and Morgan."

YOU can't do Wall street, Rockefeller or Morgan a greater favor than to abolish poverty. They don't make profits from proverty. Their profits come from the money that the average prosperous man spends. And the more he has, the more they get.

IN NEW JERSEY a "prominent engineer and clubman" is in jail, accused of driving while drunk and killing a garage attendant whose leg was sheared off by the "prominent engineer's" running board.

IN NEW YORK a Negro accused of attacking women in the subway says, "I finished my work, had a few drinks and went home." That's all he remembers.

WHAT about the gentlemen that supplied whisky to these men?

Have the authorities made any effort to identify and punish the whisky sellers? Not yet.

FRANK PELLEGI, of Mansfield, O., owns a "soft drink parlor," but won't own it long.

A prohibition agent shot Pellegi, who is dying, his wife and six children watching him.

THE agent says Pellegi sold whisky, but wouldn't let the agent take it out of the soft drink parlor. So the agent shot Pellegi.

Prohibition is a complicated institution.

THE "William and Mary" plan to subsidize exports of farm products is rejected by Mr. Hoover. The Senate plans nevertheless to try it.

The plan is to give the farmer exporting wheat, etc., a bonus of one half the American tariff on all the wheat or other farm products exported.

AFTER consulting the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce and the Treasury, Mr. Hoover says the plan would enrich speculators and reduce world prices, since foreign markets would have to meet the competition of subsidized products.

Also, says the President, the plan would cost the country $200,000,000 a year, cause much bankruptcy and it would not solve the farm problem.

FARMERS will cease moaning when they realize that the bonus money will be paid, not direct to them, but to merchants exporting products.

It needs "no ghost come from the grave" to tell farmers how little they would get of thatbonus. Wheat gamblers and the middle men would get it. The farmer in his taxes would have to pay part of it.

IN CALIFORNIA, a passenger and an Army plane colliding in mid-air, killing six, should cause authorities to enforce definite rules for flying.

Those that witnessed the crash describe the swift Army pursuit plane "maneuvering apparently with ease about the larger passenger plane, doing stunts."

The pilot of the Army plane, dead, cannot tell his story.

But playful maneuvering of pursuit planes around passenger planes should be discouraged.

THE first "skyscraper" ever built is Chicago's Tacoma Building. Its 14 stories amazed visitors to the Chicago Exposition in 1893. Workmen with torches are ready to burn through the steel, tear down the old building and make room for a building 35 stories higher.

FEW commercial skyscrapers will last as long as the Tacoma Building. Cities will change, some disappearing, as flying machines make concentration of dwellings unnecessary. The future will see an entire industrial city under one roof with a landing field on top, workers flying to

CURTIS M. YOHE

SON TO SUCCEED YOHE IN P.&L.E.

J. B. Yohe will resign as vice president of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Wednesday.

After 58 years of railroading he retires from active service at his own request. His son, Curtis M. Yohe, will succeed him as vice president.

The changes were announced today by President Patrick E. Crowley and Vice President George H. Ingalls, of the New York Central Lines, after an inspection trip here.

ROSE WITH ROAD

The story of J. B. Yohe's career is virtually the history of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad.

He was with the Lake Erie from the beginning, saw it develop from a single-track line into a four-track system, was an important factor in its transformation into one of the most valuable transportation properties in the world. Yohe played a Hoover Gets License To Fish in Penna.

HARRISBURG, April 23.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania fishing license No. 200 has been sent to Herbert Hoover with the compliments of Nathan R. Buller, commissioner of fisheries. The commissioner sent the license when he learned that the President planned another trip to the Jay Cooke estate in Lycoming County to whip the streams for trout.

R. M. Judd Named Hawaii Governor

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(INS.)—President Hoover has selected R. M. Judd, for some years a resident of Hawaii, as governor of the islands, succeeding Wallace R. Farrington, it was announced at the White House today.

POLICE LOSE MURDER DATA

FISHER TO 'EXPLAIN,' HE SAYS

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 23.—(AP.)—Declaring that he signed the Mansfield industrial police bill upon his own knowledge of conditions and without pressure from any source, Gov. Fisher today said that he would make known "at the proper time" his reasons for so doing.

The proper time, he indicated, would be when the Musmanno bill, backed by reform groups, reached his desk for approval or veto.

"I assumed full and sole responsibility," the Governor said, "For approving the Mansfield measure."

REFUSES AUDIENCES

He said he would not grant requests for audiences made by the Civil Liberties Union of Pittsburgh, and other organizations of Western Pennsylvania, which have been fighting in behalf of the Musmanno bill.

"It is physically impossible to adopt oral hearings," he said, "As I have only 22 working days left in which to act upon more than 800 bills."

These groups, which yesterday telegraphed the chief executive for an audience tomorrow to press for signature of the Musmanno Bill, may submit their views in writing, Gov. Fisher anounced, declaring the written briefs would receive full consideration.

TREATS ALL ALIKE

"They have received the same treatment accorded to others, no more and no less," he said.

The Musmanno bill, which would restrict the jurisdiction of coal and iron police to company property, is expected to be vetoed.

He said that there has been considerable "misrepresentation with

GRAF ZEP SAILS OVER FRANCE

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, April 23.—(INS.)—The giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin took off at 1:33 o'clock today on her second Mediterranean voyage.

The decision was made suddenly as it had been announced yesterday that the voyage had been postponed indefinitely. Dr. Hugo Eckener is in command.

The weather was cool and cloudy.

The Graf Zeppelin passed over Chalon-Sur-Saone, France, at 4:50 p. m. Chalon-Sur-Saone lies in the Rhine valley, 20 miles north of Marseilles and 60 miles from the Swiss frontier.

Illinois House Passes Dry Laws Repealer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 23.—(AP.)—The Weber-O'Grady bill to repeal state prohibition enforcement laws passed the Illinois House of Representatives today. It procured the exact number of votes necessary for passage, 77 to 65, and no more. Should it be passed by the Senate it will be subject first to the Governor's approval and then a referendum vote of the people.

TRIO JOINED HERE AFTER 56 YEARS—BROTHER DIES

Fifty-six years ago three Alsacians said "Auf Wiedersehen" as they were about to leave their family home at Munster in German-speaking Alsace for distant America and separation.

Fifty-six years late fate willed that they should meet again in Pittsburgh.

"Willkommen," read the floral sign at the home of Joseph Hetrick, 934 Warrington avenue, whither had come his sister, Mrs. Veronica Scheben, of Hamilton, O., and Frank Hetrick, of Sprague, Wash., his younger brother, for a happy family reunion after their 56 years of separation.

Two weeks ago, Frank Hetrick set out to visit the family hearth at Munster. He promised to stop again with his brother and sister upon his return from abroad.

But, Saturday fate decreed that it should be otherwise, for Joseph died at his Warrington avenue home. Funeral services will be held for him in St. George's Roman Catholic Church tomorrow.

Besides his brother Frank, now in Alsace, and his sister, Mrs. Scheben, he leaves another brother and sister, six daughters, two sons, 23 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, April 23.—Larry Benton, star right-hander of the Giants, was on the mound this afternoon when the locals met the Philadelphia Quakers in the Giants' home opener. Claude Willoughby started for the Phillies.

The local opener drew a crowd of 30,000.

O'Doul gave the Phils a temporary lead when he hit a home run in the first inning.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

PHILADELPHIA — Thompson fouled out to Hogan, who made a fine running catch. O'Doul took one ball then lined a home run into the lower right field stand. Klein was thrown out by Jackson. Whitney tripled to right-center. Hurst walked. Lindstrom pegged out Peel. One run, two hits.

NEW YORK—Welsh flied to Peel. Reese, ducking a bad pitch, rolled out to Hurst. Lindstrom popped to Friberg.

SECOND INNING

PHILADELPHIA—Lerian popped to Jackson. Friberg fouled to Terry. Willoughby struck out.

NEW YORK—Ott grounded out to Hurst. Terry was tossed out by Willoughby. Jackson walked. Thompson threw out Roush.

THIRD INNING

PHILADELPHIA — Reese tossed out Thompson. O'Doul doubled to left just out of Welsh's reach. Klein was called out on strikes. Lindstrom whipped out Whitney. One hit.

NEW YORK—Hogan lined to Whitney. Benton flied to O'Doul. Welsh beat out a slow grounder to Thompson. Reese was hit by a pitched ball. Hurst backed up and took Lindstrom's hoist. One hit.

HOAX TOLD IN ICEBOX HOLDUP

The imprisonment of a girl clerk in an icebox in a reported holdup of the P. H. Butler store, 2337 Arlington avenue, April 10, was staged by the "victim" to conceal a robbery, it was revealed in Morals Court today.

Mrs. Alice Parish, 20, of 2209 Arlington avenue, clerk in the store, testified she had taken $60 from the cash register, given the money to her accomplice, John Foxley, same address, and then permitted him to lock her in the refrigerator.

TELLS ROBBERY PLAN

A little girl, on her way to school, stopped in the store to buy an orange, heard the tapping on the ice box and released Mrs. Parish, she testified, after the latter had been imprisoned 20 minutes.

She said she knew the manager would be away from the store between 9 and 10 o'clock on that day, and that she and Foxley planned the robbery.

BOTH MARRIED—MAN HELD

Foxley admitted that the girl had given him the $60 and that she had given him money previously. Both are married. The Parish girl is estranged from her husband, she admitted.

Arrest of the two came yesterday, according to Precinct Detectives John Harkins and Thomas White, after they obtained an alleged confession from Foxley.

Foxley was held for court by Magistrate A. D. Brandon on a robbery charge and two morality charges. The Parish girl was held on a robbery charge.

KILL ALIEN LAW REPEALER

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Administering the second legislative rebuff to President Hoover within two days, the Senate Immigration Committee today killed two resolutions for repeal of the national origins act.

Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, led the opposition to the President's request, carried in his recent message to Congress, for postponement of the national origins quota law, which goes into effect July 1. The committee vote against the President was 4 to 2.

ENDS REPEAL HOPE

This action virtually ends all chance for repeal or postponement of the new quota law.

The lone hope of the groups fighting national origin quotas will lie in an apparently futile attempt to get

TWO OF HANSON CASES FAIL

The case of William Hanson, of Library, charged with maintaining gambling devices in the Moose Club, 128 Ormsby avenue, South Side, went to the jury today without a single witness being called for the defense.

While Hanson sat at the counsel table, Attorney Edward G. Coll, his counsel, addressed the jury, stating that the evidence presented by the commonwealth was insufficient to convict his client.

JUDGE DISMISSES CHARGES

Visiting Judge William T. Darr of Jefferson county, in charging the jury, ordered a direct acquittal on the charges of being a comman gambler and with maintaining slot machines at 435 Wald avenue. Attorney Coll, late yesterday, had presented a motion asking for direct acquittal on all three charges.

ONLY TWO WITNESSES

Attorney Coll said the only evidence offered was that of John Lostetter and George Schmidt, steward and chairman of the house committee of the club, the only witnesses called.

The men testified machines were placed in the club after Hanson had talked with the house committee, that he had taken money

PITT LIBERAL CLUB DEFIES SCHOOL DISSOLUTION EDICT

Steele Gow, executive secretary of the university.

The students returned to classes today determined to retain their organization at all costs, according to leaders who declared the next move was "up to the university."

Dr. Gow's ultimatum was delivered to Arthur McDowell, member of the executive committee; Harry Weiss, former president of the club, and William Albertson, chairman of the club. It followed the barring of Dr. Harry Elmer Barnes, author and lecturer, from speaking to club members on university property earlier in the day.

Dr. Barnes finally spoke in a parking lot on the case of Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings, serving their fourteenth year of life imprisonment in California for bomb throwing.

Whoopee Loose! $100 If You Find Him

WHOOPEE M'GURK, wanted in the Mr. Jiggs-Dinty Moore mystery, is loose in Pittsburgh. The first person who touches Whoopee on the shoulder and declares him "under arrest" will be paid the $100 reward, provided that person at the time has in his hand or pocket, or in her purse, a clipping of the same day's "Bringing Up Father" strip from the Sun-Telegraph. FILE EMPTY IN WALSH'S OFFICE

Official copies of statements made by witnesses to the fatal shooting of Antonio Spagnoletti, 30, of 1316 Poplar way, are missing from the files in the city detective homicide headquarters and also from the files in the offce of Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, it was testified today in Criminal Court, where Ralph Ranieri, 30, also of Poplar way, is on trial in connection with the killing.

Lieut. David Corbett, of the homicide squad, testified that when he went for his files, he was unable to find them. He then went to Supt. Walsh for copies of the statements and learned that they, too, were missing. The killing occurred in April, 1927, and the statements were taken the day following the fatal shooting.

REPORTS ON PROBE

The missing papers were statements taken from Matt and Mike Spagnoletti, brothers of the dead man and from Gus Bocardi, a brother-in-law of the victim. Among the missing papers were reports of the coroner's inquest. Corbett said. Matt and Mike Spagnoletti testified today that the shooting occurred when one of several persons present called Ranieri "Calabresi," the name for a resident of Southern Italy, but sometimes used by northern Italians as a slur.

Bocardi testified that Mike and Matt Spagnoletti knocked Ranieri to the floor during an argument over a card game, and that he fired five shots from a revolver he held in his pocket. Antonio Spagnoletti was fatally shot when he ran into the room to see what the fight was about.

POINT CHANGE IN STORY

According to Lieut. Corbett, Bocardi has changed his story and his statement, which is missing, gave a version similar to the one told by the brothers of the dead man. Assistant District attorney M. Barney Cohen also expressed surprise when Bocardi testified. Neither he nor Lieut. Corbett could explain how the statements were lost.

HOUSE BACKS HOOVER ON FARM BILL

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(INS.)—President Hoover today received fresh support in his fight against the export debenture plan of farm relief when House leaders declared they would kill any debenture plan which may pass the Senate.

The Senate Agriculture Committee, ignoring Mr. Hoover's wishes, reported the farm bill carrying the debenture clause to the Senate this afternoon with recommendation for its immediate enactment.

Having been relieved of the embarrassment of the long fight over the McNary-Haugen equalization fee bill, the House backers of the $500,000,000 Federal Farm Board bill displayed considerable resentment over the action of the Senate Agriculture Committee in voting to include the debenture plan in the McNary bill.

MAY SPLIT CONGRESS

The situation threatened to revive the enmity between the two houses of Congress which became so pronounced during the last regular session that congressional leaders were forced to make appeals to members to temporize their remarks.

"I only know of three members of the House who favor the debenture plan," said Representative Haugen (Rep.), of Iowa, chairman of the House committee.

Meantime administration leaders in the Senate were attempting to rally votes against the debenture plan, which was included as an optional measure in the McNary bill.

There was no indication that friends of the export debenture plan—under which exporters of surplus agricultural crops would receive a bonus of one-half the tariff upon exports—would drop it.

FEAR BUSINESS LOSS

Some organizations throughout the country, fearful that the gigantic cooperative movement attempted to be set up under the so-called "Hoover plan" of farm relief, would destroy their business, have swung in line for it.

The American Creamery Butter Manufacturers' Association, in a letter to every member of Congress, declared that the cooperative marketing bill threatened extinction to thousands of business men, and urged support of the debenture plan.

PLAN TEST VOTE

Republican leaders in the Senate have decided to make the vote on the export debenture plan a test of administration strength in that branch of Congress.

Fortified by the expressed opposition of President Hoover to the proposal, Senator Watson, of Indiana, made known that at the earliest opportunity he would give notice, as Republican leader, of his intention to ask the elimination of the debenture section voted into the farm bill by the Agriculture Committee.

The Republican leaders have concluded that they must impress upon the Senate that a vote for the debenture plan means a vote against the administration and that inasmuch as the head of the party spoke frankly with respect to his own views, it is up to the Republican majority in the Senate to support him.

WHOOPEE M'GURK BOARDING A TROLLEY

This happened at Penn avenue and Stanwix street and you can see for yourself that Whoopee McGurk, worth $100 to the first to catch him, boarded a trolley car. Would you care to know that it was a Carnegie car?

WHOOPEE NEAR, HEARS GIRL BEMOAN HIS ELUSIVENESS

By WHOOPEE M'GURK.

We will now have a brand new little sobbie by the taxpayers of Pittsburgh entitled, "Just Another Day Wasted Away."

$100.00 Reward

Whoopee McGurk, wanted in the Mr. Jiggs-Dinty Moore mystery, is loose in Pittsburgh. The first person who touches Whoopee on the shoulder and declares him "under arrest" will be paid the $100.00 reward, provided that person at the time has in his hand or pocket, or in her purse, a clipping of the same day's "Bringing Up Father" strip from the Sun-Telegraph. All employes of the Sun-Telegraph and their families are barred.

Now don't sue me right away! Ain't it the truth that your old friend Whoopee is still at large, defying the people, defying the police, defying the Republicans, defying the Democrats, defying anybody that wants defied?

There's a price of 100 stones on my noble intellect and here I am (or there I was) strolling about in your fair territory and snapping my digits at the police.

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

You know where I was yesterday? Well, at noon I strolled Fifth avenue till my dogs barked. I squawked baseball for two hours with a flock of stove-leaguers in Liberty avenue near Wood.

Oh, yes, I almost forgot—I went into a drugstore in Wood street to buy a pound of nails and two Clara Bows were trying to figure out the price of a new headgear.

"Well," screamed one, "why don't you find that Whoopee McGurk they're all talking about?"

"How can I find that guy in a million people?" the little girl that needed a great big hat complained.

And there I was, two feet away, and willing to be found.

BROWN HAT STILL CLUE

Listen: If I'm lucky enough for that to happen I'll see what I can do about getting Maggie's necklace for the same little girl. Now that doesn't mean I'm the guy who stole Maggie's necklace that Jiggs loaned to Dinty Moore, does it? No, it does!

I'm still wearing that fashionable brown hat that I gave for a clue.

And I'll tell you where I'll be tomorrow at Forbes Field. I'm thinking of playing right field for the Pirates—and then again, I may only sit out there.

Truthfully,
WHOOPEE McGURK

Don't lose sight of Whoopee's activities. Follow him in Bringing Up Father in the comic section for the latest developments—and keep an ear peeled for his adjectives at tomorrow's ball game.

WOMAN SAYS 2 ABUSED HER

Mrs. Ora Jones, of 1004 Fifth avenue, testified in Morals Court today that because she was unable to direct two men to Washington street, last night, they used improper language to her and followed her home. Her husband, Melvin Jones, caused their arrest. The two, Clarence Riston, of 1707 Cliff street, and Jack Moran, 68 Wyoming street, were fined $25 each with the alternative of 30 days in the workhouse by Magistrate A. D. Brandon. They denied the charge.

SENATE ARREST IN VARE CASE DEFENDED

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP.)—The Senate's right to arrest Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, was defended before the Supreme Court today by George W. Wickersham, former attorney general, while in turn, Cunningham's counsel, Ruby R. Vale, contended that the Senate in arresting Cunningham intended to hold him in custody as punishment for contempt, and that the arrest was unlawful.

The case grew out of the election of William S. Vare as Senator from Pennsylvania. Cunningham in testifying before the Reed committee investigating the election said that he gave $50,000 to the state Republican committee, but he refused to answer questions about the source of his income. His arrest by the Senate sargeant at arms, followed.

Wickersham argued that Cunningham's arrest was lawful, declaring the Senate had the right to take him in custody and bring him before it for the purpose of questioning him further. He declared that the legality of the questions put to Cunningham were not properly at issue before the Supreme Court, but only the right of the Senate to take him in custody for further examination.

LAW REPEAL KILLED

the Senate to reverse the committee. This could be accomplished by majority vote, but the Senate, at its last session, refused to consider the necessary legislation and there appeared small chance of its acting now at the special session.

The committee's action came on a motion to "indefinitely postpone" consideration of a resolution by Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, and another by Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, for repeal of the national origins act.

REED LEADS OPPOSITION

While Senator Reed led the opposition, Senator Nye led the debate in favor of the resolutions.

On the vote Reed was joined by Senators Keyes (Rep.), of New Hampshire; Hatfield (Rep.), of West Virginia, and Harris (Dem.), of Georgia, in opposing consideration of the resolutions, while Nye was supported only by Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, chairman of the committee. Senator Gould (Rep.), of Maine, was present but did not vote.

The rebuff to President Hoover's recommendation was not unexpected. When the President pleaded for repeal of the new quota law it was known on Capitol Hill that he had "crossed" Republican Congressional leaders.

PREDICT DEFEAT

While the message was being written, rumor had it the President told the legislators he would not mention the immigration law. When he did the administration leaders in Congress immediately predicted the recommendation would not be heeded.

The committee's action came within 24 hours of a similar rebuff to the President by the Senate Agricultural Committee. The latter reported the farm bill containing a debenture plan right on top of a presidential message denouncing the plan.

Illinois Mayor Gets 4 Bits Per Year

HOOPESTON, Ill., April 23.—(AP.)—Dr. Fred E. Earel today went on the city's payroll as mayor at 50 cents per annum. He is the seventeenth mayor to serve at that salary since the city was incorporated. Aldermen receive 25 cents a year.

3 STRIKES HERE CONDUCTED QUIETLY

The situation in Pittsburgh's labor disputes was unchanged on all three fronts today.

A few striking milk wagon drivers still remained absent from the Rieck-McJunkin Company's Liberty avenue plant, but plant officials reported delivery service had been restored to normal. A squad of police on duty had found no work to do.

John Wiltenhalter, of 273 Thirty-eighth street, a driver for the Rieck company, notified police early today that a gang of men congregated at California and Columbus avenues, hurled epithets and threatened to take him from his truck.

Police arrested two railroad shopmen, Martin McManus, 1308 Halsey way, and J. R. Gibson, 406 West Diamond street, on disorderly conduct charges. They told Magistrate E. M. Hough in North Side Police Court they were waiting on a street car to take them home and had nothing to do with alleged threats to the driver. They were discharged.

On the North Side, the Allegheny Dairy Company's plant was being picketed, but the company's officials denied any of their men had joined the unionists. Police were guarding delivery routes on the North Side, and in the Frankstown avenue district.

At the W. & H. Walker Company's incinerating plant on Herr's Island, where 25 men walked out after a wage increase had been refused, no new developments had occurred. Officials said the men had been replaced.

Three hundred men were still on strike at the Allis Chalmers Company's plant, and organizers for the electrical workers' union were attempting to arbitrate a dispute over dismissal of two union committeemen.

Information on the disputes was being gathered by M. Emmilinne Pitt, labor department conciliator in this district, for Secretary of Labor James J. Davis.

big part in making it "The Little Giant."

HORATIO ALGER CAREER

He has been a railroader since childhood—since June 10, 1870, which was two weeks before his fourteenth birthday.

On that date he went to work for the railroads and has been at it ever since. They had handbrakes in those days, the locomotives had big bulging stacks, and rolling stock of all kinds was small in comparison with that of the present.

His first job was as an extra operator on the Pittsburgh division of the Baltimore and Ohio. The following year, before he was 15, he was filling a position as a regular telegrapher. Next he was chief clerk to the trainmaster. Before he was 19 years old he was a train dispatcher on the B. & O., holding the job until August 1, 1882, when he went over to the old Pittsburgh and Western, now part of the B. & O. system, as chief train dispatcher. Thus, at an age when most boys are still at school, he was shouldering the heavy responsibility for safe operation of trains.

MOUNTED RAPIDLY

Yohe went to the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie October 1, 1883, as trainmaster, on the Youghiogheny division. In 1888 he became chief train dispatcher and superintendent of telegraph; in 1890, master of transportation; in 1895, superintendent; in 1898, general superintendent; in 1906, general manager; in 1926, vice president and general manager. Since July 1, 1926, he has been vice president of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, and either president or vice president of many subsidiary railroad companies.

SON CORNELL GRADUATE

Curtis Miller Yohe, who succeeds his father, was born September 22, 1887, at Connellsville. He graduated from Cornell University in 1910. He entered railway service in 1919 with the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie; from then until July, 1922, was assistant purchasing agent; thereafter until March 1, 1928, was purchasing agent, and has since had the title of assistant to the president of the New York Central Lines, with headquarters at Pittsburgh.

LIEUT. EATON CAPT. VOSS

Lieut. Samuel C. Eaton, who succeeds Capt. Thomas S. Voss as commandant of Rodger's Field, is in Pittsburgh today, preparing to establish himself. He comes from Chanute Field, to which Capt. Voss is returning as executive officer.

WAR FLIER HERE TO TAKE CHARGE OF RODGERS FIELD

Lieut. Samuel C. Eaton, United States army pilot, has arrived in Pittsburgh to relieve Capt. Thomas S. Voss as commandant of Rodgers Field. Capt. Voss is returning to Chanute Field, Ill., to become executive officer.

Lieut. Eaton is a World War veteran, having entered the army air corps in July, 1917. During the war, he served as flying instructor at various fields. He left the army in 1919 to continue flying under civil service in the postoffice department, having been one of the first air mail pilots in this country. One of his outstanding achievements was the mapping of the first transcontinental air mail route west of Cleveland. He re-entered the army in 1920 and since that time has seen service in Panama and has been stationed at various army fields in this country.

The Oakmont Chamber of Commerce and Aero club of Oakmont tonight will hold a banquet in honor of Lieut. Eaton and Capt. Voss. On Thursday they will be guests at the regular weekly lunch of the Aero club of Pittsburgh.

respect to the nature of the two measures." His intention is to explain his interpretation of both.

CARRY FIGHT HIGHER

The national organization of the American Civil Liberties Union will be asked to throw all its resources into the fight to gain coal and iron police reforms in Pennsylvania, it was announced today by officials of the liberal organization's Pittsburgh branch.

This was decided last night at a meeting of local members, to whom Gov. John S. Fisher wired a flat rejection of their petition for a hearing on the industrial police situation.

Leaders announced that the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, would be sent to New York to arrange with Roger Baldwin, president of the national organization, to take up the fight against the forces which have blocked the Musmanno bill and substituted for it the ("weak sister") Mansfield industrial police act.

The Rev. Dr. Harry S. Ward, chairman national executive committee of the Civil Liberties Union, is expected to arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow. Dr. Ward is a professor at the Union Theological Seminary, New York, and head of the Methodist Federation for Social Service. He is coming here on church matters, it is understood, but will meet local Civil Liberties officials informally.

GEORGE F. LUMB

Lumb, named by Gov. Fisher as secretary of the "industrial police," system set up under the provisions of the recent Mansfield bill. Lumb, an attorney, was former acting head of the state police.

THEATERGOERS URGE TAX CUT

A flying squardon of youths from the University of Pittsburgh moved in and out of downtown theater's last night and helped hundreds of theater-goers to indorse the nation-wide drive sponsored by Hearst papers to help cut taxes.

Representative citizens signed petitions which the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will send to Congress.

Nearly half of these were men and women, among them notables in their professions, who were enjoying "Excess Baggage" playing at the Pitt theater. To begin the list, George Sharp, producer and head of the Sharp Players there, attached his signature. Ushers of the Pitt passed the blanks during intermission, and many in the crowded house signified their support of the movement.

At the Stanley and the Grand, the lines of ticket buyers expressed opinion on tax cutting—and it was yes.

Nearly every man and woman present at the Safety Council meeting in the Chamber of Commerce, headed by George Clarkson, executive secretary, added his or her name to the list.

They all expressed opinions that there should be a downward revision of taxes on earned incomes, such as salaries or fees or commissions for personal services.

from the machines and that when the machines needed repairs, he was called by telephone and a repair man was sent.

WITNESSES ASSAILED

Coll said if the testimony of the two witnesses was true, they also were accomplices to the operation of the machines. Assistant District Attorney John Haggerty asked the jury to be guided by the testimony offered by the two witnesses and said that if the jury believed their testimony, it was the duty of the jury to find Hanson guilty.

In making his charge Judge Darr said that in a way the two witnesses were accomplices and asked the jury to remember this in finding their verdict.

Hanson is a former relative by marriage of Alfred W. Forney, fugitive slot machine racketeer.

TRADE BOARD URGES WAGE LEVY CUT

Income Tax Cut Petitions Are Called In

Outstanding petitions urging revision downward of the tax on earned incomes have been called in. Persons having petitions at their places of business or circulating petitions clipped from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph are requested to complete their list of signatures and mail them to the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph at once. Prompt action is necessary in order to forward the papers to Washington without delay.

Citizens of West View are indorsing the Sun-Telegraph's campaign for lessening the federal tax on earned incomes.

While they have been working individually for the past eight weeks, the matter was taken up formally last night when the West View Board of Trade adopted resolutions indorsing a movement to urge Congress for the immediate downward revision of the tax assessed against professional men and women, salaried persons and wage earners. At the same time the Sun-Telegraph was praised for its initiative in the matter.

C. V. SHOUP

C. V. Shoup, president of the Borough Board of Trade, brought the matter to the attention at a mass meeting of the citizens in the West View Junior High School and the adoption of the resolution was followed by the signing of petitions circulated by the board.

PAPER'S AID LAUDED

The resolutions follow:

Whereas, The system of assessing Federal income tax against individuals dependent on earned income fails to differentiate between the revenue from invested capital and the earnings of professional men and women, salaried persons and wage earners; and

Whereas, The cost of clerical work in handling a great number of small accounts is incommensurate with the tax received from the great body of wage earners; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, members of the West View Board of Trade, assembled at a regular meeting, respectfully urge the Congress of the United States to give immediate consideration to the proposal for the revision downward of the schedule of taxes on earned income; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to our representative in Congress and also submitted to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, which newspaper we commend for its stand in behalf of a reduction of taxes on earned incomes.

PROMPT RETURNS URGED

The radio council of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, with a membership composed of several hundred radio dealers in the Pittsburgh district, will act on the income tax question at its meeting tomorrow. Wallace Russell, president of the council, has made the consideration of the income tax a special order of business.

A great number of petitions arrived at the office of the Sun-Telegraph in the mail today. Many petitions are still in circulation and it is urged that these be sent in at once.

Mellon Cannot See Leviathan Aridity

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon does not see how the American government can interfere with the sale of liquor on the Leviathan on the high seas, regardless of the fact that the liner has not been completely paid for, unless there is a clause to that effect in the sale contract. The secretary made this observation upon receiving a letter written him by Representative La Guardia (Rep.), New York, which asked that the liner be made dry.

LANGLEY HIGH STUDENTS JOIN 'CLEAN-UP' CAMPAIGN

Langley high school students are making a real cleanup with their "cleanup campaign." "Clean up" and "Paint up" were their battle cries yesterday as they fired the opening gun in a battle for a cleaner city.

Led by the school band, a parade, made up of the student council, representatives of the various clubs and members of the faculty, moved through the streets in the vicinity of the school. Banners with inscriptions suggesting various cleanup methods were carried.

A "cleanup" play was given at the school last week as part of the campaign. Representatives of the student council have been delegated to deliver three-minute addresses on the subject. Others are writing letters to business and civic organizations and ministers. Arrangements for store window displays have also been made.

L. W. Richards, instructor in manual training, is chairman of the campaign committee. He is assisted by Miss Irene Williams, director of the student council.

Plan for Widening 5th Avenue Indorsed

Indorsement of the plan to widen Fifth avenue from Sixth avenue eastwardly and to improve Colwell street has been forwarded to Council in a letter from the Chamber of Commerce.

GIRL, 13, FINDS MOVIE STAR JOBS SCARCE IN BOSTON

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—(AP.)—Her dream of becoming a motion picture actress gone, Bernice E. Dowling, 13-year-old daughter of the Rev. Llewellyn Dowling, of Everett, Mass., missing since Saturday, was found early today in the Broad Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad here.

She is in the House of Detention waiting for her parents, who have been notified by the Missing Persons Bureau of the police department.

A policeman saw Bernice huddled on a bench in the waiting room of the station.

"I have been here since Sunday," declared Bernice.

"I had $30 when I started, and went to a hotel near Broad street. This morning I only had $1 and some change so I left. I won't go home, anyway, for I'm not happy there.

"I've always wanted to go to boarding school, like my older sister and brother, who go to college.

"I have to stay at home and wash dishes, and never go anywhere alone, while by 12-year-old brother can go to all sorts of Boy Scout meetings by himself."

Her younger brother, she said, last week printed some "business cards" with the name, "Mildred Oliver," the name she wanted in a moving picture career.

Sun-Telegraph Encourages Savings Bank Depositors

To stimulate thrift, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will deposit $10 to the credit of each of the bank books in the following list. If you hold one of these bank books, bring it to the Sun-Telegraph office, Gazette Square, and present it to Robert N. Laughlin, cashier.

Name of Bank.	Book No.
Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A.	B-3,495
Union Trust Company	7,526
Fidelity Title & Trust Company	5,176
Iron & Glass Dollar Savings Bank of Birmingham	5,386
Second National Bank of Allegheny	19,321
Dollar Savings & Trust Company	59,321
Arsenal Bank	8,328
Ohio Valley Bank	6,984
Carrick Bank	5,337
Dormont Savings & Trust Company	2,397

The books designated may be presented during business hours any time within a week, but not later than 5 p. m., Tuesday, April 30.

10 MORE WILL RECEIVE $10 AWARDS FOR THRIFT

Ten persons are to receive $10 apiece as unexpectedly as if they were to pick up the money from the street. They are not getting the money for nothing, however. It is coming to them as a reward for thrift—as an expression of appreciation from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph of their prudence and wisdom in putting money in savings banks. They have earned it by saving.

For these new gifts, announced today, like hundreds of other cash awards distributed by this newspaper during the last two months to bank depositors, go only to the holders of passbooks whose numbers are published in connection with the campaign to promote thrift. The checks are deposited to their credit as part of a plan to encourage the saving of money.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph believes in emphasizing the importance of laying something by for a rainy day, as the saying is, so that means will be at hand to take advantage of any oportunity that calls for the possession of a bank account, so that protection will be at hand in case of misfortune, so that support will be available when one's earning capacity is impaired or ended.

Cornelius Conley, of 4215 Main street, an employe of the Dave Hill Floral Company, has received a $20 thrift award as holder of passbook No. 3,551 in the Exchange National Bank.

Frank Abbey, of 846 Lockhart street, has received a $5 award. He has bank book No. 8,350 in the Pittsburgh Trust Company.

PITTSBURGH'S TYPICAL GIRL CHOSEN

The Typical Pittsburgh Girl has been chosen.

She's a mighty fine girl to represent Pittsburgh in the New York national eliminations under the auspices of Smart Set Magazine for the title of the Typical American Girl, the week of May 12.

Her principal hobbies are sports and dramatics.

She teaches physical education at the University of Michigan, her alma mater. There she is junior instructor in the department of physical education.

She swims, plays a good game of tennis and golf, broad jumps, plays and has captained her teams in basketball, baseball, field hockey.

CAN BAKE TOO

She can bake a good cake, her mother says.

Reading is one of her hobbies. While in college, her scholastic record was good and she was graduated with distinction, taking a B. S. degree.

Attending the Dormont grade school in the South Hills, she later went to Peabody High School, where she took a major part in all high school activities and led several teams to victory.

Her name is Nellie Esther Hoover, and her home is at 1214 Sheridan avenue, East End.

BALLOT UNANIMOUS

Miss Hoover was chosen Saturday from a group of 17 young women from every part of the Pittsburgh district who were picked from their photographs and letters of nomination by the judges, Mrs. Laura Holland MacDonald, Prof. Norwood MacGilvary and Frank Vittor.

Through a process of elimination, the judges narrowed their selection to Miss Hoover, whose widely spread activities, appearance and characteristics indicated her as the Typical American Girl the Sun-Telegraph and Smart Set Magazine have been looking for.

After the jury had narrowed its choice to three young women, a unanimous ballot gave the choice and title to Miss Hoover.

On May 12, Miss Hoover will journey to New York to take part in the final judging, with about 18 other young women. The national winner will have her portrait painted by a nationally-known artist, will receive a cash prize of $5,000, and will have a trip to Europe provided for her without expense and at her convenience.

BACK TO MICHIGAN

Miss Hoover returned to her duties at Ann Arbor last night.

"I feel the title of the Typical Pittsburgh Girl is a great honor," she said before she left.

"When the judges announced me as the winner, I had that funny blank feeling that comes when we're suddenly surprised beyond your wildest dreams!

"You see, I didn't know I was even entered in the contest until my mother telephoned me Friday night to come to Pittsburgh for the final judging.

"The jury was nice to all of us. We felt so self-conscious as we sat there and talked to them. They were so pleasant, though, that we were at our ease right away.

THAT BLANK FEELING

"Then they announced my name! And I had that blank feeling!

"Everyone has been kind to me, too. The North Side Marmon Company gave me a new Roosevelt sedan to use while I was in Pittsburgh, and I enjoyed its use just lots. I've had more fun this week-end than I ever had before in three short days!

"Really, though, it will be the most unexpected thing in the world if I win in New York. But it'll be lots of fun to see the city again."

State Auto Toll Shown Heaviest On Saturdays

HARRISBURG, April 23. — (AP.)—Contrary to general belief, motor accidents on Saturdays during March exceeded the Sunday toll in Pennsylvania.

The monthly report of Benjamin G. Eynon, registrar of motor vehicles, announced today, shows that of the total of 2,584 accidents in the month, 510 occurred on Saturdays and 450 on Sundays. Deaths totaled 131, and 1,894 other persons were injured.

CARS IN HEADON CRASH; 6 HURT

Six persons were injured, one seriously, when two automobiles collided head-on in Washington boulevard, near Leech farm, early today.

Edward Wittman, 36, of 131 Altmeyer street, Sharpsburg, driver of one car, is in the Pittsburgh Hospital with lacerations and a possible fracture of the skull.

Walter Lewis, 36, of 6617 Deary street, the other driver, suffered lacerations and possible rib fractures. His wife, Mrs. Susan Lewis, and their daughter, Lucille Lewis, 12, suffered lacerations. George Hays, 40, of 9196 Frankstown road, owner of the car Lewis was driving, and Mrs. Mabel Hays suffered bruises and lacerations.

Accuses Taxi Driver Guide Robbing Him

After seeing Pittsburgh's night life in the company of a cab driver, Frank Kennedy, 32, of Scranton, Pa., a salesman, reported to police today that he had been beaten and robbed of $3.50. He blamed the cab driver. At the cab company's offices he picked out Charles Adams, 25, of 500 Beltzhoover avenue, as his alleged guide and assailant. Both men are held on suspicious person charges for a hearing in Central Police Court.

ZONING CODE FINE APPEAL ARGUED IN SUPERIOR COURT

An appeal involving the city zoning code was argued before the State Superior Court in session here. The appeal is that of Rudolph Braymes, owner of a property at 4427 Davidson street, against the judgment of the Allegheny County court.

Braymes claimed that he had received permission to change a window in the dwelling to a door. The Bureau of Building Inspection later charged him with using the building for commercial purposes, according to Braymes, and had him fined $50. His appeal is from that fine.

Other cases heard included appeal from the decree of the Allegheny County Court in the case of the Commonwealth and Annie N. Kurniker, appellant, against Max W. Runiker, in an endeavor to have the lower court's decision vacating a support order nullified; appeal from judgment of Quarter Sessions Court of Allegheny County in the case of the Commonwealth against Cesare Augusto Pagolini, convicted of embezzlement; appeal from order of Allegheny County Court in case of the Commonwealth and Marie Welsh against William Welsh, appellant, involving the custody of a child; appeal by defendant from judgment of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County in the case of James Clonan against the Allegheny Valley Street Railway Company, involving a damage suit for injuries.

NEW SHORTAGE LAID TO BANKER

NILES, O., April 23.—Officials of the Masonic Temple announced yesterday that the accounts of Carter C. McConnell, treasurer, are short between $15,000 and $17,000.

This shortage is in addition to McConnell's alleged defalcations at the McKinley Savings and Trust Company, of which he was secretary and manager. The bank is short in excess of $50,000.

No trace of McConnell has been found since he mysteriously disappeared a week ago. A young woman employe of the bank had informed him last Monday that his accounts were wrong.

PLAN ELECTION ON BOND ISSUE

Preparations are being made for the special election for a $75,000 bond issue to be held in Overbrook next Tuesday. Widow and Roomer Held in Club Killing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Margaret Fay Wharton, widow of Beverly Wharton, who was clubbed to death in his home here last week, was placed in the county jail last night by order of Coroner J. D. Russum. A. R. Hall, a roomer in the house occupied by the Whartons, also was held. Several Negroes arrested last week have been released. The arrest of Mrs. Wharton followed a conference between the coroner and investigating officers. Basis for her arrest order was not revealed. Mrs. Wharton had told police Wharton was wounded "by a burly Negro."

Mifflin Annexation Pushed in Munhall

Plans for Munhall to annex a portion of Mifflin Township, with 4,000 registered voters and property valued at $3,000,000, were approved at a special meeting of the Munhall Borough Council last night.

The section lies between Brierly plan and the Homestead Cemetery. If the annexation is carried it will be the second from the township, which would be reduced to one-third its original size. In January a large section entered Pittsburgh.

RADIO SYSTEM IS LAUNCHED BY FORDS

LANSING, Mich., April 23.—(INS.)—Formation of a radio service corporation by the Ford interests was revealed here yesterday with the filing of a request before the State Public Utilities Commission for approval of a $100,000 stock issue by the Ford Communication Company, a Delaware concern.

Hearing on the request was set for April 30.

Edsel Ford heads the new company as president and treasurer. His father, Henry Ford, is listed as a director. Peter E. Martin is listed as vice president and B. J. Craig as secretary. A. V. Lane, L. E. Gray and C. S. Peabbles, all of Wilmington, Del., which will be the company's headquarters, are listed as directors.

The company will be organized, the request sets forth, for the purpose of national and international radio and cable communication.

Majority stock in the company is held by the Ford interests. The issue is divided into 1,000 shares of $100 par value each. The Ford Dearborn radio station, beacon stations at Dearborn and Chicago; the L'Anse radio station, the Rouge plant dock of the company and several Great Lakes boats are turned over to the new company by the Fords in return for shares of the stock.

The company will operate in other states and foreign countries, according to the papers before the commission.

It is understood the company was organized primarily to carry on communication between the Ford properties in America and foreign countries by radio. It also will be used in the operation of Ford ships and the Ford railways, it was reliably reported.

SCHOOLBOARD REJECTS PLEA

Pleas of parents of children attending the Liberty school, Ellsworth avenue and Ivy street, for improvements to the school building were rejected by the properties and supplies committee of the Board of Education at a meeting last night.

At the meeting the committee awarded contracts totaling $401,-899.16 for erection of an addition to the Baxter Junior High School. The general contract went to the Pittsburgh Engineering and Construction Company at its bid of $297,717.

The protest against the condition of the Liberty school, which was sponsored by the Seventh Ward League of Women Voters, was answered in reports from Supt. of Buildings James Bonar and Principal John J. Coll. Bonar said the school was "reasonably clean and absolutely sanitary." Coll reported that, considering the building's age, it was maintained in a satiffactory manner.

Earl Grant, general chairman of the benefit entertainment to raise funds for the Kinloch mine disaster sufferers, to be held at Elks' Temple Friday evening, has announced the following entrants in the world's championship cakewalk event: Jimmy Hays, the "Colored Georgia Peach" and world's championship claimant; Bo Didley, Johnny Jones, Edna Winston and Mabel Reed. William Kapphan and his Silver Lining Sweet Singing Serenaders will sing and play. P. S. Joyce, Christ Dimling and George Chilcott will be judges in the prize old and new dances, most popular man contest and prize fox trot. The benefit is under the auspices of the New Pioneers of America.

Girl Evangelist Nearly Collapses

Uldine Utley, 17-year-old evangelist, conducting a revival campaign in this city, almost collapsed at the conclusion of her sermon in Memorial Hall last night.

The girl evangelist, addressing 2,000 people, dropped to her knees after her talk, of which the subject was "The Priest, the Prophet and King." Several women rushed to her aid and revived her. Later she was taken to her hotel nearby.

Tonight Miss Utley will preach at the hall. Her subject will be "What Time Is It?"

Father and Son Die As Train Hits Auto

ALTOONA, Pa., April 23.—(AP.)—A father and his son were fatally hurt yesterday when their automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania train at a Duncanville crossing. Lloyd A. Shaw, 63, and his son, James H. Shaw, 40, both of McKee, Blair County, were the victims.

The train which struck the Shaw machine was an extra, being run to test out a new type of engine. It was traveling about 15 miles an hour as it approached the crossing, railroad attaches said.

High School Debate Won by Greensburg

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 23.—By defeating the Monessen High School debate team, Greensburg High School won the right to participate in the regional debate contests at California State Teachers' College in the near future. The Greensburg High School Orchestra has also won the orchestral contest and will compete in the regional championships.

Lang Asks Another City Tractor Driver

Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, has asked Council for authority to employ an additional operator for a city tractor to continue the filling of Saline street d[illegible] shaft.

Crew of Raider To Add 'Emden' To Names

BERLIN, April 23.—(A.P.)—By government decree, the historic name of Emden has now been made a title of honor that may be added as a suffix to their family name by all living survivors of the German cruiser Emden's officers and crew.

As a knight once wore their arms and plumes, Emden men may now proudly wear the name and fame of the Central Powers' "Ocean Eagle," which preyed on allied shipping half round the world and single handed sank a cruiser, a destroyer and 18 steamers before being herself put out of action by the Australian cruiser Sidney.

First to adopt the new title, Friedrich Garbe, formerly chief machinist's mate on the famous sea rover, and a survivor of all her naval battles, has become Friedrich Garbe-Emden, now a customs officer at the town of Leer.

PORTER URGES DOPE ACTION

WASHINGTON, April 23.—President Hoover's vigorous law enforcement speech in New York yesterday spurred congressional activity in behalf of the Porter bill to reorganize and strengthen enforcement of the Narcotic laws.

As the surest way to curb lawlessness and crime, Representative Porter (R) of Pennsylvania declared the Federal Government must arm itself to smash dope trafficking rings.

"Dope causes more crime than any other single factor in America," said Porter. "This is evidenced by the fact that one-third of the federal prisoners are drug addicts.

"Dope costs America at least $1,000,000,000 annually through crimes committed by addicts.

CRIME STIMULANT

"This terrific toll includes the whole range of criminal acts, from petty thieving to cold-blooded murder.

"The most atrocious crimes are committed by persons crazed by drugs.

"Dope is the handmaiden of lawlessness. It stimulates the bandit, the racketeer, and the murderer with false courage to enable them to commit acts of unspeakable brutality.

"As President Hoover pointed out, no graver problem faces the country today than to strike down the criminal elements.

"Let us begin by eradicating the festering sore of dope which is eating into the very heart and soul of the nation. If we can do this, we shall have accomplished more than any other thing to thwart and control the social parasites who live by crime.

SAFEGUARDS SOUGHT

"We must provide stronger safeguards against the illicit use of drugs. We must set up a more efficient system of enforcement.

"Before a national calamity besets us, we must organize our forces to drive the dope trafficker and the peddler from the streets, the alleys and the dives.

"The assassin who sells dope to his fellowman deserves no sympathy. He must be made to realize that he will be punished swiftly and severely."

Porter has already introduced a bill to increase the penalties for dope violations from five to eight years and to deny to the dope peddler the privilege of parole from prison.

His bill to reorganize the Narcotics bureau is being put into final shape for introduction shortly in congress.

Weather Conditions.

High barometer, centered over Ohio and West Virginia covers the whole eastern half of the country. The skies are clear east of the Mississippi, and light to heavy frost was general in the Ohio Valley states, the lake region, the Middle Atlantic states and over the Appalachian Mountains as far south as Eastern North Carolina. Freezing temperatures occurred in the valleys of Western Pennsylvania and over the mountains as far south as Virginia.

The southwestern disturbance is centered over Western Colorado and Eastern Utah, and southward over Northern Arizona, and covers the mountain states south of Montana. It is causing light rain or snow in the mountains and cloudy weather as far east as the central blalns.

River Conditions.

The rivers are now falling at all points above Pittsburgh and at Pittsburgh the Ohio has been stationary since 6:00 a. m. The highest stage reached at Pittsburgh was 21.9 feet. Stage at Franklin is 10.2 feet; Lock No. 7, 21.4; Pittsburgh, 21.9; Dam No. 2, 15.5; Dam No. 6, 23.4; Dam No. 9, 22.8, and Dam No. 12, 20.9. The Ohio River will be falling at Pittsburgh by noon. At Wheeling it will rise to about 26 feet by late tonight.

ALL SHOULD HAVE PLENTY OF MILK

Bones and Teeth of Children and Adults Need Milk in the Diet

Two famous nutrition authorities emphasize the need of the human body for the calcium and phosphorus found in milk. Children and expectant or nursing mothers should have from three-quarters to one quart of milk a day, according to these authorities, and other adults should have from three-quarters of a pint to a pint of milk a day. These authorities point out that too little calcium in the diet retards bone growth, causes rickets, may result in bone deformities, produces poor quality of teeth and lowers vigor and vitality. Whole milk also is rich in phosphorus.

Unfortunately there are many people who do not like the taste of milk. For all such people, a delicious milk drink should be made.

One mother makes her children eager for milk by giving it to them in milk shakes. "They call one drink a chocolate froth," she says. "I take a level teaspoon of cocoa and 1½ teaspoons of sugar, mix in the bottom of a glass with a few drops of milk until it's smooth, add a drop or two of vanilla flavoring, fill the glass with milk and shake it with an ordinary tin shaker. The youngsters are crazy about it," she goes on to say. "They like it sometimes without the chocolate, just the vanilla and sugar."

Sugar is Nature's ideal flavor. "Help make children drink milk," says an eminent food scientist, "by adding chocolate and sugar." The Sugar Institute.

AGENTS ELUDED BY BARTENDER

The government score against alleged bootleggers yesterday was one up for the day—two walked in and one walked out.

Jacob Held, alleged bartender, was out when an alleged speakeasy at 15 Market street was raided Saturday and Theodore Smythe arrested as proprietor. Held is still out.

At hearings yesterday before a United States commissioner, Held appeared as a spectator, was recognized by prohibition agents and arrested. They declared he had a half-pint bottle of whisky in his pocket. Given a prompt hearing, he was held for court under $2,000 bail, but on the way from the hearing room to the commissioner's office to give bail he disappeared.

Joseph Kosternek, through a mole on his forehead, was another recognized among the spectators by agents. They accused him of being the bartender at 531 Dickson street, Homestead, absent Saturday when the place was raided and the alleged proprietor, John Mottora, arrested. After a hearing each was held for court under $2,000 bail.

"Joy of Living"

Be Hungry for breakfast . . . be Happy all day!

If you have Heinz Rice Flakes for tomorrow's breakfast you'll be hungry for your next one all right! And that's just the way it ought to be. Healthy folk are hungry for breakfast. And hungry folk who breakfast on Heinz Rice Flakes are both happy and healthy.

Happy because of the nut-like flavor of these crispy, crunchy, golden-brown flakes of goodness. Healthy because these dainty flakes have the quality of a gentle, natural laxative. Due to a new, patented Heinz process that transforms the natural roughage of the rice into a pure edible cellulose.

Then again, they're happy because they're healthy and because it's fun to keep healthy in this happy way!

DOPE BLAMED BY MAN HELD IN POSTAL FRAUDS

Addiction to narcotics is responsible for his plight, Edward R. Reiman, alias Elmer Rice, 26, declared at a hearing before a United States commissioner. He is accused of passing fraudulent money orders and was held for court under $6,500 bail and committed to jail in default of bail.

"All I want is the cure," he asserted. "I came up against it two years ago when I was sick."

Reiman had in his possession 100 grains of morphine when arrested and in his room in a South Negley avenue rooming house was found a pad of stolen money order blanks and a Toledo, O., postal rubber stamp, detectives testified.

Reiman passed one $75 money order in a downtown department store Saturday and, attempting to do the same in another store, was arrested after a battle with Fred Wills, private detective, it was testified. Wills and Reiman each appeared with a black eye. Reiman was under an abnormal influence when caught, it was testified. Stores, warned by national associations, were on watch for the money orders.

TRANSIT CHOICE CALLED 'ERROR'

George S. Davison, chairman of the city transit commission, has submitted to Council a letter calling it an "error in judgment" to have appointed Winters Haydock, engineer of the commission, to the special committee named by President James F. Malone to study a plan for a street car subway under Grant street from Water street to Eleventh street and under Penn avenue from Eleventh street to a point west of Twenty-seventh street.

Davison held that it was unwise to appoint a man to a committee which would make suggestions that the man, as engineer of the commission, later would have to pass upon.

Davison's letter said that his communication would be followed by a request that Haydock's appointment be recalled.

The city transit commission has been studying for years to work out a rapid transit plan to be financed with the $6,000,000 approved by voters in the 1919 bond issue schedule for a street car artery in the First and Second Wards.

A report on the latest developments of those studies, promised for submission to Council last January, is expected in the near future.

Council Gets Report On Street Lighting

Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, has submitted to Council a report of street lights installed at Council's request. Locations are: End of St. Paul street, Monastery street between Jefferson and St. Thomas streets, Huron street and Yard way steps, Brosville street between Monastery street and Fritz street.

1,000 HOMELESS IN FLOOD

SNOW LAKE, Ark., April 23.—(INS.)—Nearly 1,000 persons had been washed out of house and home today as the result yesterday of the crumbling of a part of the Laconia Circle Levee.

The alarm of the advancing wall by water was spread so quickly that there was no loss of life and nearly all the live stock was saved.

The break in the levee was attributed to the pressure of the backwaters which have been banked against it for weeks.

An area of nearly 13,000 acres was inundated.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 23.—(INS.)—Intense suffering and heavy property damage resulted here last night and today when the Genesee River, swollen by the incessant rainfall of the past week, overflowed its banks.

The water was still rising this morning, but the improved weather is expected to hold down further damage.

The rising waters marooned more than 50 families in Scottsville and river roads.

Conditions in the Susquehanna River valley, both in New York and Pennsylvania, likewise were reported bad.

Two lives were said to have been lost, farms inundated and hundreds made homeless along the winding course of the Susquehanna.

From New England came reports that numerous roads were under water and that rivers, reservoirs and dams were rising steadily.

TAYLOR GUEST OF HOOVER

Samuel A. Taylor, of Pittsburgh, past president of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, will be a luncheon guest of President Hoover Thursday when the President is to receive the John Fritz gold medal.

The medal—America's highest engineering award—was voted Mr. Hoover last year for his achievements in the realm of mining engineering. Mr. Taylor, according to W. A. Weidin, chairman of the Pittsburgh chapter of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, was delegated to represent the society because of his leadership in its affairs.

Captain of Famous Civil War Unit Dies

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., April 23.—Capt. William F. Lyon, 89, who commanded Company D of the famous Roundhead Regiment and served under Gen. Pope and Gen. McClellan in the Army of the Potomac and under Gen. Grant in the Battle of the Wilderness, is dead at the home of his son, Elmer M. Lyon, West Eleventh street. After returning from the war he came to Smith's Ferry and in 1866 married Miss Katherine Dawson, of Ohioville. He had lived in Rochester for more than half a century and had been prominent in civic affairs. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He leaves his widow and two sons, Elmer M. Lyon and Frank W. Lyon, of Pittsburgh.

The Bridal Windows

The thrill of the aeroplane honeymoon, the appeal of the prom dance and the coming out party of the debutante, the artistic character of the settings, the thread of romance which runs through the entire series, make the Bridal Windows of 1929 worth seeing by everyone.

They are to be viewed both by daytime and evening, and many people consider them "one of the best shows in town, this week." See them tonight, before you go to the theatre.

The Bride's Book

A Bridal Book, compiled by the Party and Wedding Bureau of the Personal Service Department, on the Balcony, is available for the guidance of brides-elect. It covers the bride's requirements from the types and number of frocks she will need, down to the number of tea towels her kitchen list should include.

Lightly Furred Coats

A Feature Group for Misses

$39.50

Next to the unfurred coat, in importance this season, is the coat lightly furred . . . trimmed with furs of true summer type, used sparingly. The coats in this special group for misses are typical.

They are of fabrics which give an effect of lightness, themselves, including fine basket-weaves, broadcloth and kashara, in black and dark blues.

The collars are of white ermine, beige ermine, white and dyed caracul, squirrel and monkey.

They are coats suited to ensemble wear, as well as being smart and practical separate wraps.

PARTNER GIVEN ESTATE SHARE

To her friend and business associate of many years, Ida M. Ripper, goes the bulk of the $17,000 estate of Josephine S. Kuipers, Emsworth grocer, by terms of her will, probated today.

Miss Ripper is given half interest in the business which was conducted under the firm name, Kuipers & Ripper, a house and lot at 263 Center avenue, Emsworth, and a lot at 227 Greenwood avenue, Emsworth. All cash in hand is left to the Rev. Father Theodore Myers, pastor of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Emsworth. Stock shares and interest in a mortgage are given respectively to the Little Sisters of the Poor and St. Joseph's Protectory, Emsworth. Gust Kuipers, Jr., Stella Martin and Rota McGinley are named other heirs.

Detective Menaced Her, His Wife Says

Her husband, a former secret service agent, threatened to kill her, according to a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Agnes Stewart, 22, of 107 Montgomery avenue, against Walter Stewart. He wrapped a blanket around his hand in which he held a revolver, saying "I'm doing this to deaden the sound," then pointed the gun at her but did not shoot, Mrs. Stewart said. Later he struck her with a handy billy, she claims.

DEATH STRIKES ORPHANS

MARIE

FLORENCE RUTH NAOMI MONTGOMERY

In the home of Mrs. Nora Montgomery, 2018 Watson street, death has joined poverty to wreck a brave woman's fight to support and educate four children of her dead sister. Florence, 8, was killed under an auto. There are funeral expenses to pay, and meanwhile, Mrs. Montgomery must continue to feed and clothe Naomi and Ruth, twins, 4; Marie, 10. She had been taking care of the four by working 16 hours daily as charwoman.

Injuries Fatal To Steel Worker

Injured while at work in the Edgar Thomson Steel Works, Homestead, George Kolic, 44, of 286 Fleet street, Rankin, died last night in the West Penn Hospital following an operation, according to the coroner's report. The accident occurred when Kolic was pinned between a mold and an oven Sunday.

CHILD'S DEATH CAPS SORROW

"I can't understand why she was taken from me. I wish I had gone instead," sobbed Mrs. Nora Montgomery, a widow, of 2018 Watson street, after identifying the body of her adopted daughter, Florence Clark Montgomery, 8, at the county morgue last night. Florence was killed by an automobile yesterday in Fifth avenue near Boston street.

Mrs. Montgomery, in her home, a three-room apartment modestly furnished, related how she had struggled to support Florence and her three sisters, Marie, 10; Ruth and Naomi, twins, 4, since the death a year ago of their mother, Mrs. Catherine Clark, Mrs. Montgomery's sister.

"My life has been all sorrow. Four years ago, my boy, Jimmie, 8 then, was killed in a gas explosion. His father died 10 months later, just from grief," the widow said with tears streaming down her cheeks.

Mrs. Montgomery realized when she adopted her sister's children that money would be needed. So she obtained employment in the Mellon National Bank and the Bakewell building as a cleaner. This consumed her time nightly, after which she hurried home to prepare Florence and Marie to attend St. Agnes school, Fifth avenue and Robinson street.

The accident occured at the noon lunch hour, near the school, while Florence was crossing the street.

Usually the two sisters went to school together, but Marie was too ill to go yesterday. A physician said that she was suffering from anemia.

Mrs. Montgomery has a son, Richard, 21, who is employed in an airplane factory in Buffalo. He, too, has helped to support the children.

Florence's body was removed to the undertaking establishment of William A. Dunn, Fifth avenue.

Walter Schmidt, 22, alleged driver, of 1055 Fairview street, Youngstown, was arrested and turned over to the coroner.

WIFE OF OHIO CONGRESSMAN DIES IN CRASH

OCALA, Fla., April 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frank B. Murphy, of Steubenville, O., wife of Congressman Murphy, of Ohio, was killed in an automobile which skidded and overturned nine miles from here yesterday.

The automobile was said to have been traveling at a high rate of speed when it went out of control and left the road, turning over several times.

Mrs. Murphy's mother, another woman and two men were brought to Ocala and placed in the hospital for treatment. Their injuries were said to be not serious.

Congressman Murphy was en route last night from Washington and was expected late today.

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 23.—Mrs. Mame Murphy, 59, wife of Congressman Frank Murphy, killed in an automobile crash in Florida, had been in delicate health for years and had been spending winters in the South. She was married to Mr. Murphy 40 years ago. The body will be brought to this city for interment.

Mrs. Murphy's mother, Mrs. Martha Barcus, injured in the crash, is 82 years old.

Pittsburgh Aviator Escapes in Crash

GREENVILLE, Pa., April 23.—When a wing on his airplane struck the ground, causing the plane to turn on its nose, A. W. Wilson, Pittsburgh aviator, escaped uninjured. The propeller on the ship was broken. Wilson had landed on a field near here and was attempting to take off for the Hoch landing Field, three miles from town.

Beauty Parlor Girls Stick to Boss; Freed

Two beauty specialists, sisters, who chose arrest rather than desert their employer, were discharged along with him in Morals Court today on disorderly conduct charges.

"If you take him take us too," the sisters, Alva, 25, and Ellen Bergstrom, 20, of 2517 River avenue, McKeesport, said when their manager, Roy Washer, of the Dorset Permanent Waving Company, 305 May Building, was arrested yesterday after a wrangle, police said, with Thomas D. Smart, who came from Chicago to take over the office.

Magistrate A. D. Brandon ruled there was no reason to hold either Washer or the girls, as an equity suit has been instituted to settle the dispute as to whether Washer or Smart is entitled to keep possession of the business, a branch office of a Chicago firm.

Thin hair? end that dandruff

When loose dandruff gets the upper hand, hair begins to fall out. Baldness often follows.

A quick, pleasant remedy for a dandruff condition is full strength Listerine, used systematically several days. You simply douse it on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously, using a little castor or olive oil when scalp or hair is excessively dry. Keep this treatment up for several days. You will be amazed at the quick improvement.

Listerine is successful against dandruff which is a germ condition because Listerine is powerful against germs—kills 200,000,000 of the Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) in 15 seconds. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

MAN WHO ESCAPED PRISON TO AVENGE SIRE, CAUGHT

DAVENPORT, Okla., April 23.—(AP.)—"Young Bill" Tilghman, who escaped from the Tennessee Penitentiary a month ago to avenge the slaying of his father, Bill Tilghman, famous frontier peace officer, was on his way back to prison today, his quest lost by a scant 15 minutes.

Young Tilghman, well known here, was arrested by Marvin Roberts, chief of police, a quarter of an hour before Wylie Lynn, a former Federal prohibition officer, who shot and killed his father at Cromwell, Okla., five years ago, arrived on a bus. He had heard Lynn was a passenger on the bus and was waiting for him with two guns.

"The man who shot my father was on that stage that arrived a few minutes after you picked me up," he told Roberts. "I thought perhaps I'd get a chance to meet him."

Under the name of F. B. Wilson, young Tilghman was serving a sentence in the Tennessee prison for attempted robbery of a Memphis bank when he escaped.

The elder Tilghman, known as one of the most fearless peace officers of Wild West days, was shot and killed in an altercation with Lynn.

Lynn was tried for the slaying, but was acquitted when he pleaded self-defense.

Fortune 14 Cents, Novelist Ends Life

BUDAPEST, April 23.—(AP.)—Faced with poverty, Ladislaus Cholnoky, well-known novelist, jumped into the Danube River yesterday and drowned. A patrol boat recovered the body. An envelope found in a pocket held a message directing that his last early possessions, 14 cents, should be given to the Home for Indigent Writers, which recently had refused to help him.

CITY OFFERED RARE TREE FOR PARK

A rare specimen of a tree, whose botanical classification is Franklinia Alatamaha, has been offered for planting in one of Pittsburgh parks.

The offer was made by the owner, A. J. Deer, of 4118 Gittens street, in a letter to Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works.

An English botanist of colonial days discovered the tree on the Alatamaha River in Georgia in 1765. It was eagerly sought for its great beauty and disappeared from the wold in 1790. The tree since has existed precariously as lawn specimens.

The tree was originally brought here by Xavier Schmidt, of Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, and planted on the lawn of his sister, Mrs. Charles Geschwind. Although it is a native of Georgia, the tree has withstood local winters for more than 20 years.

Secimens have been furnished to the bureau of plant industry at Washington, D. C.; to Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York, who is a great flower lover; and to Ohio and Pennsylvania Agricultural Colleges.

Boat Ride Planned By Courtesy Club

Members of the Courtesy Club, an employes' organization of the Fort Pitt Hotel, are planning a boat excursion on May 15 aboard the steamer Julia Belle Swain. Dancing and entertainment, with vaudeville acts from local theaters, are scheduled on the program, with local talent, including Tommy Dixon and Ben Field. The committee includes E. C. Ferris, chairman; Harold Goodwin, Ed Sullivan, Dennis Conway, Miss Della Riley, Miss S. Straum and Ike Michelson.

"Tormentors" Club To Promote Art

NEW YORK April 23.—(AP.)—"The Tormentors" has been chartered as an exclusive club for the cultivation of dramatic, musical, literary and artistic talent. It plans to present worthy plays irrespective of their box office value. Among the members of the council are Frank A. 7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

FAMOUS HOTEL HEAD TELLS OF DRY EVILS

Advocates of unadulterated prohibition should tour the white light district of any great city in the evening hours and see prohibition evils in their "pristine and naked brilliancy," says Oscar Tschirky, famous maitre de hotel of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York city. Present day evils of prohibition provide a greater lesson in temperance and moderation, in his opinion, than the old saloon did in its palmiest days.

Oscar's statement was made in connection with the temperance prize contest of William Randolph Hearst, with its award of $25,000 for a sound and constructive plan as a substitute for the present Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead act.

DRINKING GOES ON

Drinking has not materialy decreased, he asserts, but the liquids that are being consumed are causing many times the physical and moral damage that the worst of the beverages did in the old days.

Hotels are suffering serious losses in their revenues, and have been forced to adopt makeshifts of all kinds in an effort to recoup and save themselves.

Hooch sprees are causing blindness; digestive ulcers and weakened hearts that are more serious from the standpoint of public and social welfare than ever existed in the old days.

PROBLEM OF YOUTH

The number of "old soaks" may have been reduced, but the increased number of boys and girls that are drinking liquids that should never be taken into the human system has created a new national problem. He went on to say:

"Prohibition has two sides: A business side and a moral side. It has been called a great moral experiment. We shouuld look at it also as a business experiment. I am forced to the conclusion that it is a great unmoral makeshift.

"So much stress has been laid upon the moral side of prohibition that I wish to look at that first, although the arguments pro and con for the moral and business sides are closely linked together.

"From my personal observation I can say that prohibition has brought a chain of moral evils that are greater and deeper than any that were contended with in the old days. The toll and havoc among the younger generation is terrible.

WAVE OF IMMORALITY

"Young people are not only drinking things that should never be taken into the human system, but it is leading to conduct and behavior that is almost unbelievable. As a precept for moral conduct, prohibition is probably the greatest failure that any nation has ever indulged in or had thrust upon it.

"Prohibition 'morality' is thrusting a wave of immorality upon this country that may well cause every citizen to pause and consider, and look at the social problem that is growing by leaps and bounds."

Turning to the business side, Oscar said that the hotels had suffered irretrievable losses through prohibition. A considerable part of the hotel revenues before prohibition were in the sale of beverages, he said, and it has not been possible since then to make up this loss by increased room rates. He added:

"Hotels are having to rent out ground floor space to merchandizing shops, and bring in all kinds of merchandizing ventures, as a part of their business. The dining rooms alone will not cover the ground floor investments of hotels.

SPEAKEASIES DEPLORED

"Today we serve good food and give good service to our guests. But if they want a drink they go out to some side street and find an unsanitary and unsupervised speakeasy and order hooch. The liquor they get is worse in quality than the stuff sold in the lowest saloon in the old days.

"Prohibition as I see it has defeated the objective that was sought at the outset. It has created a vast unlawful business in the place of a lawful business, and given us a chain of accompanying evils to which we cannot close our eyes, and hold the most serious consequences if unrestrained and unchecked.

"We have not yet reached the millenium in this country, and we cannot regulate and control human conduct in matters that are not wrong in their essence of legislative edict.

"Education of the people in the principles of moderation, self restraint and moderation, and the enjoyment of things within reasonable bounds, is the only course that is left open if we are to continue as a progressive and advancing people."

Audubon Society To Hear Explorer

Dr. W. E. Clyde Todd, who has been a member of the Semple expeditions to the Hudson Bay country for several years, will tell of his recent work there, before the Audubon Society of Western Pennsylvania tomorrow evening in the educational room of the Carnegie Museum. The society will hold its fifth annual children's outing May 11. The leaders and meeting places are as follows: Schenley Park, library door at 9 a. m., Miss Helen Blair; Highland Park, car barns at 2 p. m., Edwin Hurd Riggs; McKinley Park, 9 a. m., Miss Alva Held; Frick Woods, 2 p. m., Miss Helen Blair.

Bar Association To Honor Stadtfeld

Attorney Joseph Stadtfeld, retiring president of the Allegheny County Bar Association, will be honored by the association at a testimonial dinner May 9 at Hotel Schenley, it was announced today. A committee of attorneys named to arrange the affair includes W. W. Stoner, A. C. Hirsch, Maurice Chaitkin, W. F. Berger and George J. Campbell. Attorney William Watson Smith, now vice president of the body, will succeed Stadtfeld.

Only Eight Days More!

Only eight days more before the end of the Hearst $25,000 Temperance Prize Contest, which has done more to crystallize anti-prohibition sentiment than any other agency in the history of true temperance. The competition closes at midnight, Tuesday, April 30. No plans postmarked after that hour can be entertained by the judges.

The hour has struck for America to assert itself with respect to debauchery and crime saturation. Sinister, powerful influences, which work to defeat any modification of prohibition and encourage misguided but well-meaning reformers in the belief that prohibition will eventually prohibit, are the prosperous foes of any change in the law.

Read the contest rules and send in your idea of how best to free America of its "old man of the sea," strangler of morals and decency.

Doherty Urges Firms Train Own Heads

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

(Copyright, 1929, International News Service.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 23.—"Don't hire men away from other companies. Train your own executives.

"Pick men of character. Study their good and bad points, develop them and give them responsibilities. Promote and encourage them. They will make good for themselves and for you. They will make your business a success."

Henry L. Doherty, one of America's outstanding business men, head of the Cities Service Corporation, a $1,000,000,000 public utilities enterprise, a prominent figure in Wall Street, a leading oil producer and distributor, and a man whose wealth is variously estimated from $25,000,000 to $200,000,000, gave this advice to business men today through an exclusive interview with International News Service in his suite at the Traymore Hotel.

STARTED AS POOR BOY

Mr. Doherty, a "self-made man" in every sense of the word, started his career as a comparatively poor boy with very little education. His career reads like a Horatio Alger fiction story.

"I left school at the age of 12 and I haven't had any schooling since except what I picked up in the school of experience," said Mr. Doherty.

A distinguished-looking man, large of physique, with a shock of gray hair and a gray Van Dyke beard, Mr. Doherty is today—at the age of 58—in a position where he employs the best brains of the country and, strangely enough, he shows a decided tendency to hire college and university men.

"I don't say a college education is necessary to business success," he explained, "but a college training furnishes an almost essential basis for work that is professional or scientific in character.

"I prefer men who have had to work their way through college. They have more drive than those who do not have to bother about tuition. There are, of course, a great many cases where men make good in a big way without college training.

SELF-STUDY IMPORTANT

"Self-study is an important factor in success. Too many college men lay aside their text books and cease to study after they leave school. They are the ones that fall in the business world. One must not only obtain an education but improve upon it."

In training men for high executive positions in his public utilities company, which operates in 300 cities in the United States and Canada, Mr. Doherty makes a thorough study of them, their reactions, personal qualifications, whether they are naturally optimistic or pessimistic, etc.

"A man must not only conduct himself well inside the office, but on the outside too," he observed. "We know how all our important employes behave."

"You watch what they do after hours?" he was asked.

"Oh, we have no spying system or anything like that," he replied, "but it is surprising how much the boss of any big corporation knows of his key men. You can generally tell the pace at which any of your men are living. I am often surprised to read of big bank thefts. Bank presidents must be blind sometimes. You read where a man who has been getting a $10,000 salary has been living at a $20,000 pace. The bank officials should have known that in advance."

NO QUICK DECISIONS

Discussing executive ability, Mr. Doherty made the assertion that "in business, there should be no quick decisions—at any rate very few."

"Quick decisions are usually expensive," he said. "The business should be so planned and thought out so that nearly every decision would be made long in advance. These hustle bustle decisions are not an indication of a good executive."

Doherty declared he was opposed to "catch as catch can" methods of employing men and equally opposed to the sudden discharging of employes. He said time was when the public utilities companies were much like the railroads; they didn't care how they treated the public.

"Today, however, no business is better conducted than the public utility business," he asserted. "I have long stressed the necessity of courtesy of the part of my employes.

"I think employes who deal with the public are much more polite than they were years ago. The American public did not demand courtesy years ago, but now they want 100 per cent."

This is the last of three articles based on an interview with Mr. Doherty.

Divorce Suit Based On Skillet Attacks

April Showers

By Truda Dahl

THE April girl is a twin all by herself. Like the month for which she is named, she is as temperamental as one can possibly be. One day she's all sunshine, laughter and gayety, the pride, joy and despair of all who come near her. Next day she's weeping and melancholy and seemingly in the depths of despair—and she sways everyone around with her teary mood.

So don't mind when you see signs of this mood overtaking her. Just put it down to the April Showers, for that's exactly what it all is. One minute sunshine, the next minute rain. Of course, it's trying on her friends, but they know she's the April Girl and forgives her. For capricious April is the best loved of all the months, and all her daughters are as lovable as she herself.

When the showers start, kiss away the tears, and you'll see the sunshine of her happy smile breaking through the clouded little face. It's just her way and, if you love her, you love all her April ways.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary's Manner Recalls to Madge the Old Blackmail Bugaboo.

THERE had been something in Mary Harrison's voice and manner as she spoke of Noel to Prince Georges over the telephone to forgive her escapade as the masked dancer, and keep on with her training for the glittering goal which brought me to a sudden halt in the hall while I tried to fathom its meaning.

It was indefinable, elusive, but I fancied that she seemed freer, less circumscribed by Philip Veritzen's prohibition than she had been since the great producer exacted from her the mysterious condition of keeping on as his protegee. She never had divulged the terms by which he promised of being "the most successful Veritzen actress," but I was certain from my own observation and from what Noel had told me that she had promised to discourage the boy's romantic adoration for her, and see him as seldom as the close association between the families would permit.

So far she had kept that compact religiously. But a psychic little intuition, born of her manner, told me that she was on the verge of rebellion, and with my knowledge of her flaming ambition for a stage career I wondered what had happened to make her send this indirect summons to Noel with its indefinable breathing of a resolve to let down the barriers which Philip Veritzen's mandate had erected between them.

Involuntarily my thoughts flew back to the dreadful experience which Mary's escapade as the masked dancer had brought her. In that time of peril it had been young Noel Veritzen who had defended her from Jack Leslie and enabled the rest of us to arrive at the dancer's apartment in time.

Was it possible that for some mysterious reason she again needed a champion? Again I saw her check book with its many stubs bearing the name of Janet Rawdon, the sums representing nearly the whole of each weekly allowance from the Braithwaites. I had thrust down the ugly word, blackmail, as the key to those mysterious entries, but it reared its head again. Was Jack Leslie threatening her through one of his associates—and did she intend to appeal to Noel for aid in her extremity?

Against this sinister suspicion was pitted by Mary's apparent gayety. Surely no one with such a Damoclean sword over her head could have such a care-free air as Dicky's young niece was assuming. And yet—I remembered her histrionic ability and wondered if perchance her careless merriment were not masking deadly fear.

With the resolve to watch her closely, I went back into the living room, meeting Mother Graham with Charles Owen escorting her most deferentially, and Katherine just behind them with eyes which as they met mine held amusement—and warning.

My mother-in-law was in high good humor as she exchanged his arm for Katherine's.

"I'm going to close my door tight," she said, "so don't worry about their music disturbing me. Let them dance as long as they want to."

"Hardly that, mother," I smiled, "or the sun would be high before they stopped. But it's sweet of you not to think of yourself."

"I loved to dance myself, once," she said, and there was the wistful note in her voice which one hears so pathetically often from old people.

"I gave Katherine a signal to come down again later, and then turned to my young guests just as Ronald said worriedly:

"'Two men and a girl coming! But that will still leave us a man short for dancing!'"

"What's the matter with Uncle Charlie?" Carolyn demanded. "He's the niftiest dancer in seven states."

When Making Toast

When making toast, slightly heat one side of the bread and then the other, leaving all browning to the last. This allows the moisture to evaporate.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Life and Good Health Depend on the Liver

YOUR poor old liver is a much-abused organ. It is called upon to take from your system great quantities of poisons, some of them perfectly natural and, in that sense, "proper." But unfortunately we are careless of our highest welfare and are inclined not to guard the liver against unnecessary demands upon its powers.

DR. COPELAND

An important part of the blood vessel system of the body, is a group of veins beginning in the lower intestine and bowel. The blood is carried from here into larger veins, all part of what is called the "portal system" In this way it reaches the liver.

The portal blood is filled with bacteria and poisons which have originated in the waste materials in the bowel. Of course, nature has adopted wonderful protective measures and, under fairly normal conditions, will prevent the escape through the portal system of more such agents than the liver can destroy or modify without undue effort.

The liver is a laboratory where wonderful things are done. It is its function to "work over" the poisonous things and feed them into the general blood circulation so slowly, or so changed, that they do us no harm.

If it were not for this remarkable action, these poisons would get immediately into the general blood supply and life would be pretty doubtful. As it is, however, this much-abused liver does us a good turn many times a day. It is one of our best friends.

One of the faults of modern life is the consumption of foods that make for constipation and fermentation in the bowel. Germ action goes on and poisons are developed which are bad for us.

It is not well for us to overlook the evil effects of constipation. There can be no doubt that it is capable of doing us real harm. Except for the watchful care of the liver, in filtering out these poisons, we would certainly suffer far more than we do.

No longer do we talk of "biliousness" as our ancestors did, but it cannot be denied that many a person is hampered in his work by the neglect of intestinal cleanliness. The poor liver has been overworked in consequence and has failed to keep the overabundance of poisons from reaching the vital parts.

Headache is the most familiar symptom. Sickness at the stomach, sleepiness, unwillingness to work, loss of appetite, irritability, mental dullness, coated tongue, brown spots of the skin, unclean complexion dark circles around the eyes—all these are signs of a neglected intestine or an overworked liver.

Each of us should be careful about the diet. Roughage to cleanse the intestinal walls, fruit and vegetables and proper eating habits generally are essential for our general welfare.

Life depends on the liver!

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Bunkers on the Course of Love

A WOMAN always asks herself, "Have I the heart for this love affair?" A man asks himself only, "Have I the time—and the inclination?

* * *

Most of a man's follies come from weakness of the will or softening of the brain; most of a woman's from softening of the heart or weakness of the vanity.

* * *

The old-fashioned woman was always begging a man to "explain" things; the modern woman shoots him first, and then lets the psychonalysts do the explaining.

HELEN ROWLAND

Any man is still so much of a child at heart that he would rather have you admire him than adore him, amuse him than improve him, and play with him than idealize him.

* * *

In a married man's opinion, no woman needs a course in memory training; what she needs are a few good, effective lessons in the gentle art of FORGETTING.

Many a good husband will sacrifice himself to provide for the wife's future, who won't even sacrifice a Saturday afternoon ball game in order to brighten up her present.

The tyro wastes his time telling a woman how pretty she is; but a seasoned diplomat improves his by telling her how much prettier she is than some other woman.

The modern woman isn't worrying about the women who try to vamp her husband; she's saving her energy until he meets one who "sympathizes" with him.

A woman spends half her time shopping for the clothes she'll need if she goes anywhere—and the other half thinking up some place to go.

* * *

Somehow, these whirlwind love affairs always end either in a stormy divorce or a dead calm of mutual apathy.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Gentlemen First

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I have known a certain young man for about six months. His aunt and uncle, who have raised him, have expressed a desire to meet me. They have invited me to dinner at their home. What would be the correct thing to say when leaving?

2. Also, in being seated at a theater, who follows the usher to the seats? The lady or the gentleman? R. A. S.

SOMETHING like this to express your appreciation of such fine hospitality: "Goodby, Mrs. Woods, and thank you so much for one of the happiest evenings that I have ever had. You were so wondrously friendly to invite me to come to your home, and I cannot tell you how much I loved coming."

2. There is discussion about this. The custom most prevalent is for the lady to follow the usher, the gentleman following the lady. But to my way of thing, it is far more sensible for the man to follow the usher so that he will have the opportunity of seeing that the right seats are found, and so that he may stand at the head of the row to assist the lady to her seat in the row.

The Church Wedding

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

May I compliment you on our interesting department? At a church wedding, where the bride wears a veil, is it absolutely necessary for the bridegroom, father and ushers to wear morning suits, or would dark street suits be appropriate? ANXIOUS.

THANK you, very much, my friend, for your kind words. Yes, for the formal wedding (and it is a formal wedding when the bride wears a veil) the gentlemen of the wedding party should wear formal clothes, the cutaway coats and dark striped trousers for the day wedding.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, April 24

A DAY of rather negative planetary vibrations justifies the presage of a fairly routine state of affairs. While the wit will be stimulated to pleasant rather than profitable conversation, yet there is likewise danger of the tongue, with its glibness and versatility, running into hazardous channels. The affliction of Mercury points to turbulence, sarcasm and other perils which may offset the fair promise of Venus parallel Mercury, token of popularity and gain through artistic talents, writings and good fellowship.

Those whose birthday it is may reap many advantages and gain as well as personal popularity and pleasure during the year by keeping a leash on a sharp tongue and alert mind, adhering to veracity and probity in word and act.

A child born on this day may be brilliant and popular, succeeding in art, literature and society.

"THIS ENDS DISHPAN DRUDGERY FOR ME" SAYS HOUSEWIFE

Uses new super-cleanser that turns dishpan grease to soap

Wash dishes in half the time! The very idea. Sounds impossible. But still it's true.

Now you can say goodbye to all that drudgery.

You don't have to rub and scrub to get china clean any more. There's no need now to polish glasses with a towel. No need to spend countless minutes scouring frying pans clean.

How do you do it? With "Old Witch," the new-type ammoniated cleaning fluid that thousands of women have adopted.

"Old Witch" is the new ammonia discovery. A super-cleanser 3 times as efficient as ordinary ammonia.

It polishes . . . without rubbing. Cleans . . . without scrubbing. Actually turns grease into soap.

And best of all, "Old Witch" actually saves your hands . . . keeps them satiny smooth, never coarse and red-looking.

A giant-sized bottle costs only 35¢ . . . so you see it's not expensive. Remember, "Old Witch" is what you ask for . . . your grocer has it now.

LAMBS' GAMBOL STARS WILL BROADCAST TONIGHT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

THE evening is pretty well divided for lovers of jazz and the classics, with an attraction extraordinary thrown in for good measure.

Such notables as James J. Corbett, Julius Tannen, Donald Brian and Andrew Mack are expected to entertain over KDKA at 9 o'clock during a pre-view of the Lambs' Gambol in New York City. This is the attraction extraordinary.

Franz Liszt wrote many things, but none seems to get the play of his "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2." This work will be heard during a "Life of Liszt" program over WCAE at 9 o'clock and again at 10:30 o'clock over KDKA in a fox-trot arrangement by the Orchestradians. Gene Austin, crooning tenor, is scheduled to appear with the Orchestradians.

MARTY SCHRAMM AT WJAS

Jazz enthusiasts will have Paul Whiteman, featuring a "Showboat" medley, WJAS at 9 p. m.; the Eskimos in a descriptive number, "Big Ben," WCAE at 10 o'clock; Guy Lombardo's Canadians with the comedy team of O'Day and Ashley at 11 over WJAS, and the Gerogia Crackers on the Keith-Orpheum Hour, WCAE at 11 o'clock. Lovers of good singing will find a choice bit in the Welsh Glee Men, also featured on the Keith-Orpheum presentation.

Marty Schramm.

George M. Cohan hits will be featured on the Showbox Hour, WLW at 9 o'clock.

Marty Schramm's Orchestra will augment Jim Hughes' company on the program of the Kelvinator Boys, WJAS at 7:01 p. m.

Two of Herbert's best known compositions, "Gypsy Love Song" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" will be sung on the Fort Pitt program at 8:30 from WJAS. "Down Where the Wurtzberger Flows," the feature drinking song, will introduce a new member of the Fort Pitt entertainers.

WJAS will broadcast a play-by-play account of the Pirate-Cub opener at Forbes Field tomorrow, starting at 1 o'clock or shortly after.

Paul Whiteman

Tonight on Columbia network coast-to-coast 9:00 to 10:00 P. M.

WIFE CHARGES HE TRIED TO RUN HER DOWN IN CAB

Mrs. Elsie Gordon, 23, 3420 Middletown road, wants a divorce from Arthur Gordon.

He drank, she charged, stayed out all night, threw dishes at her, choked her, threatened to kill her, and on one occasion ran his taxicab over the sidewalk after her, she testified before Judge Josiah Cohen this morning.

They were married October 15, 1925 and were separated August 29, 1927.

Mrs. Carrie Harrison, Mrs. Gordon's mother, also testified as to her daughter's alleged mistreatment at the hands of her husband. She declared Gordon came to the house one night last summer with two other men in his taxicab and when refused admittance, she said, he began firing a revolver through windows and doors. She said he fired nine shots at the house.

BRADDOCK MAN SHOT TO DEATH

County detectives and Braddock police today were conducting a search for "Slim" Milton, 30, Negro, who is alleged to have shot to death Eugene Lowry, 28, of 557 Braddock avenue, and wounded Arthur Bass, 29, of 514 Sylvan avenue, Negroes, both of Braddock, in Center street, Braddock, last night. A dozen pedestrians fled to cover as the Negro opened fire on the pair.

Lowry and Milton quarreled in a poolroom in Sixth street, over some money. Milton left and an hour later confronted Lowry and Bass in Center street. Without warning, the assailant pulled out a revolver and fired, police said.

Five-Day Prayer Vigil Ends in Her Arrest

Firm in the belief that prayer would restore her nephew to life, Mrs. Annabelle Travis, 40, Negro, of 320 Ninth street, Braddock, prayed over the body of John Crowden, 21, Negro, in her home for five days, Braddock police said.

Answering complaints from neighbors, Patrolman Richard Butler called at the house and found the door locked. Butler broke in, to meet with remonstrances.

The officer arrested the woman, who is being held for a mental examination.

Gangsters Battle At 70 Miles an Hour

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—(INS.)—Scores of pedestrians were thrown into a frenzy of fear early today as two auto loads of gangsters fought a pitched battle from their machines while moving at 70 miles an hour. Several persons narrowly missed injury when bullets screeched over their heads. The gangsters escaped.

American Girl Wed In Oriental Romance

TOKIO, April 23.—(AP.)—Miss Metta-Louise Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baldwin Orr, of New York, was married today to Roger C. Tredwell, American consul general at Hong Kong in the American consulate. Miss Orr was making a world tour when she met Tredwell at Hong Kong on March 29. Two days later, Easter, they announced their engagement.

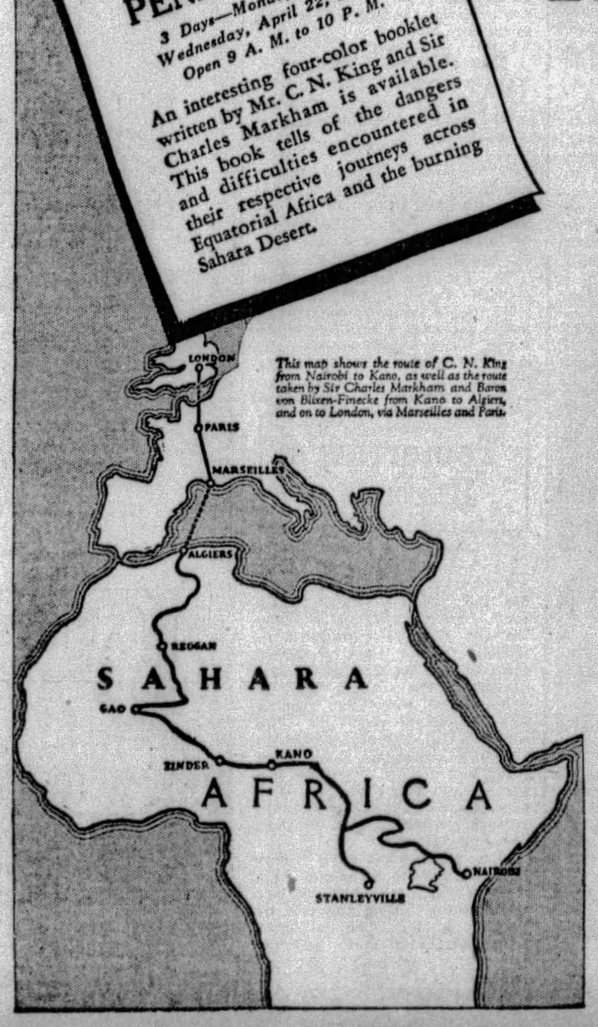
An interesting four-color booklet written by Mr. C. N. King and Sir Charles Markham is available. This book tells of the dangers and difficulties encountered in their respective journeys across Equatorial Africa and the burning Sahara Desert.



This map shows the route of C. N. King from Nairobi to Kano, as well as the route taken by Sir Charles Markham and Baron von Blixen-Finecke from Kano to Algiers, and on to London, via Marseilles and Paris.

First Stock Motor Truck to Cross the Sahara Comes to Pittsburgh

SEASONED desert travelers said it could not be done, but Sir Charles Markham and Baron von Blixen-Finecke—in their stock-model International Special Delivery truck—plunged across the arid wastes of the Sahara Desert to success. And the whole world marveled at their achievement.

Over 2,800 miles of burning, shifting sand; through sixteen days of 125-degree temperature; across waterless wastes, where it has never been known to rain; trackless, dangerous country, never before conquered by a stock four-wheeled motor vehicle. And this was the same truck which C. N. King had already piloted across Equatorial Africa, 3,800 adventurous miles in nineteen driving days.

Sir Charles and Baron Blixen faced death and destruction for days; with their very lives depending upon the performance of their International. And through the whole experience they never once had occasion to doubt its ability to carry on. This, with a truck built for your kind of service.

Now, this famous International truck comes to America in order that every one may see and examine the truck that conquered the Sahara Desert. We invite you to come and see this International while it is on exhibition here.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

CELEBRITIES TO FEATURE BOYS' WEEK FETE

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

LOCAL HALL OF FAME: Grace Stuart, Mary L. Hulsman, Kathryn H. Power, Dora C. Weiss, Frances P. Darr, Frances R. Howell, Mary E. McKelvey, Emily R. Alter, Violet Symons, Virginia Larson, Carola Goerner, M. H. Kunkle.

Reason: They sat patiently through a short talk on newspaper work by Sidewalks.

They are members of the local women's advertising club, their work calling for the preparation of advertisements you see in the newspapers.

The few talks made by Sidewalks develop the keen interest the average person takes in newspaper work. It comes from the fact that men and women in newspaper work are story-tellers and everyone, whether in the newspaper business or out of it, knows he has a story in him, if but given the chance to write.

THE girls of the advertising club are interesting and entertaining because they are "up" on what is going on. They follow good books, good plays, good magazines and can talk intelligently on subjects of interest.

* * *

It is the notion here that all clubs make mistakes in calling in outside speakers. Every luncheon club would be far more interesting if each member were asked to give his or her experience in the work he or she follows.

* * *

THE girls of the club were interested in such writing men as Arthur Brisbane, Herbert Kaufman, O. O. McIntyre, Heywood Broun, Walter Lippmann and many others. In this they have something in common with the workaday reporter who would rather talk about writing men than anything else in the world.

The attendance at the luncheon the other day, Miss Hulsman said, was a little sub-normal. Apparently, the error of announcing the speaker in advance had been made.

Jim Patterson, who sells books in a downtown store, was telling about a recent visit of Count von Luckner, who wrote a thrilling sea story of a German raider which he commanded during the late war. He is, incidentally, a strong man. One of his favorite exhibitions is to take a telephone book and tear it into two parts with one effort.

BOOK-READING is on the rise, says Mr. Patterson, a relative by the way of Judge Frank Patterson, and book-selling is becoming a big business. The various book guilds and book-of-the-month clubs, instead of hurting retail sales, seem to be increasing them. People, through these clubs, get in the habit of reading—and buy more books.

* * *

The popular pot boilers still go better than other works, but biography (the best reading of all in my opinion) is on the rise. Poetry (as seems here to be proper) moves slowly.

THERE are good jobs in book departments. Some of the men in charge make lengthy trips to Europe to buy the classics in fine bindings for the wealthier trade.

* * *

The writers who come here to talk to the ladies' clubs, always interested in authors, visit the local stores, inquire how their books are moving, and autograph a few books to stimulate sales.

REZONING IN MT. LEBANON DEFEATED

More than 500 Mt. Lebanon citizens last night at a hearing held by the township commissioners in the Washington School auditorium, Washington road, were jubilant over the decision made by the commissioners refusing to rezone one block in Washington road. The action halts the project for a $1,500,000 apartment house E. H. Shaffer and associates had planned to erect at Castle Shannon and Washington roads.

A letter from Mr. Shaffer was read, asking that his petition for rezoning of the block be "withheld." Leaders of the Mt. Lebanon Civic League and citizens fighting the proposed rezoning demanded in speeches to the commissioners that his request be ignored and the ordinance authorizing the rezoning, which had already passed two hearings, be definitely defeated.

It was voted down unanimously by the commissioners after a number of residents had spoken, petitions bearing more than 800 names read, and a rising vote taken against the ordinance.

Attorney Edward B. Goldsmith introduced the speakers, including Mrs. H. L. Beach, representing the Mt. Lebanon Women's Club, and Ralph L. C. Jeffery, representing the Mt. Lebanon Community Association, both of which joined the Mt. Lebanon Civic Association in opposing the proposed apartment. Other speakers were Louis Barach, Attorney E. C. Lynn, Robert K. Boyer, Justus Mulert, Fred Cassell and Joseph Haller. President of the board, C. E. Scheck, presided.

FIRE DAMAGES ROW OF SHOPS

Fire of undetermined origin which broke out last night in the furniture repair shop of Charles Fesgen, 2818 California avenue, spread to adjoining frame dwellings and resulted in damage estimated at $4,000 by Battalion Chief Daniel Jones.

The confectionery store of Rose Lutz, 2816 California avenue, on one side of the Fesgen shop and the meat market of J. P. Ondek, 2820 California avenue, on the other side were damaged by the flames. All the buildings are of frame construction.

Resigns

THE REV. J. D. WATERS

The Rev. Mr. Waters, witness for the Commonwealth in the murder trial of Attorney Fayette J. Tyrrell, Sunday School superintendent, for the shooting of Phillip Clark in the church, has resigned his pastorate at First Christian Church of Munhall for a pastorate at Princeton, Ind.

Officers Elected By Avalon Church

At the annual congregational meeting of the Avalon Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. James E. Detweiler, pastor, the following officers were chosen: Elders, A. F. Toy, R. M. McClurg, C. M. Hammond, A. V. Baker, J. E. Baldridge, S. K. Hammer, A. B. Hooker, R. W. Hissrich; deacons, J. D. Dils and D. E. Fleming; trustees, H. P. Rankin, M. K. Miller and E. F. Clark.

Instructor in Science To Address Club

A lecture and entertainment under auspices of the Avalon Science Club will be given in the Avalon High School auditorium the night of April 30. Louis Williams, science entertainer, will illustrate the accomplishments of science and possibilities of the future. Soap bubbles that explode and electrical fireworks will be among the demonstrations.

VOTERS PLAN INSTITUTE IN EAST END

A two-day voters' institute will be held in the Second Prebyterian Church of Wilkinsburg Thursday and Friday for the purpose of furnishing residents of the community with a new understanding of prohibition reform and enforcement problems.

The Rev. E. C. Weaver, the Rev. Hugh Leith, the Rev. J. G. Clark, and the Rev. O. H. Sisson, pastors of Wilkinsburg churches, will preside at the various sessions during which courses of instruction in the form of government; formation of the constitution; the Eighteenth amendment; the Volstead act and law enforcement will be given.

O. W. Stewart, of Chicago, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation, Norma C. Brown, secretary of the foundation, and Col. A. L. Moudy will speak and will conduct discussions on the various questions that arise.

ZONE HEARING IN ROSS TWP.

The Ross Township commissioners last night held a public hearing on the proposed zoning law and map that has been prepared by a zoning commission. Previous meetings had been held in different districts of the township, and general approval was given the proposal.

Last night only one objection developed to the zoning map as drafted by Attorney John E. Winner, township solicitor. One resident desired a residential district changed to commercial to permit wider scope in building construction.

At a meeting of the commissioners next Monday night the zoning measure will be introduced, and likely will be passed on first and second readings.

BRADDOCK C. E. HOLDS RALLY

The annual spring "Youth for Christ" rally of the Braddock Christian Endeavor Union will be held tonight in the Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. An unusual program, including an impressive installation exercise, to be in the form of a candle light service, has been arranged.

The Braddock union includes various societies of Pitcairn, Wall, Wilmerding, Turtle Creek, East Pittsburgh, Braddock, Homestead, Swissvale, Munhall, Patton Township and part of Wilkins and Hays townships. Music will be by the choir of the Wildin C. E. Society of Wilmerding. A social program will be given after the rally.

Milton Cross Wins Announcing Medal

Milton J. Cross, radio announcer for the National Broadcasting Company, whose voice is heard frequently in Pittsburgh in broadcasts over KDKA and WCAE, was awarded the first gold medal for good diction in radio announcing at noon today by the American Academy of Arts, New York City. Considerable rivalry had been displayed among announcers for the award and fans awaited with interest the outcome. Cass Gilbert presented the medal.

Check Forger Suspect Is Held for Court

Casper Perry, 35, of Republic, arrested by Constable John Miller on a charge of forgery on a check of Miss Nellie Hagerty, of Forbes street, for $45, and another check for the same amount, was held for court on that charge when he plead guilty before Justice of the Peace John P. Kearcher, 79 South Thirteenth street, yesterday. Perry was committed to the county jail when he was unable to post a bond for his release to await his trial. Perry was arrested at his home Saturday.

Bathes as Firemen Fight Blaze on Roof of Home

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 23.—While firemen played a stream of water on the burning roof of his house, Dorey McKinney, of McKinley avenue, here, calmly continued his ablutions in the family bathtub. When he had completed his bath, he dressed and went outside to thank the firemen. The damage was $250.

BOND ISSUE IS INDORSED AT WEST VIEW

By unanimous vote, a meeting of West View citizens in the Junior High School auditorium last night approved the $50,000 borough bond issue and the $130,000 school issue to be voted on at a special election April 30.

Not a voice was raised in objection to the proposed bond issues. George Heil and several other citizens praised the borough council for its improvement program. Several others asked questions as to streets that are to be improved under the schedule.

Talks in behalf of the school bond issue were given by Dr. A. E. Torrens, president, and E. C. Werner, a member of the school board, and by Prof. H. N. Hennon, supervising principal of schools.

The need of additional facilities, especially at the Oakwood School, was stressed if the schools are to keep pace with the rapidly growing population.

Speakers for the borough bond issues were Councilman Walter F. Hunt, Borough Clerk C. A. McClain and Treasurer Harry Wagner.

C. V. Shoup, president of the West View Board of Trade, presided.

HITS TROLLEY, DRIVER HELD

Crashing into a Carson street car stopped at South Thirty-fourth and Carson streets, which was receiving passengers at 12:30 o'clock this morning, George Hammer, 34, of 602 DuBois street, was held on a charge of reckless driving.

According to Wagonman Harry Payne, the arresting officer, Hammer was driving his automobile eastbound on Carson street, when he struck the street car, which was bound in the opposite direction. The street car fender was broken off and the automobile badly damaged.

Austin Ireland, 33, of 3515 Ashton street, a passenger in Hammer's car, was charged with drunkenness. They will get a hearing in Traffic Court tomorrow.

St. Mary's Lyceum To Hold Minstrel

Chairman

STEPHEN F. ELKINS

Chairman Elkins of the building committee of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Mt. Lebanon.

PERMITS GAIN 51 PERCENT

Building in Mt. Lebanon Township has increased 51 per cent from January 1 to April 20, as compared for the same period in 1928, according to George J. Irwin, township building inspector, in his report submitted to the commissioners at their regular semi-monthly meeting, held in the Washington School, Washington road, last night. The estimated costs for the current year is $2,447,550 as compared with $1,618,200 for the same period last year. It exceeds last year's by $829,450. There were 182 building permits issued this year and 172 permits last year.

The itemized permits issued are as follows: One hundred and thirty dwellings, five business houses, eight remodeling houses, 12 apartment buildings, 12 double houses, two duplexes, 11 garages and two temporary buildings.

Bids opened for the construction of a sanitary trunk sewer extending from Mt. Lebanon Township to Chartiers Creek, near Bridgeville. On account of the number of bidders it was impossible to tabulate, so an adjourned meeting was ordered by the chairman for Thursday evening, when the contracts will be awarded. There were 28 bids submitted.

FARM BOOTLEG SUSPECT HELD

Joe Emmey, 40, a farmer of South Fayette Township, is in the borough lockup at Carnegie today, awaiting hearing before Justice of the Peace W. L. McMillan on a charge of violating the Snyder act. He was arrested by county detectives and Christ Keisling, chief of police at Carnegie, following a raid on his farm late yesterday. Police said they were attacked by a large Newfoundland dog and after fighting the animal off, found a large still, moonshine and mash in a barn. Emmey was found hiding in the haymow, they said.

St. Michael's Church Presents Minstrel

St. Michael's third annual minstrel show will be presented by members of the St. Michael's Church, in the Lyceum, Pius street, tonight and tomorrow night. The production is under the direction of Albine Freund. As an added attraction, Edward Mencke will feature magical art.

HOLIDAY AIR ASSUMED BY DORMONT

Celebrities from far and wide will take part in "Boys' Loyalty Day" Saturday, the initial day of Boys' Week, which will be observed by citizens in Dormont.

State Senator Frank J. Harris in behalf of the Dormont Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of Boys' Week, has extended invitations to notables who will be gathered in Pittsburgh on that day to attend the Amen Corner banquet in the William Penn Hotel in the evening.

NOTABLES INVITED

Besides Senator Harris, the following persons have accepted invitations, and will sit in the reviewing stand and witness the parade: Mayor Harry A. Mackay, of Philadelphia; Count Felix Van Luckner, famous German sea ace during the World War; Edgar A. Guest, poet; James J. Corbett, ex-heavyweight champion of the world; Arthur "Bugs" Baer, newspaper humorist, and Neil O'Brien, last of America's famous minstrel men.

Dormont is taking on a holiday spirit with the decorating of all buildings in the community. The decorating of flags, buntings, banners and other draperies was begun yesterday. The erection of the grandstand in front of the municipal building on West Liberty avenue will start tomorrow. The borough's volunteer fire department are building the stand.

Boys' Week, which begins Saturday, will last until Friday, May 3.

PROGRAM FOR WEEK

The program for the week will be: Saturday, April 27—Boys' Loyalty Day, parade; Sunday, April 28—Boys' Day in Churches; Monday, April 29—Boys' Day in Schools; Tuesday, April 30—Boys' Day in Industry; Wednesday, May 1—Boys' Day in Entertainment; Thursday, May 2—Boys' Day in Citizenship, and Friday, May 3—Boys' Day Out of Doors.

L. C. "Sim" Price, president of the Dormont Chamber of Commerce, is the general chairman of all committees of the event.

Ordered out of his brother-in-law's home during a quarrel, Christ Buck, of 1819 Spring Garden avenue, seized a revolver and shot Linden McElzenney, 58, the relative, in the right leg, police reported. Constable A. L. Schleiden, passing the house, stepped in and arrested Buck. McElzenney is being treated at his home by a physician.

Round Table Holds Meeting at Bellevue

The Bellevue Round Table meets this afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. R. Roberts, 840 Malvern road, Avalon. Mrs. Ross E. Taggart will speak on "The Modern Novel." Mrs. T. E. Jones will read a paper on "The Public's Choice."

ROTARY TO AID BOYS' FETE

The Dormont Rotary Club at its regular weekly luncheon meeting held in the Dormont Masonic Hall, West Liberty avenue, yesterday, discussed plans for the club's participation in Boys' Week which will be observed in the borough starting Saturday, under the auspices of the Dormont Chamber of Commerce. L. C. (Sim) Price, president of the chamber, general chairman of Boys' Week committee, and vice president of the Rotary Club, addressed the members as to what is expected of the club in taking part in the affair. The attendance showed enthusiasm, and all indications show 100 per cent co-operation.

"Cap" C. F. Lauer, president, presided, and was also the winner of the weekly door prize.

Women Voters to Hear of Legislation

Mrs. Q. W. Hershey, state legislative secretary, will conduct the round table discussion on current events tomorrow at the meeting of the League of Women Voters of Wilkinsburg in the Wilkinsburg Y. W. C. A. community house. A report of the county league quarterly meeting will be made.

ETNA HIGH TO GIVE PLAY

"The Romantic Age," a three-act comedy will be presented by the Senior class of the Etna high school Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights in the school auditorium. The proceeds will go toward defraying expenses of the annual trip of the senior class to Washington, next month.

A double cast has been provided for the leading characters. For the nine parts, 14 persons have been chosen to play on alternate nights. These participating include Bessie Gray, Glenna Smith, Irene Walker, Gerald Miller, Paul Nolan, Alberta Zigan, Frances Hockenberry, Ruth Bleil, George Wagner, Albert Jones, Dorothy Phelan, Walter Vollmer, Fred Hieber and Everett Girty.

The play is being directed by Prof. James E. Brown, of the high school faculty.

Church at Emsworth Elects Four Trustees

Four trustees were chosen at the congregational meeting of the Emsworth United Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. J. W. Springer, pastor. They are Robert Robertson, David Johnston, A. F. Gaster for three years and W. W. Renberg for one year.

COUPLE WILL CELEBRATE WEDDING OF 50 YEARS AGO

In the same church in which they were wed half a century ago, Mr. and Mrs. John Mowrey, of 402 Alpine avenue, North Side, will observe their golden wedding anniversary.

On April 26, 1879, the couple, he 22 and she 20, were united in marriage in St. Peter's Catholic Church, West Ohio and Sherman avenues, by the then Rev. Father Richard Phelan, later bishop of the Catholic diocese of Pittsburgh. On next Firday morning at 9 o'clock solemn high mass will be celebrated in honor of the event by the present pastor, the Rev. F. F. O'Shea.

Present at the celebration in the church will be two children of the couple now residing in Chicago Thomas Mowrey and Mrs. E. J. Buck and two children, living at home, Mary and William, as well as the near relatives and a few friends.

The celebration will be continued at the Mowrey home with a dinner.

Husband and wife have lived their entire married life on the North Side. John Mowrey was retired four years ago after 44 years continuous employment with the Westinghouse interests. He was one of the "old guard" of Westinghouse employes, being first a worker in the Twenty-fourth street plant of George Westinghouse. He was one of the pallbearers at Westinghouse's funeral.

OUTLYING DISTRICTS AID RADIO IN SCHOOLS PROJECT

In all the outlying points of the Pittsburgh district, as well as within the city limits, schools are fast seizing the radio-in-the-school campaign as the ideal way to place sets in active educational use without long delay.

An example of the enthusiasm with which the campaign is being commenced is found in a letter from John E. Cooper, of Cooper brothers, New Kensington. Mr. Cooper writes to the Sun-Telegraph:

"We wish to express our thanks and appreciation for your kind appointment of us to sponsor the Sun-Telegraph's Radio Educational Plan, with the slogan 'Radio in Every School Room.'

AID IS PLEDGED

"We assure you that we will do all within our power to make this slogan a reality in all of the schools of our community."

With just such vigor the Rostraver Township junior high school in Pricedale is taking up the campaign. Mr. Fred F. Herman, principal, has turned the conduct of the campaign over to Willam H. Maurer, a teacher at Rostraver.

The student body, 700 strong, was told about the campaign by a representative of the Sun-Telegraph. After considerable enthusiasm had been evinced, pledges of support were made.

Mr. Maurer appointed five teams to handle the campaign, captained by Hilda Zollars, Faye Zundel, Abram Foster, Evelyn Round, and Bernard Driscoll. The latter's team has already obtained a number of orders. The team competition is to take the form of an automobile race, each team to choose its name from a list of popular automobiles. Mr. Maurer is to arrange for a miniature track in the building, and the standing of the teams is to be determined by the position of the automobiles, which will proceed as subscriptions are obtained.

INDIVIDUAL PRIZES

The school will award individual members of the teams prizes for obtaining orders. Every boy or girl who brings in more than three orders will be given such bonuses as baseballs, bats, gloves, mitts, flashlights, brief cases, wrist watches, necklaces, brooches.

The team leaders have undertaken the campaign with great vigor and promise to have the first set installed this week.

To gain their objective, it will be necessary for the teams to obtain 125 new 13-week subscriptions to the Sun-Telegraph. For every group of 125 subscriptions turned in, the Sun-Telegraph and Stanley-Warner Brothers' theaters will install a $138.50 No. 53 Atwater Kent radio receiving set with Electro-dynamic loud speaker self contained.

Subscription blanks will be sent to schools and business firms working on the campaign, or may be obtained at the Stanley theaters, from a large number of students, or in the packages of the Haller Bakeries and the United Laundries.

PARENTS BATTLE IN COURT FOR 6-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER

A legal battle over the custody of a child has been started in Common Pleas Court before Judge Josiah Cohen. On opposite sides of the fight are the parents, one trying to recover and the other trying to keep tiny Mary Gaughen, aged 6, of 1425 Beechview avenue.

The mother is attempting to gain possession of the child and has filed habeas corpus proceedings. She is Mrs. Claire J. DeRoy, of Morewood Gardens, and her suit is aimed against her former husband, John F. Gaughen, theatrical man.

Mrs. DeRoy says that under an agreement with her former husband she was to have had custody of the child from each Saturday until Monday morning. She also declares that Gaughen is contemplating a trip to Europe and consequently will be unable to care for little Mary.

Judge Cohen set Wednesday for a hearing.

Sol Roy's Boy

BOSTON, April 23.

Say, its' costing me money to keep you all informed. I had read so much about this word 'debenture," and nobody here in Boston couldn't tell me what it meant. I had to go buy a dictionary. I knew before I looked it up that it was some camouflaged word that wouldn't do the farmer any good.

"Debenture—"A certificate serving as a voucher for a debt." That ain't nothing but just a plain old note, giving and taking, and going on friends' "debentures" is what makes the farmers need relief.

Besides, it's the middle man that don't raise the wheat but just ships it. He is the one that gets the "debenture." That ain't farm relief. That bill ought to be called Exporters' Relief Bill.

Yours, WILL.

The BROADWAY MELODY by Jack LAIT

(From a Scenario by Edmund Goulding.)

CHAPTER XXVI.

QUEENIE emerged from the boudoir, her head ringing. Into the three-room combination where the party—her party was raging and roaring, stepped the hostess. She had quite forgotten all about it. These were her guests—this was her apartment; how strange it all struck her.

While within, the entire romantic two-actor had been played—while Eddie had burst in and had been knocked out—while Warriner had declared his love and offered, pleaded, to make her his wife—these tipsy men and women had been joshing and lushing and dancing and necking.

Stewie Worthington had toppled in his snooze against the wall on the floor, and the fall had awakened him. He was in again and up again and the life of the party again. Coatless, boozy-eyed, he was slobbering bright sayings of Broadway's children. He was the first to see Queenie.

"Well — look who's amongst us," he yelled. "If it isn't li'l ol' Queenie, herself—where's the big B. F.—Warry? In there for the night?"

He pointed to the door through which she had just entered.

The inference was so broad and raw that it threw a hush over the entire assemblage, drunken roisterers that they were.

Queenie stopped in her tracks. Stewie wobbled over toward her with a bleary smile on his swinish face. Queenie slapped it right off.

"Hey—how'd you get that way?" he demanded.

"I've always been that way," she snapped. "I come from a tank out West an' may not know a whole lot about manners in this burg. But out where I was raised, men get knocked off for cracks like that, Mr. Stewie Worthington."

"Wh-why? Wha'd I shay?"

"You said enough. Now get out—"

"Wh-what? How? Me?"

"You. This is my house. I don't want you here—air!"

Worthington was flabbergasted. He—a Worthington—to be ordered out by a chorus girl—by a—ah, that was the answer—

"Your house!" he sneered. "Don't give me that shalami—everybody here knows whose house it is—and if it's yours, exactly how come—"

He looked significantly toward the inner room, whence Warriner had not yet emerged.

Queenie's eyes shot sparks.

"You get out of here," she cried, "or you'll find out whose house it is. You'll get bum's rush—"

She ran to the bedroom door and opened it.

"Frank," she cried in. "Frank—I need you."

Warriner, who had been sitting on the divan, deep in thought, scrambled to his feet and ran into the room.

"What has happened, honey?" he asked solicitously. "What's wrong?"

"He insulted me," she cried, indicating Worthington.

Stewie, almost sober through the turn of events, stood blinking. He and Warriner had been cronies for years. They belonged to the same clubs and had frivoled with the same girls. They were partners in bankrolling Zanfield's "Broadway Melody"—and now—

Warriner crossed to him and whispered in his ear:

"Please go, Stewie. Queenie's very agitated over some things we discussed—and you're drunk. Let's not have any trouble."

"Who wants trouble?" blurted Stewie, aloud. "I was just kidding your little playmate here, and she socked me—she slapped my face. And that isn't all—she threatened to have me thrown out after she'd ordered me out, and—and—now she calls the manly lover to act as her bouncer."

Warriner didn't want to strike him. But his hands itched.

"You must leave," said Warriner.

"All right—I'll go—it's the first time I've ever been asked to in my life—"

"Yeh—but you don't pay couvert charges here," cut in one tall blonde who was enjoying the whole mixup immensely.

"I'll go," reiterated Stewie, as some obliging friend helped him into his tux, which had been kicked about the floor merrily, "but this isn't the end of this little affair . . . not by a pretty plenty . . . if she thinks she can do this to me—and you, too, Warry—and she'll stay in the show, she's crazier than I thought she was when she had the impertinence to breeze me."

"Go along, Stewie," said Warriner, trying to be as conciliatory and yet as mandatory as his mingled sentiments dictated.

"Who wants to be in that show?" cried Queenie. "I've had better offers."

"Oh—already? The show only opened tonight," giggled Stewie. "You work fast," and he looked again toward the now open door.

Warriner seized him by his fat arm and hustled him out, Worthington neither walking nor resisting.

"You're bouncing them high, wide and handsome tonight, Warry," he said, flushed with anger. "First Eddie Kerns, and now Stewart Worthington—I'll say you cover a lot of territory, Big Boy!"

Eddie Kerns!

Queenie had almost forgotten him. Where was he? What had become of him? She cast a quick, rotary panoramic glance about the rooms. Eddie was not in sight.

"He's downstairs in your—in the car," whispered Warry. "I had him fixed up a bit and told him he should wait there for you—that you'd come."

Warriner snapped his fingers and a servant ran up.

"Miss Mahoney's wrap," he ordered.

Warriner took her to the elevator. A hush had fallen over the whole gang. There was something depressing, after all, in the ejection of Stewie, who was a jovial sort and who was known to be Warriner's shadow; and there was a mysterious shadow clouding the departure of Queenie. Why was she walking out of her own new home, out on her invited guests? What did the intrusion of Eddie and the walloping knockout he suffered from Warriner have to do behind it all?

The colored orchestra hit it up on a signal, but somehow the spirit of the spree had been choked off.

A few couples danced lackadaisically. Warriner, returning from the corridor, was sullen and silent.

The giant doorman bowed obsequiously as he let Queenie out between the big brazen doos.

At the curb stood her new town car, an imported glory of refinement, power and unmistakable class. Warriners don't buy brightly painted runabouts for the girls they love.

The chauffeur hopped to the ground as he saw his mistress, and opened the door for her. The action threw up the inner lights, now set to function as the crack of the carriage door opened.

Within, slumped in a corner, his head on his chest, as though asleep, sat Eddie, huddled and inanimate. He raised his face as the lights sprang on. Queenie saw that he had a great red bruise on his cheek where he had been hit by Warriner's well-aimed and steel-like fist.

"To the Princeton Hotel," said Queenie to the driver.

The door closed and she was beside him in the dark. The murmuring motor was carrying them smoothly and swiftly away.

"Where are we going," mumbled Eddie.

"To Hank."

"What for? She don' want me."

"Who don't? Snap out of it. I've got somethin' important to tell the both o' you—somethin' that'll settle this whole tangle, somethin' that't leave the way clear so's you an' Hank can be by yourself, get married an' be happy—I hope."

"Married? Me an' Hank? Don' rub it in. You must o' know all the inside lowdown. Hank sure couldn' o' been handin' you that run-around, too, about lovin' me. So it was all hokum—it must o' been—an' you with your tears about Hank an' me—me an' Hank—"

"What are you talkin' about?" demanded Queenie.

"You know well enough. Hank come clean with me t' night after you busted out o' the dressin' room. She told me she never cared for me, that she was workin' me for what I could do to plug you both along in show business—"

"How? You're crazy—or she is—or I am."

"You're crazy like a fox, you are. So's she. I'm the nut in this asylum. She told me more—how she was head-over-appetite about some house manager on the Manley time—how she's been long-distancin' kisses with him ev'ry night—"

Queenie gasped.

The whole scheme of it overwhelmed her all at once.

So Hank—loyal, self-sacrificing, noble Hank had torn Eddie out of her heart for her, the little sister who had stolen him from her!

She was about hotly to expose the deception.

But she bit her tongue and was silent.

If Hank wanted it that way, why should she double-cross her behind her back? She would have it out with her, two by two. So she was silent.

Eddie turned his eyes toward her, held them there and waited.

"So! It's on the level then, huh? She handed me that and you were in on the play? Now I don't know what to think, Kid. I've had more'n one punch on the button t'night."

Queenie was still silent.

"So I s'pose I get the air from Hank an' you, too, an' you go to Warriner—an' that's that. I'd like to o' heard what he said after he knocked me stiff when I wasn' lookin'."

"You'd have heard him ask me to be his—his—"

"His what? Don't answer if it hurts."

"His wife!"

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl :-: Story by Lloyd Mayer :-: By John Held, Jr.

"My dear, I'm so excited I could shell PEAnuts at this point—I mean I ACtually AM, my dear, because do you reMEMber how CRYPtic everybody thought that remark of BASil's about FLYing NORTH on the WINGS of LOVE was, my dear? Well, ANYways, it was SIMply KILLing, my dear, because it had ARab and the GANG simply OSsified with curiOSity, my dear, until I CAREfully exPLAINED to them toDAY my dear in WORDS of one SYLlable that Basil had acquired this treMENdous AIRplane called 'The WINGS of LOVE' which he was going to take us all HOME in—can you COPE with it? HONestly, my dear, the pipsqueaks were TOO imPRESSED and began EXecuting a JIG on the SPOT because I mean they're all so treMENdously relieved that we're not going back on the YACHT, do you know what I mean? Well, ALways, my dear, I'm so THRILLED I could blot BEETles at this point because BASil's going to PILot the plane himSELF my dear and it'll be the FIRST time he's EVer taken me on a LOOP—can you BEAR it, my dear? But I'm simply CRAving to tell you about the perfectly MAD confab I and ARab had on the SUBject of equipment for this FLIGHTy exCURsion my dear—I mean I ACtually AM!"

Beyond the Bridge — By Evangeline Weir — Daily Short Story

THE red, gold and brown of October lingered on the hills at Beverley Lakes, and Gene Walsh lingered also. She had little desire to go back and join in the mad speed for pleasure which led around dangerous curves. It sickened her to think of the coming winter when she would spend her youth in the usual follies which left her feeling cheap and sated. She enjoyed the simple camp life where so few things were needed and the companionship of a former teacher who had taken a special interest in her.

"I'll be obliged to close camp and go back to town in a few days," Mrs. Brill said regretfully as they sat watching the glow of a wonderful sunset.

Gene stretched out her arms as if to gather in some of the glory of the golden and rose sunset. "It makes me want to do something fine," she said.

A man dropped down on the bank beside her.

"I'll carry the memory of it back to my work—will you think of it when you play—while you gamble your youth away?"

"Does your work satisfy you?" Gene asked.

"It is a real pleasure to build bridges, but each bridge brings the desire to build a finer one."

Mrs. Brill had slipped quietly away leaving her brother and the girl alone. She knew that Dixson had touched a depth in Gene which she had tried and failed to reach.

"I love bridges!"

"Why?" he asked curiously.

"They are so big and strong and help one over dangers. It's a great responsibility to build bridges."

"It is a great responsibility to have great wealth, yet so few of you take it seriously."

"It is a hard job to be rich and live up to it. I have been under training ever since birth," she said whimsically.

"What is your aim?"

"Keep up the game to the end."

There was a long silence. Gene's eyes drank in the beauty of lake, hills, and sunset sky. The beauty was so great that it hurt. She turned to the man beside her and the words were forced from her white lips.

"You think that I don't feel, that I do not know you love me. You think I would rather play than work. Speed over bridges rather than build them. If you had been trained as I have been trained, would you turn to an unknown world to find a job? Dare you cast stones at me because I know life only as it is lived within my own set? I know we are all wrong, but I would be as much out of place in your world as you would be in mine; I have seen girls leave your world and marry into mine; I have known girls who have left mine to marry into yours; all were failures."

He put out his hand and touched her arm; she turned her face away so that he could not see her eyes.

"I'll build a bridge for you to cross," he said softly.

"You cannot build a bridge safe for the crossing."

"You have been happy here in this simple life, Gene," he reminded her tenderly.

"Would I when winter comes?" she questioned. "Have you any idea how restless I am—always wanting something new—a change from place to place. It doesn't lead to any place where I am content to stay. The life itself doesn't appeal to me, but my education makes another impossible."

"If you loved me, Gene, you would not count the cost."

She closed her eyes while she tried to get a balance, this really fine girl who had seen so many failures under the name of love that she had little faith in its continuity.

"Would you cross the social bridge and live on my side?"

He did not answer at once for the question went home.

"My job is building bridges; I go wherever I am called."

"You could not play around in sport clothes all day and in a dress suit at night?"

"No, Gene!"

"But I must come over and leave the play and clothes behind. Follow you into South America or the wilds of Africa. I haven't a job to keep my mind and hands busy like you have."

"If I get that contract in Africa, it will be the biggest thing I have ever had. If you were only willing to go with me, Gene!"

Love called to her and she wanted to yield to all of its sweetness, but life and the society where she had been bred, had given to her a hard practicable knowledge which discredited love as an abiding guest. Her mother had gone blindly into marriage with her father, confident that love only mattered. Now they avoided each other as much as possible. One was usually in Europe while the other was in America. Gene faced her problems and worked them out instead of allowing them to work out themselves.

"Dixon, let us keep the memory of this wood-scented summer—always. I have decided to stay where I belong, and it is right for you to refuse to cross the bridge. I am going home in the morning. I am going to say goodbye now," and she held up her face.

Mrs. Brill looked up with a question in her eyes as Gene entered the room.

"I would hinder him in his work," she explained. "I have turned the situation over and over in my mind. I could not stand it. When he was away busy with the work he loves, I would have nothing to do but wait for his return. The heat, the black servants, the food, insects, the clothing I would have to wear—I might grow to hate him. One cannot tell. Far better to keep the dream than face hard facts which would destroy love."

Mrs. Brill put her arms around her and held her close.

"I don't think we should walk bindly into marriage. I am not fitted for his life. He could not build bridges if he had not spent years in getting the proper knowledge. I would fail him when he needed me most and there is no use in lying to myself nor to him. It is the cause of so many divorces. Love is not all of life even though it be the best of life. Life is work and endurance for such men as your brother. They need women of a like caliber not a woman who 'sits on a cushion and sews a fine seam and eats strawberries done up in cream,' as the old nursery rhyme goes. In Africa. Think of it!"

Mrs. Brill felt that she was right. This modern girl—this new growth on the tree of life—had learnt a hard lesson from the failures of the women and men behind her; that the love of man for woman is not the whole of life, that there are other threads in the weaving that must be strong and well-chosen to bear the strain of a work-a-day world.

KONJOLA ENDS FOUR YEARS OF CONSTANT PAIN

Stomach Trouble and Neuritis Had Baffled Every Other Treatment Put to Test.

"What is there about this new Konjola that it triumphs when all other medicines and treatments tried have failed?" This question has been asked times without number by sufferers who, hearing about this master medicine, seek to learn what it means to them in their search for health.

MRS. FILLEMANN

The wonderful story of this wonderful medicine is being told daily by the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, meeting those who are ill and who would be well again. The Konjola Man does not deal in promises, claims, nor boasts. Rather, he points out case after case in which Konjola has conquered. He shows how the 32 ingredients of Konjola—22 of them juices of roots and herbs—penetrate to the very source of the ailment, and give battle to the very causes of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. There is no room for health when organs do not function properly; there is no room for health when the system is filled with unexpelled poisons and impurities. Konjola works quickly in cleansing and invigorating the ailing organs, and soon comes new, abundant and glorious health to take the place of suffering. Learn what Konjola has done for tens of thousands; learn why it is the most talked-of medicine in America. Hear of countless cases like that of Mrs. Fillemann, 305 Beltzhoover Avenue, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"I was ill for four years, and suffered constantly from indigestion, neuritis and my nerves. I was discouraged and disheartened, too, for only disappointment and failure followed by ceaseless attempts to find relief. In fact, I was about ready to give up. No matter how little I ate, it would not digest, and my stomach filled with gas. Bloating and heart palpitation followed, and in this condition a real night's rest was an impossibility. I was so nervous that I was startled by the least unexpected sound. The neuritis in my shoulders not only pained me terribly, but I could not raise my arms to my head.

"My attention was attracted to Konjola by the many sincere indorsements I read in the papers. Surely, I thought to myself, there must be something to this new medicine. Well, Konjola quickly proved to me that there is a lot to it; that there is no medicine like it under the sun. Four bottles of this amazing compound restored my digestion, calmed my nerves and put the neuritis to flight. I can—and do—eat anything I like, and I am feeling better than in years. I indorse Konjola with all my heart and soul."

The records of Konjola fairly overflow with such splendid experiences. It means much to all who suffer that more than a million bottles of Konjola have been sold in four months. Such demand is because Konjola makes good despite what else has failed.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, and explaining the merits of this new and totally different medicine.

LINKS HARVARD WITH POWER INTERESTS

BOSTON, April 23.—Harvard is "absolutely linked with the power interests," and these same interests "have been trying to poison the wells of education," Representative James E. Hagan declared yesterday before a joint hearing of House and Senate Rules Committee.

Hagan and other speakers urged the committees to open the way to a full investigation of power trust activities by admitting his order calling for such a probe. He said:

"The Harvard School of Business Administration, which has enormous influence upon the other educational institutions and upon the press of the country, is absolutely linked with the power interests.

"Students in the course on public utilities are being filled with prejudices against public and municipal ownership, and they are being taught a theory of regulation that runs counter to the established system of regulation in this state.

INVESTIGATION ASKED

"I believe the people want to know what is the relation between the Harvard Business School and the power interests. That is one of the things I had in mind in asking in this resolve for an investigation of the activities in this commonwealth of the National Electric Light Association.

"From what has been happening in other parts of the country, as revealed in the Federal Trade Commission investigation, showing the gobbling up of newspapers by power groups, we know what is going to happend and what is actually happening here.

"If the avenues of information are in the hands of the power trust, then we cannot have a public opinion that is worth anything.

"The same thing is taking place in the schools. The Federal Trade Commission has shown that the power interests have been trying to poison the wells of education.

MUCH LIKE "RACKET"

"Then we have the situation of the companies issuing hundreds of millions of dollars of watered stock. The way they are passing their paper around and milking the public, which thinks it is buying the stock of the local operating companies, brings us back to the days of Ponzi, it is very much like a racket."

Former Speaker B. Loring Young said he represented A. R. Graustein, of New York, president of the International Paper and Power Company, and that Graustein would appear next week if the committee wished.

GAVE GLORIOUS HEALTH TO HER

Grateful Lady Pays Glowing Tribute to New Medicine, Ten Herbs.

Every day more men and women give high praise to Ten Herbs, the famous new compound with the ten wonderful herbal ingredients. Many local persons have stated that there is no other medicine like Ten Herbs for relieving stomach, liver, kidney and bowel trouble, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general weak, rundown condition. If you have any such health troubles, find out for yourself about Ten Herbs by calling at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, where this great natural medicine is being introduced.

MRS. ANNA TAYLOR

"Ten Herbs relieved my ailments and made me feel fine," said Mrs. Anna Taylor, 233 East Jefferson Street, Butler, Pa. "I was troubled with indigestion, gas and bloating. I had no appetite and was losing weight right along. A little food gave me a filled-up feeling. I had heartburn, and my tongue was coated. I kept losing strength and was getting in a badly rundown condition. My nerves kept me from sleeping properly, and the least thing upset me. Headaches came on me, and I could not walk any distance without feeling tired out. My liver gave me trouble, and my complexion was sallow. Constipation bothered me. There were pains around my eyes, which would water.

"My mother had been greatly benefited by Ten Herbs, and she suggested that I try your medicine, which I did. I have a good appetite now, and am free of indigestion, gas and bloating. I can eat anything without it causing distress. My nerves are in fine condition, and I sleep soundly all through the night. My liver is working properly, and I do not have any more trouble with constipation. I am rid of headaches and dizzy spells, and my complexion has become clear. The pains are gone from around my eyes. I have regained the weight I lost, and am feeling fine. Ten Herbs has helped me so much that it deserves my highest praise."

Ten Herbs is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, and is sold by all May's Drug Stores.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Social Calendar Next Week Replete With Important Events

HAVE you noticed that there isn't much going on this week? I suppose we really shouldn't complain, though, because this has been an interesting spring with all these weddings and the entertaining that precedes them. So we should be able to endure a few dull days when they arrive, and turn our eyes optimistically toward the future.

Not so very far into that future, however, we find a few events that are of importance, socially. One or two weddings are set for the end of this week, and next week, which ushers in that joyous month of May, filled with affairs of interest. Beginning with Mary Louise Johnson's wedding on Monday, we have the Stage and Play Society's production, Mrs. David Oliver Shoemaker's recital, Mrs. Arthur E. Braun's tea and three or four nuptial events.

Speaking of Mary Louise, who will, you know, be married to Francis Ford Moreland on Monday afternoon, quite a few parties have been planned for this week in her honor. One of them will be a tea which Helen Leovy, of Beechview boulevard, who will be a bridesmaid at the wedding, is going to give on Friday afternoon in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. And another is the rehearsal dinner. This will be given, of course, on Saturday evening, and the hosts will be Margaret McClintic and her two brothers, Robert and Stewart McClintick, all of whom are members of the bridal party. They will entertain in their home in Beechview boulevard.

And by the way, a change has been made in the Johnson-Moreland bridal party. John Rice, of Easton, Pa., will be unable to serve as an usher and his place will be taken by Ramsdell Guerney, of Buffalo, N. Y.

WE haven't had many June bridal dates, so far, and I know you will be interested to hear about one of the dates chosen for that month. This is Tuesday, June 11, selected by Dorothy May Taylor, daughter of the Clyde C. Taylors, of Parkman boulevard, Schenley Farms, for her marriage to William Berlean Rodgers. Mr. Rodgers is a son of Mrs. Joseph Herman Rodgers, of the Babcock boulevard and the Schenley Apartments. Their engagement, you may remember, was announced last month.

FOLKS are still finding their way home again after spending the winter and spring in warmer climates. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Norton Van Voorhis, of Western avenue, North Side, who have been in Pasadena for some time, started east last week. While they were at the Huntington Hotel in Pasadena, they had as their guests their two small grandnieces, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Blackwell, of Long Island. Mr. and Mrs. Van Voorhis gave a children's party for the little girls while they were there, I understand.

Returning home, too, are the William B. Clydes, of Beechwood boulevard, who have been taking a trip through the Panama Canal to California and Honolulu. They have been gone about two months.

Other Pittsburghers, though, are just leaving for extensive trips. The George S. Olivers, of Ellsworth avenue, sailed Friday night on the Majestic for a trip abroad. And on Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cordes, of Schenley Farms, sailed on the Adriatic. They will spend some time in England and France, and will attend the exposition at Barcelona, Spain.

Among other local people away from home are Mrs. James W. Friend and Charles W. Friend, of Wilkins avenue, and Mrs. Leslie M. Johnston, of Bennington avenue, who are stopping at the Cavalier in Virginia Beach, Va.

Dr. Scudder to Talk To Women on May 2

A GROUP of prominent women are sponsoring the Pittsburgh visit of Dr. Ida Scudder, of Vellore Medical College, on May 2. Dr. Scudder, who is a graduate of Wellesley and of the Women's Medical College of Philadelphia, will make an address in Carnegie Music Hall the afternoon of May 2. Dr. Scudder is a member of the famous Scudder family which for three generations has given doctors and missionaries to India and she is so well known throughout the country that a letter addressed simply to "Dr. Ida, India," reached her. Vellore Medical is one of the Union Colleges and is supported by seven American and four British women's boards. Those presenting Dr. Scudder in Pittsburgh are Mrs. Harry G. Samson, chairman, Woman's Department, Council of Churches; Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, president, Congress of Clubs; Mrs. James M. Graham, Jr., president, Pittsburgh College Club; Mrs. F. F. Rohrer, president, Wellesley College Club; Mrs. M. G. Schucker, president, Women's Union Missionary Association; Miss Mabel Gillespie, acting president, Y. W. C. A.; Miss Nell McKenry, president, American Association of University Women; Dr. Anna Johnson, president, Homeopathic Medical Association.

THE South Hills College Club will hold its fourth annual scholarship tea tomorrow afternoon in the Dormont High School. The annual scholarship awards will be made and Mrs. Fabra Holmes Wilson, of California State Normal School, will speak.

Pinchot Lifeboat Saved from Reef In Caribbean

YACHT MARY PINCHOT, By Wireless to the Associated Press, April 23.—A lifeboat from the yacht Mary Pinchot, in which Gifford Pinchot, former Governor of Pennsylvania, is heading a scientific cruise to the South Seas, almost came to grief against a reef on one of the desolate Swan islands in the Caribbean.

The lifeboat, emptied of its oars, sails and lifebelts, was sent to the island for fresh water. On the way it shipped a wave and the engine was disabled. With the aid of a pair a crutches which were used as pike poles, at the shouted directions from Mrs. Pinchot who was on the deck of the yacht, the lifeboat crew managed to hold their craft off the reef until a whaleboat effected a rescue.

Jurists Alter Hours As Ball Games Open

CHICAGO, April 23.—(A.P.)—The eleven judges sitting in the Criminal Courts Building here formerly held sessions from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. Yesterday, the judges voted to hold court from 9:30 a. m. The baseball season, with games starting at 3:15 p. m., opened Tuesday and as Judge Marcus Kavanaugh remarked:

CHURCH BEGINS REHEARSALS

Rehearsals for "What Happen to Jones," an original three-act farce, to be presented by the St. Anselm Dramatic Troupe May 6, 7, and 8 in the Swissvale High School auditorium, have been begun by Hugh P. Boyd, who is directing the production.

Russell Eschman and Frank Shane, who have had important roles in other troupe presentations will be seen in the two outstanding parts, it is said. A special ticket committee has been appointed to distribute the tickets throughout the district.

Monongahela Rubber Plant Sites Surveyed

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 23.—Much interest and speculation has been aroused by the activity of surveyors in the Monongahela Valley, Engineer G. H. Olsen, of Boston, Mass., in charge of the party, stating that available sites for a national rubber company were under consideration. Sites near Monongahela, Charleroi and Bellevernon were inspected. All are along the extension of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad.

WORLD'S RED CROSS CHIEFS MEETING IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP.)—Red Cross activities, which since 1881 have required the expenditure of $80,500,000, including more than $3,000,000 contributed to foreign and insular disaster relief during the past 10 months, were described by national leaders yesterday before more than 700 representatives of the organization from all parts of the world.

Secretary Wilbur told the convention that the Red Cross has furnished "the most satisfactory method of uniting the human family." Through its rehabilitation and disaster prevention efforts as well as its relief work.

Paul Draubt, former American ambassador to Turkey, who brought greetings from the Red Cross societies of the world, asserted that the original purpose of the Red Cross—to heal the wounds of war—must necessarily lead to "the conception that the only true means of humanizing warfare must needs be its abolition."

"It would require great temerity today," he added, "to regard relations between the different countries with a boundless optimism. But it would be equally a mistake to under estimate, with systematic pessimism, the achievements of our times, and the progress I see in the steps already taken, such for example as the Kellogg pact."

The convention was to be addressed today by Arch Bishop Michael J. Curley of Baltimore, whose speech will be carried on a national radio hookup.

Wife of Dry Chief To Address W. C. T. U.

"Prohibition Can Be Enforced," will be the subject of Mrs. John D. Pennington, wife of the prohibition administrator for the Pittsburgh district, in an address before the W. C. T. No More Oily Skin

Creamed Magnesia quickly corrects oily skin, refines coarse pores, changes sallow, off-color skin to true-color clearness, heals eruptions and dissolves blackheads

Creamed Magnesia beautifies the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that creamed magnesia is much better for oily skin than any soap or cleansing cream. It beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now, dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with creamed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face.

It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture almost as if by magic. Being astringent, it drives away the tell-tale signs of age. You will marvel at the effect of your first five-minute facial massage. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger. It's marvelous how magnesia dissolves blackheads, clears eruptions and corrects oily skin.

And because it is so mild, mothers use it instead of soap to bathe infants. It certainly is a blessing as a face wash for fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Being greaseless, it cannot fatten the face or grow hair. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. It changes dull, sallow skin to radiant clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons. Test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Let it whiten your neck. It will also keep your hands soft and white. Until recently, creamed magnesia was used only by New York doctors' wives, and nurses. But now the large druggists everywhere find it hard to keep enough on hand to supply the demand. To get genuine creamed magnesia, ask for Denton's Facial Magnesia. Remember, five minutes works wonders. So, get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight. It costs almost nothing to try. It's Guaranteed!

No More Ugly Nose Pores

CAUTION: Modern skin specialists say never use soap on your face if your skin is oily. All soap contains caustic, which paralyzes the little oil glands of the skin, keeping them constantly opened. That's why oily skin always gets more greasy-looking after soap. Oily skins should be cleansed only with Facial Magnesia, which corrects oily skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach.

THE STORM—and AFTER

A beautiful April day. Spring is in the air. Suddenly—clouds roll up. Gusts of wind stir the trees. A light drizzle starts.

As night comes on, the temperature drops. The drizzle becomes a heavy downpour. The spring day turns to a blizzard, and the rain to sleet.

The trees become many-fingered ghosts of icy whiteness. Telephone poles become lurid shafts pointing up into the inky blackness.

As the hours pass, shimmering streaks of silver appear between the poles. The rain and sleet are coating the wires!

With their heavy load of ice, the poles and wires sway in the tempest.

Suddenly—crash! The line goes down. Over a wide area, other lines fall. The works of man are as naught against nature's fury.

Before the storm has reached its climax, the guardians of the wires are calling for help. Near and far, from other states, from nearby towns, the call is heard. Trucks are loaded and manned with crews. North, east, south, west—they head for the storm-stricken area.

They arrive. The fight is on—to undo the wrath of the storm king.

They unscramble the tangled wires—a hundred miles each hour.

New wires, new cables, are uncoiled along the highways, on fences, on posts—

The service must be restored.

In a matter of hours every telephone is back in service.

Then the calm. Months of steady, continuous construction. New poles are set. Permanent cables and wire are placed.

In time of stress, of storm, of catastrophe, the Bell System knows no boundaries, Bell workers know no hours, the Bell Companies spare no expense—

The obligation to render a continuous service has its roots deep in the Bell organization.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

2 CARS, 3 MEN SEIZED ON HILL BY DRYS

A visit to the Hill district netted prohibition agents two liquor-laden automobiles and three prisoners yesterday, they reported.

A machine with 10 gallons of moonshine was seized at Elmore street and Wylie avenue. Two men fled at the sight of the agents. One, a passenger, agents said, was captured. He gave his name as Lawrence M. Obermeier, 21, of 101 Clairtonica street.

Twelve pints of whisky found in an automobile owned by William Pittler, 26, of 2422 Center avenue, led to the arrest of Pittler and Jack Miller, 22, of 5404 Black street, according to the agents' report. The machine was seized at Soho and Reed streets.

SET RULES FOR PLANE TEST

School will not interfere with the entry of boys in the model airplane contest to be held in Pitt Stadium Friday, May 3, in connection with the aeronautic exhibit and 1929 National Elimination Balloon Race, according to regulations announced today by George Dickson, assistant chairman of the Aero Club committee.

The contest will begin at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, but those unable to start then may compete later. There will be a duration contest and a scale model contest with entries divided into two groups, according to age. The first group will be for boys under 14 years, and the second for those between 14 and 18.

21 Firms to Display Advertising at Tech

A special exhibit of advertising by 21 large manufacturing and mercantile firms in the Pittsburgh district will be one of the features of the annual exhibition of the Carnegie Institute of Technology Friday night. The exhibit, designed primarily for students of advertising, will be shown in the Department of Commercial Engineering. Other attractions will include a demonstration of Televox, the mechanical man, and a demonstration of the use of Widia, the new tool alloy.

Negro Leader Booked For Address in City

William Pickens, field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will speak for the Pittsburgh branch at a mass meeting tomorrow night in Ebenezer Baptist church, Wylie avenue and Devilliers street. Final reports of the twentieth anniversary campaign for a $200,000 extension fund, of which the local quota is $2,500, will be given. Homer S. Brown, president of the local branch, heads the campaign committee.

Child Hit by Auto; City Engineer Sued

Chief City Engineer Charles M. Reppert was made defendant in a $45,000 damage suit as the result of an auto accident in which a 3-year-old child was seriously injured.

The suit was filed by Joseph Troy. He charges Reppert with having operated his car in a reckless manner March 15 and having run down Pauline Troy as she was sitting on the curbstone in Grandview avenue. The child suffered a broken leg and a skull fracture.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you may know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is often the extravagant price of self-neglect—false teeth. Here's the reason and the way to help safeguard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the hands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums ... the dentifrice designed to help firm gums and keep them sound, thus protecting them from the attack of disease.

Use Forhan's regularly. You'll be delighted with the way it makes your gums look and feel. In addition, you'll notice that it effectively and safely cleans teeth and helps to protect them from decay. Get a tube of Forhan's—today!

Mingling With Our Mimes Through Medium of Playbill Reviews

"HILARITIES" ARE HILARIOUS AND DANCING DEMONS CREATE FURORE

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

NOT long ago a government bulletin of the Department of the Superfluous Arts made the melancholy announcement that there are 17,653 actors and actresses out of jobs. It affords this department of criticism exquisite rapture to chronicle the good news that about two-thirds of the aforesaid unemployed have found work in Kaufmann's Big Store. Or so it looked last night, when the big revue, "Hilarities of 1929," became visible for one week at the Nixon Theater. There were voices that required no apology; there were dancers that should be kept away from the bric-a-brac; there were humorous skits that would have made a weeping willow turn into smilax. With Joe M. Meyers as the Balieff of the aggregation, with Norman Porter as the chief comedian, and a trio of dusky elevator conductors to produce harmony and taps, it was a show that need not fear the proximity of grocery stores.

GEORGE SEIBEL

Especially one skit, "The Ballet Master Produces a Drama," showed so rich a gift of humor and so much finesse in its execution, that few of the big revues have put across anything funnier. Marcella Freeauf as the maid, Anna Hirz as the wife, Arthur J. Donovan as the husband, Adolph Roth as the villain, C. S. Kirk as a messenger boy, Raymond Brautigam and Bruce Greer as the police, were the guilty ones who should be condemned to pick up the suspender buttons they sent flying.

THERE WERE VOICES

Of course there was much singing—and among the good voices were those of Sara Margaret Thornburg, Agnes Huth, Ruth Adams, Anna Snyder, Ruth Wiltshire, Evelyn Weaver, Tillie Huisman, Norman Porter, Raymond F. Hunt, C. S. Kirk, David Cornman, Harold Braverman, Harry Mohr, and particularly Richard Elvis.

And again it is necessary to stop the elevator and introduce Leonard Wray and John Lee, whose voices of deep rich texture were just as well managed as the rhythmic feet of their tap-dancing partner, John Brown. This trio could have gone on for half an hour if the stage manager had not had a stop-watch.

But besides the voices there was that other indispensable adjunct of every revue—the Tired Business Man's delight, the bald-headed row's solace, the censor's aversion, and the predecessors of the bicycle. Is it necessary to outrage the virtuous ear by any indiscreet monosyllable? He that hath understanding knoweth whereof. The Dancing Demons of other years were there, dancing demoniacally as ever—and that's all that need be said.

SOME HIGH SPOTS

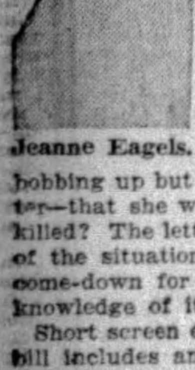
Outside of the ballet burlesque already extolled, there were some other high spots. "If Men Played Bridge as Women Do" was extremely diverting—Norman Porter, Harry Mohr, Lester L. Wise and Arthur Donovan did it in most ladylike manner. Mary Lupi and Louis Gereffi gave some very expert dancing at various junctures. Mary Hill furnished superior exhibitions of sophistication. Edward Kelly and Virginia Jean Claybaugh showed poetic grace and humor. Lucille Crapo proved herself the ideal lecturer upon the bicycle. And Joe M. Meyers surprised his friends by telling several stories. That man has a gift in this direction which he ought to develop.

To write of the costumes worn by all the brides, senoritas, perfumes, sailor lads, fans, and other things from the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms would require the combined gifts of Paul Poiret and Noah Webster. The vocabulary staggers.

And the stage settings, rich and lavish, were in keeping with the rest of the display. Only the spotlight manifested some initial uncertainty as to where it ought to shine. Who would blame the spotlight for that? There were so many places where it was deserved. It's a wise spotlight that can pick the star in such a constellation.

Jeanne Eagels Still in Grand

Probably the most dramatic thing that has resulted since the debut of the sound screen is "The Letter," current all-talk picture in the Grand. It stars Jeanne Eagels, legitimate stage actress, who won acclaim in "Rain."



Jeanne Eagels.

The picture, laid in a tropical setting, concerns a white woman who kills the man she loves. A court trial follows and an acquittal is in sight when what comes bobbing up but a letter—a fatal letter—that she wrote to the man she killed? The letter provides the crux of the situation and a humiliating come-down for the woman to keep knowledge of it from the court.

Short screen entertainment on the bill includes an amusing all-Negro specialty and news pictures.

Liberty Offers Lupe as Star

"Lady of the Pavements," Lupe Velez being the star, is the feature on the Liberty screen. It is the tale of a cafe girl in Paris who becomes the bride of a prince, after having been trained in the arts and graces of society by a countess. The latter had picked the girl and taught her a part so she could tell the prince to whom he was married afterwards—and so find revenge for a rebuff. But there is a denouement on which she had not counted.

Miss Velez gives an animated portrayal but William Boyd is not so strong as the prince. Jetta Goudal is the countess. Lupe sings. Short films complete the bill.

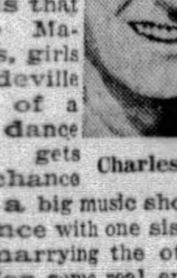
FILM, STAGE ACTS IN HARRIS

Dack Shing, clever Japanese acrobat and juggler, is one of the highlights on the current three-day vaudeville bill in the Harris. He is assisted by a company of four—two boys and two women. He whirls the youngsters through the air and contorts his body into various positions. The grand finale is a plate whirling feat, offered by the entire company, which is unusual in the length of its duration. Another feature on the stage is Mary Haynes, Vitaphone star and comedienne, who is heard in a series of songs and stories. Arthur Ashley does a tipsy skit, assisted by Helen Clement. Then there's a dance act featuring Billy Maye.

The photoplay is "The Leatherneck," a sound and talk drama, that concerns the adventures of three U. S. Marines in China. They become involved in a revolution and have an adventurous time in rescuing the heroine. William Boyd is starred and the girl is essayed by Diane Ellis. The cast also includes Alan Hale, Robert Armstrong and Fred Kohler. Short screen entertainment completes the bill.

Aldine Retains "Melody" Film

"The Broadway Melody," one of the big movie hits of the year, opened a fourth week in the Aldine yesterday. It is an all-talk, song and dance production, with a sequence or so done in color. One of its highlights is the scene depicting a big musical revue in action.



Charles King.

The story is that of the two Mahoney Sisters, girls of the vaudeville stage, and of a song and dance actor, who gets the girls a chance to appear in a big music show. The actor's romance with one sister ends up by his marrying the other one and makes for some real entertainment. The cast includes Bessie Love and Anita Page, in the sister roles; Charles King, musical stage star, in the hero role; Kenneth Thomson, former Pittsburgh actor, and Jed Prouty.

Acts and Films Sheridan Bill

Topping the stage show in the Sheridan Square, Rodrigo and Lila, assisted by the Royal Maximos Orchestra, offer a series of terpsichorean numbers of international flavor. On the screen William Boyd is starred in a talkie, "The Leatherneck," a comedy having to do with the Marines. Boyd, Alan Hale and Robert Armstrong appear as three buddies. The only woman in the cast is Diane Ellis. Other acts include Ruth Ford, who sings and tells tales; Spence and True in "Having Our Ups and Downs," and other Keith offerings. Fox Movietone News and other talking features complete the bill.

Star in Academy Is Wava White

Wava White and her "Red Hots" are in the Academy presenting a program of comedy, novelties and surprises. Two scenes featuring "The North Pole" and "The Murder of Booze" have their basic quality in fun and specialties in which girls sing and dance.

Miss White leads in everything and Milt Frankford is the featured comic. Agnes McCormack, Billy Gordon, Bert Scott and Gordon Rydeen are others who are prominent in the performance.

Bank Bandits Flee, Unnoticed by Crowd

PINE BLUFF, Ark., April 23.—(AP.)—Working their way through noon street crowds in such a manner as to cause no suspicion, five unmasked men escaped yesterday after robbing the People's Bank and Trust Company. They locked two employes and two customers in the bank vault. The loot was estimated at more than $20,000.

100-Yd. Dash Champ Also Voted an Adonis

CHICAGO, April 23.—(AP.)—Virgil Gist, senior at the University of Chicago, is captivating and fast. He's national intercollegiate 100-yard dash champion, and his classmates have voted him to be the class beauty of his sex.

SOME WHO HOLD ⁘ MIRROR ⁘ UP TO NATURE

Robert Fiske of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, who are presenting "Excess Baggage."

Jane Winton appears in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," screen attraction in the Penn, which based on Thornton Wilder's prize novel of the same title, one of the "best sellers" of last year.

Florence Vidor is prominent in "Chinatown Nights," talkie on the Stanley screen, with Wallace Beery playing the principal male character.

William Boyd is one of three pals of the Marines in "The Leatherneck," which is the screen feature in the Harris and Sheridan Square.

STANLEY HAS A TONG WAR PICTURE

Chinatown furnished the big thrill of the talking picture on the Stanley bill for the second week of the new policy. Chinatown and a forest fire in the gorgeous stage show. A forest fire and an acrobatic comedian whose "wrestling with himself" is one of the funniest things you've seen for a long while.

Wallace Beery is the talking hero and Florence Vidor the talking heroine of "Chinatown Nights." She goes slumming in a rubberneck wagon, drops in on a nice little murder, gets her face slapped by the white boss of the Chinese tong, and proceeds to love him for ever after. In the course of these events there's a revolver battle in a Chinese theater, patrol wagons and ambulances are kept busy most of the time, and a Chinese boy rescues Florence and then does the Lord's Prayer, like all good little boys in Chinatown movies. After everybody has had surgical attention, the Caucasian Tong President gets a change of heart and closes his joint with a loud bang.

Just because this is the week Shakespeare was born in, the Chinatown Boss and the Rubberneck Lady carry on their courtship by marked passages in "Julius Caesar" and "Richard III."

But the thrills are there just the same. Gunplay and broken glass and narrow escapes and true love! Wallace and Florence—He and She—look and sound convincing.

THAT BLUE DANUBE

The opening orchestral production, in which Dave Broudy's musicians score a hit, is based on Strauss' "Beautiful Blue Danube" waltz. For color and rhythm, rich costumes and lovely dancing, this production is truly remarkable.

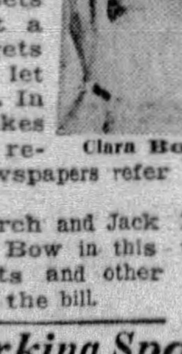
But it's the Canadian Rockies, where Vic Irwin and his stage band are turned into Royal Mounted Police, and a dance of totem poles provides the chief novelty by its ingenious evolutions, that bring the audience to the forest fire—or bring the forest fire to the audience. The realistic electrical effects and falling trees are almost enough to make you look around for the fire exits. But, knowing the mounted police are on the job, why worry?

NOT A HITCH

Again the machinery of the big production moved along perfectly without a hitch. The audience cooperated with spirit in Bernie Armstrong's organ melodies, which were quite amusing. Singers, dancers, comedians, and all the other cogs in the giant amusement mill ran smoothly in their grooves. Austrian huzzars and savage Sioux did their stuff with vim and gusto. You almost expected them to put in an appearance in Chinatown, along with the Mounted, to stop the wild doings that made night lively for Beery and Vidor.

Film in Regent Is "Wild Party"

Clara Bow, in the Regent, where she is featured on the screen, shows plenty of the kind of action that is supposed to characterize modern youth, "The Wild Party," in which she goes collegiate, being the title of her vehicle. It involves the romantic angle in the fact that Clara sets herself to get a college prof., gets him and can't let go. That's love. In school she takes part in what reporters of newspapers refer to as escapades.



Clara Bow.

Frederic March and Jack Luden support Miss Bow in this talkie. Vitaphone skits and other short films complete the bill.

More Parking Space Requested of City

Officials of the Chamber of Commerce have submitted to Council a letter asking the city to provide additional space on the wharves for automobile parking.

SLIDE FROM PITT GALLERY TO STAGE ON ROPE IN "EXCESS BAGGAGE"

By WILIAM J. LEWIS

"EXCESS BAGGAGE," current attraction presented by the Sharp Players in the Pitt, is a novelty possessing technical elements the natural implication of which is that production of such a play would be beyond the capacity of an ordinary stock company. Doubtless that would be the case for an ordinary stock company. Since the Sharp Company did present it—and very well, too, the answer must be that the Pitt's resident company is no ordinary organization.

"Excess Baggage" is of the same genre as "Broadway" and "Burlesque," that is, it is a play about players. And the players are specialists—vaudevillians—no less. And one of the scenes represents the stage of variety theater with the actors doing their stuff in approved "big time" style.

WALKS ABOVE AUDIENCE

The specialties include the walking of a tight rope stretched from stage to the rail of the second balcony, the performer sliding down backwards, to an accident, which is the crucial point in the play and the turning point in the lives of a couple of "small timers" whom fate had lifted, one to near stardom in the movies and the other to a chance to do his specialty on Broadway, the land of dreams to all artists of the stage.

Kenneth Daigneau and Pauline MacLean are effective in the roles of the wire walker and his "company," his wife. All she has to do in the act is to look pretty and provide the atmosphere. So she thinks—that she is excess baggage. But to him she is the anchor that gives him confidence to perform his dangerous feat.

Fate turns things around. She becomes a movie actress and the variety player becomes the "excess baggage," finally rebelling at living at his wife's expense and at the belief that she had yielded to the wiles of a movie sheik. So he goes back, does the slide without her, is injured and learns that his wife really cares only for him, after which they go back to being "small timers."

PEGGY IS VERSATILE

Mabel Kroman, Hugh Banks and Peggy Dougherty all have good roles, Mr. Banks as a chesty juvenile comedian and Misses Kroman and Dougherty as the Ford Sisters, really mother and daughter, as many sister teams are on the real stage. Romance between the youngsters make them a "three-act" instead of a "single" and a "double" and they "go big" with the audience when they appear in their little specialty, in which the versatility of Miss Peggy is evident.

Robert Fiske approaches the popular impression of what the screen Lothario is in real life and Gus Forbes is a matter-of-fact movie director. Other members of the company, as well as additional players, engaged for this play, appear briefly in minor roles. Minor except the real tight-rope walker who "doubles" for Kenneth Daigneau in the slide for life scene.

"Excess Baggage" is an entertaining comedy.

Most Air Accidents Blamed on Tail Spin

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP.)—A report sent to the Senate by Secretary Adams shows that fatalities in the aviation service of the Navy and Marine Corps in the last five years have totaled 150 and that their outstanding cause has been the tail spin, which accounted for more than 35 per cent of the accidents.

Alvin to Reopen Monday With Tune Play

Saturday night Manager John B. Reynolds, of the Alvin, locked the doors and told the boys they could go home as it was a season. Today he has to get busy calling them all back.

A telegram from New York last night apprised him of the fact that "A Night in Venice," musical extravaganza, would be along next week. It is the latest Shubert show, en route to Broadway, with Ted Healy, Ann Seymour, Jans and Whalen, Foster Girls and others.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A DAINTY FROCK FOR A TINY TOT

Printed dimity was chosen in this instance, in a pattern of white and blue, with blue bias binding at the free edges. One could use voile, chiffon, or taffeta. Zephyr is also suggested. The long waist portions are finished with short kimono sleeves. A gathered flounce completes the length of the dress, and forms a soft cascade over the left side of the front.

The pattern for this pleasing model is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. To make the dress for a 6-year size will require 2 yards of material 32 inches wide or wider. To trim neck, sleeves and flounce with bias folds will require 4½ yards 1½ inches wide, cut on a true bias.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc. plain. Send to Pattern Department. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

BRIDGE FALL ON SCREEN IN PENN

"The Bridge of San Luis Rey," current in the Penn, considered soley as a product of the motion picture studios, is quite impressive. How it compares to the Thornton Wilder novel on which it is based is a matter of opinion.

The picture opens with the bridge, spanning on Andean gorge, which has stood for ages, falling into space. Five persons are carried to death with it. But the picture does not disclose who they are until just before the final fadeout, when the screen puts the bridge through a repeat of the falling. Intervening sequences concern the lives of the five doomed persons and some others associated with them and also explains just how these five happened to be on the bridge when it falls. And, just as the churchman says from the pulpit on the sound screen, the ending is not unhappy but just the fulfillment of earthly destiny.

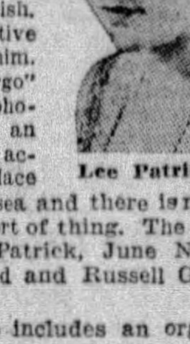
CAST IS GOOD

Prominent in the cast is Lily Damita, worldly dancer, who escapes the bridge but gets the smallpox. Other important characters are well portrayed by Ernest Torrence, Raquel Torres and Don Alvardo. The picture is highly dramatic in spots, has some comedy episodes and holds interest throughout. Its talk sequences are few. Many of the scenes are picturesque and the photography is good.

A bright stage show, "Fore," also is on the bill. Alex Morrison, champion trick golf shot, displays skill. Brian McDonald sings several songs. Cliff Crane presents comedy and a blackface boy, Wilton Crawley, imitates a puppy and brings down the house. Teddy Joyce, of course, is prominent, being all over the stage at one time. Olive Faye sings and dances. The bill includes a Dick Leibert organlogue and an orchestra presentation, "Bells," under the conductorship of Elias Breeskin.

Albright Tops Enright Show

Dick Powell's stage show, "Ride 'Em Cowboy," and the talk photoplay, "Strange Cargo," are the chief ingredients of the current bill in the Enright. The best thing in the stage show is Bob Albright, singer and teller of stories, who gets his message over with a great flourish. Two attractive girls assist him. "Strange Cargo" is a mystery photoplay and is an all-talkie. The action takes place on a yacht at sea and there is murder and that sort of thing. The cast includes Lee Patrick, June Nash, George Barraud and Russell Gleason.



Lee Patrick.

The bill also includes an organlogue, which is quite silly, and news pictures.

Tucker Orchestra Coming to Sanders

For the opening of its eleventh summer dance season, Sanders Inn, on Freeport highway, Aspinwall, is to present Tommy Tucker and his Californians orchestra in a two-weeks' engagement, beginning next Monday night. After this date dances will be given nightly with the exception of Sunday. The Terrace Garden ballroom has been redecorated.

BUCS HOME; SET FOR OPENER

Pirate Hitters in Rut.

BUCS MAKE SAME RECORD AS IN '28

UPON their return home today to make ready for the opening of the Pittsburgh baseball season at Forbes Field tomorrow afternoon, the Pirates brought with them a record precisely the same as the one they held when they arrived at their own park for the first time last year. In their preliminary skirmishes in the West in 1928 they won two games and lost three, just as they did this spring. However, there is good ground for the hope that they will not continue in the rut as long as they did last season, when they lost seven of their first 10 and eight of their first 13 encounters. The chances are largely against a repetition of that.

Carmen Hill

For one thing, there is a possibility that the shift to the home field will enable the Bucs to shake off the batting slump that has held them in its grip ever since the end of the training tour. But a brace on the part of some of the pitchers will be necessary, too. First Kremer, then Petty and yesterday Hill, failed to go the route, though all had appeared to be in fine shape when the season opened.

BOTH of the victories credited to the club to date have been pitched by Grimes, and Burleigh will be sent to the hill to try to win another opener tomorrow. But the spitball veteran cannot do it all, and will have to get a little help from some of the others, who have not shown very much thus far.

Carmen Hill has not been very lucky in his first games of the season since he came back to the Pirates. In 1927 he lost in his debut against the Cubs at Chicago, 5 to 2, also being defeated in his second, and last year he was lifted at the close of the fourth inning of his first start against the Cardinals. After losing his starter in 1928 Carmen won his next four games. Let's hope history will repeat.

FOUR more postponments in the major leagues yesterday, on account of unfavorable weather. That makes a total of 20 games cancelled up to date out of 57 scheduled in the two loops, or practically 35 per cent.

The New York and Boston National League clubs have been hit hardest, each having been kept idle five times. The representative teams of the same two cities also lead in postponements in the American League, each having four on its list. Only two clubs in the two leagues have played every one of their scheduled games without a postponement so far—the St. Louis and Detroit Americans.

John McGraw

REMEMBER the "good old days" when baseball clubs visiting this city to play the Pittsburgh team donned their uniforms at the Monongahela House, climbed into or on top of a horse-drawn bus and rode to Exposition Park on the North Side in that fashion? Now all teams dress at the parks. The old-time rides to the grounds here and elsewhere put some extra bits of excitement into the lives of the ball players. They were real adventures, as teams visiting the various league cities were forced to run a gauntlet of hostile fans, who did not always confine themselves to verbal flings at the athletes on the bus but sometimes pelted them with fruit and vegetables of questionable age.

THOSE days were recalled by an incident in Philadelphia last week. For the first time in almost two decades the New York Giants rode to a ball park in a National League city in full uniform. They donned their diamond regalia at their hotel and traveled 41 city blocks to the Phillies' grounds in taxicabs.

The odject of the Giants in establishing their dressing headsuarters downtown was to avoid possible draughts in the clubhouse at the Phillies' alleged ball park. The ride probably brought back to Manager John McGraw, of the Giants, memories of many personal experiences in the old bus days in Pittsburgh and elsewhere.

HERMITAGE, Earl Sande's horse, which the famous jockey in his come-back rode to victory at Havre de Grace last week, is a 3-year-old colt by Friar Rock, and was bought by Sande from John E. Madden as an untried 2-year-old. Earl thinks Hermitage is a great horse and is reported to have refused an offer of $50,000 for him.

George Grantham

"He's worth twice $50,000 if he's the horse I think he is, or he isn't worth 50 cents," said Sande. Earl has finally announced by the way that of the two horses he has entered Hermitage will be the one to start and the one he will ride in both the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby.

GEORGE GRANTHAM yesterday made the new season's most peculiar record on the offense by scoring three runs without being charged with a single time at bat. The explanation is that he drew four consecutive bases on balls in as many trips to the plate. George did not equal any all-time major league marks. The record for bases on balls drawn in a single game is six, set by Walter Wilmot while with the Chicago Nationals on August 22, 1891. One other man—Miller Huggins, now manager of the Yankees—has gone to the plate six times in a game without being charged with a time at bat. Huggins drew four walks and made two sacrifice hits while playing for the St. Louis Nationals on June 1, 1910. Twelve big league players, including Honus Wagner, have drawn two bases on balls in one inning.

THE Cubs' pitchers are standing out more prominently than their vaunted hitters right now. Sunday and yesterday Guy Bush and Perce Malone achieved the feat of shutting out the league champion Cardinals twice in succession and allowing a total of only eight hits in 18 innings. George Uhle also broke into the shut-out circle yesterday with a 1-to-0 decision over the Browns.

None of the National League pitchers has been having any great amount of trouble with the Pirates so far. The Bucs still are far out of their batting stride. The team that hit .309 last year has batted only .208 to date in 1929. Barring Brame, who has been at bat only once, Lloyd Waner, with .368, and Pie Traynor, with .300, are the only Rovers hitting .300. Lloyd Waner is off to a great start. He has batted safely in all five games played. Paul, on the other hand, is hitting only .167.

JOE HARRIS, former Pirate, has not succeeded in retaining the batting leadership of the Pacific Coast League, but he still is among the leaders, and hitting above .400, and only one man who

TEAM RETAINS FIGHT DESPITE SETBACKS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Not exactly like conquering heroes did our Pirates reach the home port this morning, yet it was a peppy band of athletes that bounced off a Baltimore and Ohio train at 8 o'clock after completing a tour of more than two months that covered many thousands of miles and included many states and cities.

The Freebooters, therefore, are here in plenty of time for the big opener with the Cubs at Forbes Field tomorrow. Only the weather needs to be favorable to insure the city one of the biggest openers in history, and incidentally the contest will mark the beginning of the twentieth full season at the pretty Oakland orchard.

The Pirates went through a brisk workout at Forbes Field this afternoon. The session lasted more than two hours. It is almost a certainty that Burleigh Grimes will work the opener tomorrow afternoon, marking the third straight time this year he has been selected to start a series. He opened the series with the Cubs in Chicago, and the Reds in Cincinnati.

The home coming today would have been a much happier event if the Pirates had not blown their lead in the seventh inning yesterday at Cincinnati. The Buccos were out in front with three tallies to none for the Reds when an error by Dick Bartell and a succession of hits gave the enemy enough tallies to win, the final score being 9 to 4.

GRIMES TO HURL

Be that as it may there will be plenty of excitement at Forbes Field tomorrow to make the Pirates and their supporters forget the setback at Cincinnati, which, by the way, may have been a good thing for the team. It is better that the Pirates crack away from home than on the old family lot, and with all the opening day doings on the program.

Joe McCarthy's Thundering Herd will have to face Burleigh Grimes again, the spit ball star being Donie Bush's choice for the home festival, just as he was when the boys jumped off in Chicago last Tuesday. Grimes is the owner of the only victory any pitcher has been able to achieve over the Cubs to date and the Buccos are glad that Burleigh will have had his customary rest in time to take the important assignment, in view of the "staggering" condition that obtains among several other of the first-string pitchers.

The Buccos landed in town with two victories and three defeats. The condition could have been better, but often it has been worse. In any event the impending fight and the three succeeding battles on the home lot should provide all sorts of entertainment for the eager fans who have been waiting so patiently for the crack of the bat against the ball.

And the loyal supporters will see two flag contenders in action right at the jumpoff. True, the general play of the Pirates has been inconsistent, but there is lots of class to the club that should come out. The Cubs do not seem to need any explanation now that Rogers Hornsby is doing his stuff for Marse Joe.

DICK'S ERROR COSTLY

To get back to that defeat of yesterday—a step that must be taken regardless of any unpleasant feeling that goes with the move. The Pirates looked like champs as they rode into the seventh with the Reds blanked.

Carmen Hill exercised a fine mastery over the Rhinelanders and their backers were just about ready to admit defeat as Red Lucas came up to bat in the seventh. The pitcher, who is a "hittin' fool," smacked a single to center, but a

LLOYD WANER LEAVES TRAIN, RUSHES TO FIANCEE'S HOME

FRANCES MAE SNYDER
When the Pirates reached Pittsburgh today, young Mr. Lloyd Waner streaked straight to 407 Oakland avenue, not only to have the breakfast

SOON THEY WILL BE MARRIED
"Soon" is the date of the wedding for these two, but announcement of a formal date is expected shortly.

BARTELL'S BOOT COST PIRATES VICTORY

"Make one man sure," yelled Jewel Ens to Dick Bartell as Critz grounded to the little second sacker in the fatal seventh inning of yesterday's game at Cincinnati. Dick is a crackerjack in making the double shuffle, whether it be from the starting end or in the pivot part of the play, but Ens, who was running the team, as well as other players were anxious to get one man. The second out of the inning was the big one; under the circumstances it would have left only a runner on first and two out.

George Grantham

Bartell knew he had to work fast to double Critz on a ground ball and he made a quick stab at the grounder with the idea of getting the ball to Adams in time to let Sparky relay it to first for a two-way killing. Instead, the pellet trickled away from the recruit and there were runners on third and first with only one out.

KELLY'S HIT WINS

Walker and Allen followed with singles and it was up to George Kelly to drive in the tieing marker, which was on third, the winning run being at second. Now this same Kelly was the "bum" of the party up to this time, Big George hearing a thousand raucous yells in the sixth when he grounded into a double play. Well, Kelly almost toppled Pie Traynor with his game-winning hit. I have seen the great third sacker make plays on the same kind of a drive, but Pie is not in good condition yet, and Kelly's drive was a fearful thing, carrying as it did the vengeance of a man made angry by the populace.

Concerning young Bartell, it is no more than fair to recite that Dick drove in three Pirate runs besides starring in the field up to the point of his error. He won the plaudits of the home rooters in the

CHICAGO, April 23.—(AP.)—Gabby Hartnett, Cub catcher, is a good baseball player and a good baseball player can't be held down.

When Hartnett's arm failed to heal rapidly enough, the club physician ordered him not to throw a baseball for 10 days. Hartnett, right-hander, beat the order, however. He practices daily, but tosses them with his left.

LOCAL COLLEGE STARS READY FOR RELAYS

By JESS CARVER

For the first time in some years, or since Charley West made it his annual business to win the decathlon championship, the tri-state district figures to cut a fairly healthy chunk of ice in the annual Penn Relay carnival. This event, one of the biggest events of the eastern track and field season, will be held Friday and Saturday on Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

Unless Geneva enters one or two individual stars (and Len Friedman should be given a chance to compete with his javelin in big time), the burden of winning places for this district will have to be borne by Pitt and West Virginia athletes. With individual stars of the caliber of Bowen, Pickard, Gwinn, Robb and Utterback, of Pitt, and Riley, Epling and Montgomery, of West Virginia, it is very possible that the boys will bring back more first and second places than have graced local boards for some years.

BOWEN IN CENTURY

Bowen will be entered in the century dash and will run on one of the Pitt relay teams. Epling will compete in the hurdles and Montgomery is a probable Mountaineer entry in the hundred.

Capt. Pickard is a favorite in the pole vault, where he will meet his old rival, Sturdy, of Yale. Don Gwinn looms as a very likely winner in the hammer throw. Robb, on the form he exhibited at Ohio State, might take a place or two in the shot or discus.

It will be fine if Geneva finds it politic to send Friedman to Philly, for the Covenanter would most certainly get a place in the javelin throw. He might not win it, but if he were able to duplicate his 196-foot throw of last Saturday at Morgantown, I'd say he would win a place.

It will be great to see Hugo Bezdek again, for Hugo seldom hits this city except during football season. Hugo is to address the banquet of the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma at the Fort Pitt Hotel Friday evening. Bez is a member of the fraternity, which is certainly something for which the fraternity may be proud.

Rajah Clouts Lone Homer Of Day

The home run bats of both the National and the American Leagues were all but stilled yesterday, both by effective pitching and by the weatherman. Only one circuit clout was recorded, Rog Hornsby slamming one of Alexander's offerings in St. Louis for a round tripper.

By his homer, Rog enabled the National League to gain ground on the American and placed himself in a tie with Lefty Grimm and Frank O'Doul for the runner-up post in the league. Chick Hafey still leads with three. Averill tops the American circuit with two, while that league trails the National in the matter of total homers by seven, the count being 21 to 14.

NEWTON GETS 'BREAK' IN RETURN GO

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The hypnotic influence that a puncher wields over officials and spectators worked wonders in the Motor Square Garden arena last night, with the result that Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., was adjudged the winner over Phil Goldstein a second time in their 10-round return bout. It was a split decision, Referee Eddie Kennedy and Judge Jack Henderson finding for Newton and Judge Jim McLaughlin voting for Goldstein.

Boxing cautiously and starting off by making his opponent do the leading, after his bitter experience of fighting into the latter's hands in their first meeting, Goldstein lost the first round and barely broke even in the second, but then got going and carried every round thereafter by successively increasing margins until the eighth, when Newton, far behind on points, began to rally and did some heavy punching to win the honors.

In the ninth, Goldstein did little work, seemingly storing up energy for a hot finish, and Newton took that round by a shade. Then, following some hectic trading of punches in the final round, Goldstein outlasted Newton and finished up forcing the latter about the ring and scoring cleanly to take the round, his sixth of the fight, against three for Newton and one even.

NO KNOCKDOWNS SCORED

There were no knockdowns in the battle and almost throughout the more experienced Goldstein outsmarted his opponent. After the first two rounds, he began to make Newton miss sadly with his counters and handed him a bad body beating. Newton was all at sea in the inside fighting, and, after he had lost a few rounds, his judgment of distance became so erratic that Goldstein had no trouble blocking or ducking under his efforts to score and then raking his body and cuffing him about the head in the clinches.

If ever Goldstein won a bout in a local ring, he won last night's beyond all cavil. How any set of officials could be misled by the mere threat of Newton's punch, which, although it scored solidly when it did land, missed far oftener than it connected, and in the face of Goldstein's consistently good and earnest work round after round, is a mystery. At no time in the fight did Newton impress other than as a preliminary boy with a punch. What class there was in

CITY LEAGUERS CLEAR DECKS

The Pittsburgh City Baseball League held its final pre-season meeting in the offices of the Reliance Life Insurance Company last night. Every team in the loop was represented when President Tom Birks called the meeting to order.

Those attending were Jimmy Rooney, Edward Book, Bill McGrady, Al Zappa, Ed Miller, Fred Gavlick, Pop Geer, Tom Carson, Secretary Sweeney and Fred Alger.

The drawing up of the schedule was left to Fred Alger and the card possibly will be ready for publication at the end of the week.

Contracts were given out, so today should see managers busy getting the stars lined up.

In view of disquieting rumors, the managers gave the executive officers a vote of confidence, and all are hoping for a banner season. The opening game of the season will be played at Dean Field, the home of the J. L. Thomas club, Monday, May 6.

HAVRE DE GRACE, April 23.—(AP.)—Earl Sande, making his second ride on Hermitage, as owner and jockey, placed fourth in the Beverwyck stakes as The Nut romped to a four-length upset victory in the feature event of yesterday's racing program. Hermitage won his opening start a week ago with Sande up.

OAKMONT STAR TO PLAY FOR U.S. SENIORS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Western Pennsylvania golfdom has been signally honored in the selection of Dr. George T. Gregg, of the Oakmont Country Club, as a member of the United States senior golf team which, combined with a Canadian aggregation, will meet Great Britain in an international match in July. Dr. Gregg definitely announced today that he had accepted the invitation of the U. S. Seniors' Association, of which he was only recently elected a member, to play abroad.

Dr. Gregg.

The combined American - Canadian team of 14 will meet England at the famous Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews on July 5. Only the foremost senior golfers of the United States will uphold their end of the invading outfit.

Dr. Gregg, who captured the first West Penn seniors' tournament, staged at the Pleasant Valley Country Club last season, plans to sail with the "late" squad from Montreal on June 7; several members of the team will [illegible]e in May.

WILL ENTER TOURNEY

Following the international match Dr. Gregg plans on playing in the British seniors' championship, which is to be staged at Sunningdale on July 12. From that event, he will return. Dr. Gregg is recognized as one of the West Penn district's foremost players; he has been playing golf hereabouts for close to two score years.

Yesterday it was learned that S. Davidson Herron, national amateur champion of 1913, had returned to this city permanently again; he left shortly after winning that honor at Oakmont for Chicago, from whence he settled until recently in Philadelphia. He will continue in the brokerage business here.

With the addition of Herron to Oakmont's ranks, the Hulton club unquestionably has a team well nigh invincible, what with Watts Gunn, late of Atlanta, also a member now.

I doubt very much if there is a club team in any part of the world capable of beating an icked 15-men squad from Oakmont. Every one of the following men consistently shoot 75 or better and would be able to uphold their country's honor if it became necessary: Watts Gunn, Davey Herron, W. C. Fownes, Jr., Allison R. Maxwell, Joe Crawford, Richard C. Long, H. C. Fownes II, Bob Morrison, Jim Fownes, Bob Lyons, Eben Byers, George Ormiston, John Graham, Dr. George T. Gregg and Ray L. Babcock.

BEAUTIFY COURSE

Oakmont has also installed a new watering system under the direction of its noted greenkeeper, Emil (Dutch) Loeffler, and every green will be properly watered every day, morning and afternoon. Loeffler has also placed some 50 or 60 beautiful bird houses throughout the course this year. Oakmont at this writing is in better shape than it has ever been at this time of the year—and that is saying a whole mouthful.

Members of the local Hotel and Restaurant Golf Association are holding their first tournament of the season today at the Chartiers Heights Country Club.

Today's tournament is the first of seven competitions for the President's and Vice President's Cups. The trophies are to be awarded to the owners of the low net score totals in the first and second divisions, respectively. The association championship trophy is to be awarded to the linksman turning in the low gross score total in the seven competitions.

Hornsby Lone Big Six Star To Hit

With the Eastern half of the Big Six put out of action by rain yesterday, Rogers Hornsby upheld the honor of the organization for all the rest. The Rajah did all the hitting of the day for the Big Six. He slammed the offerings of Grover Cleveland Alexander for a single and a home run for his fifth and sixth consecutive hits, but missed out on his next two attempts.

This feat kept him far ahead of his nearest rival, Lou Gehrig, although his average dropped off to .563.

Jim Bottomley and Paul Waner each failed to hit in four attempts, and lost valuable percentage points, although the standing remains unchanged.

FEARED HE MIGHT NOT LIVE LONG

Foreman Sent Him Home From Work Because He Was Sick,

"Last fall I got into such a condition that I feared I might not live long," said John Klinger, a well-known resident of Munhall, Pa. "My work for years had been in the mills, and I had kept well in spite of the sudden changes of heat and cold and the exposure. But I noticed a gradual failing of my strength. This was followed by annoying troubles with my stomach. My kidneys and bladder, too, did not work as they should. I had to lay off frequently simply because I did not feel equal to a day's work. At times I had a dizziness that made me afraid I might fall over in the mill. I would stoop over and do a little work, and as I rose black spots would come before my eyes, and once in a while I had to grab the first thing I could reach to keep from falling.

"Sometimes after hard work I had to rest a while before I could go on, and at these times my heart thumped so that I became alarmed. My stomach got worse and frequently would not retain food. One day the foreman at the mill sent me home. He said I was too sick to work and, as we were all working under the compensation law, it was against the rules of the company to allow men to work in my condition. I knew this would soon mean the loss of my job, and that added to my worries. I lost weight, and my ankles used to swell up after a day's work, frequently with pains shooting up the side of my legs. I worked less than half of the time, and I saw ahead of me soon that I would not be able to work at all. I was so miserable that I did not particularly care, for I thought I could not last much longer.

"I was right about that. I could not have held on if one of my buddies had not urged me to try a new medicine he had used with good results. I started on it, and before I had taken two bottles I saw a big improvement. My stomach was straightened out, my pains stopped, and I began to sleep restfully. I kept right on with the medicine, and now I feel as well as I ever did, and am working every day. That is what World's Tonic did for me. I could, as I have learned since, give you the names of half a dozen or more of my buddies in the mills who have been wonderfully helped by this remarkable new medicine." World's Tonic is sold by all Dow Stores (formerly McCulloch's), and all other first class drug stores.

moment later he was forced by Evar Swanson. The old ball game seemed to be just about in as Hughey Critz hit a roller to Bartell, who had been starring in the contest.

Daredevil Dick made the youthful mistake of trying for a double-play on the ball instead of getting one man sure. He pounced for the easy chance and in his desire to throw quickly he failed to get the ball in his grasp and it rolled behind him. Swanson reached third as Critz landed at first.

At this point, Hill cracked, the home hitters jumping on him and Ray Kremer for four straight hits, a sacrifice fly and another hit, the round producing six big tallies. Goodbye ball game. Yes, the Reds counted three more in the eighth, but they didn't need these markers.

The Pirates scored a tally in the second, another in the fourth, and added another in the sixth. They were nursing their tallies nicely when the blowoff came.

Red Lucas traveled the entire distance for the Reds and he was ably assisted by Johnny Gooch, who made his debut as a member of the Cincinnati club. Gooch caught a splendid ball game. Joe Dawson worked the last round for the Pirates.

NEWTON GETS GIFT WIN

the ring belonged to Goldstein. What crafty boxing was done was done by Goldstein. What forcing was done, except for a few sporadic attempts by Newton, was traceable to Goldstein. And Goldstein also took with better grace Newton's harder punches than Newton accepted the close range shellacking Goldstein dealt out to him.

CROWD WITH NEWTON

The crowd was with Newton, as in the first bout between the pair. The fans always are for a natural socker. Every sortie by Newton, whether or not it scored, was greeted with "oohs" and "ahs," and when the decision was announced the cheers outnumbered the jeers. But that didn't alter the fact that the decision was far, far off the line and an injustice had been done the actual winning boxer.

Goldstein weighed 135½ pounds and Newton 133 at 3 p. m.

Another bit of garbling was done by the officials in the third bout, a scheduled six - rounder between Jimmy Marlow, of Aliquippa, 157 pounds, and Harry Spencer, of Washington, Pa. 155½. Spencer won by a technical knockout after 2 minutes 47 seconds of the third round, after having outpunched his rival from the first bell, although the latter was the aggressor all the way.

A barrage of blows sent Marlow tumbling face downward to the floor early in the final round, and Referee Eddie Kennedy counted him out. Marlow started to get up at nine, but failed to beat the count. Despite this fact, Kennedy permitted the fight to continue, and, in the confusion that followed, stood by as Spencer rushed across the ring and jammed the dazed and defenseless Marlow into a neutral corner and held him there with his left hand while he pummelled him unmercifully with his right. The crowd yelled for the brutal exhibition to be stopped and Judge Jim McLaughlin, sitting on the side of the ring in which the action was taking place, jumped to his feet and pounded the platform with his fist as he loudly called on the referee to intervene, invoking an authority that does not extend to judges. Kennedy finally heeded him and stopped the bout, and Spencer, who should have been declared the winner by a clean knockout, was booed out of the ring for having taken advantage of his groggy opponent after the bout should have been over. It was a sorry mess all the way round.

HARGRAVES WINNER

Ken Hargraves, clever Negro, of New Kensington, 131, handed out a trimming to Joe Boychan, of Steubenville, O., 129½, in the six-round semi-final; Paddy Mahan, of Charleroi, 132, won a split decision over Eddie Brannon, Negro, of the Hill, same weight, in the second four-rounder, and Jack McCarthy, of Oakmont, 147, made a punching bag out of Bob Smoller, of Millvale, 143, in the first bout over that route.

Eddie Kennedy and Joe Keally alternated in refereeing. The crowd was fairly large. It is unlikely that the Garden will run a show next Monday night because of its inability to have Jack Zivic agree to terms and an opponent in the main bout.

JABS AND JOLTS

Five local boxers are entered in the National A. A. U. junior championships at the Chicago Stadium, beginning tonight and lasting through Thursday night. Moose Butch, runnerup for the National senior bantamweight crown at Boston, is among them.

Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Temple Club, has booked Joe Corelli, of Erie, and Jackie Murray of the Hill, welters, for the six-round semi-final to his Tommy Crawley-Battling Gizzy battle Friday night.

Tug Phillips has been matched to box Eddie (Kid) Wagner, of New York, in the main bout at Erie Friday night. They are splitting an $800 guarantee between them.

The local offices of the State Athletic Commission will be moved from the Oliver building to Room 2204, Koppers building, Saturday.

Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter, is at work on his two preliminaries for his double windup card Thursday night. In the feature 10-rounders, he has Frankie Stellmack, of Cleveland, boxing Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, and George Pavlick, of Johnstown, meeting Teddy Esterbrook, of Niles, O.

Andy Callahan, Boston welterweight, boxes two opponents, each over the six-round rounte, at Portland, Me., tonight. His first foe will be Ted (Kid) Drew and his second Al Delgaldo. Other bouts listed tonight include: Russle LeRoy vs. Al Wolgast, Janesville, Wis.; Clyde Chastian vs. Bobby Tracey, Chicago; Mushy Callahan, junior-welterweight champion, now under the management of Jack Kearns, vs. Spug Myers, Los Angeles; Young Mickey Walker vs. Wildcast Auskings, Mt. Vernon, O., and Jack Renault, now under the management of Jimmy Johnston, vs. Charley Belanger, Minneapolis.

Andy Martin the clever Boston featherweight, passed through Pittsburgh today en route to New Castle, where he meets Steve Smith, Bridgeport, Conn., iron man, in a 10-rounder in the Jolly Bowl tomorrow night.

Howard Mayberry, of Donora, and Al Dundee, of Mansfield, O., have been signed to box the 10-round main bout of a show at the Washington (Pa.) Gardens next Monday night.

Dan Billick, Duquesne featherweight, leaves tomorrow for New York, where he is booked as one of the principals in the emergency bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Buffalo's Lineup For Bouts Named

The stage is set for the inter-city amateur boxing show at the Keystone Athletic Club tomorrow evening, when seven of the best mixers from Buffalo will vie with a like number of local stars in as many weight classes.

The athletic committee, headed by Clarence Overend, has extended an invitation to ponte Bush's Pirates and Joe McCarthy's Cubs to be guests at the mitt fest and many of the players are expected to be on hand. Word comes from Buffalo that a real team is being sent. The Buffalo contingent will line up as follows:

One hundred and twelve pounds, Joe Dempsey; 118 pounds, Leo Budney; 126 pounds, John Capason; 135 pounds, Paul Toth; 147 pounds, Clifford Lake; 160 pounds, Joe Melber, and 175 pounds, John Bolden.

Eddie (Kid) Wolfe Defeats Dundee

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—(AP.)—Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, of Memphis, fought his way to a 10-round decision over Johnny Dundee here last night. Wolfe weighed 134½ and Dundee 131½.

The veteran New Yorker, former featherweight and lightweight champion of the world, found Wolfe's furious exchanges in the last three rounds too much.

GIANTS RELEASE BONEY

NEW YORK, April 23.—(INS.)—The New York Giants have released Henry Boney, rookie pitcher from the University of Florida, to the Bridgeport, Conn., Club of the Eastern League on option.

Mike O'Dowd Loses To Stan Williams

WHEELING, W. Va., April 23.—Stanley Williams, of Martins Ferry, last night won a clean cut victory over Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Columbus, O., in the 10-round main bout at the Metropolitan Athletic Club show. Williams used a left jab effectively throughout the fight. He was credited with five rounds, O'Dowd one and four were even. They weighed 125 pounds.

Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, scored a technical knockout over Earl Simms, of Lancaster, O., the bout being stopped in the third round. The men weighed 147 pounds.

Johnny Edwards, of Columbus, administered a lacing to Roy Meinter, of Wheeling, in a six-round preliminary. Young Jimmy Jones, of Columbus, drew with Petie Patch, of Wheeling, in six rounds.

Harper Retains Hitting Lead In National

Though he slammed out two hits out of four trips to the plate as the Cubs were winning yesterday, Rogers Hornsby failed to pick up ground in his race to gain the National League batting leadership. BRAVES' TRIAL POSTPONED

BOSTON, April 23.—(AP.)—Trial of the Boston National League baseball club and Orrin J. Brusse, of Brookline, on charges of violating the corrupt practices act was postponed until May 14 in Municipal Court today. Counsel for the ball club asked for the continuance because club officials were attending the opening game in Brooklyn today.

The defendants were charged with law violations by Attorney General Joseph E. Warner after his office had investigated the activities of the Outdoor Recreation League in behalf of the recently adopted Sunday sports law in this state. Brusse was secretary of the league and was alleged to have filed with the secretary of state a list of contributors to a league fund raised to support the Sunday sports campaign.

The investigation by Attorney General Warner followed statements made during a probe of Boston City Council activities by the Boston Finance Commission, to the effect that the list filed by Brusse was false and that the baseball club had actually supplied the funds.

Paul Berlenbach Scores Mat Win

NEW YORK, April 23.—(INS.)—Paul Berlenbach, former lightheavyweight boxing champion again is in the sport's spotlight today—this time as a grappler. Der Paulie was victorious last night in his New York debut as a professional wrestler. He threw Fred Grubmeier, of Chicago, with a flying mare, a headlock and two wristlocks in 18:27. Grubmeier was somewhat flustered by the ring tactics of Berlenbach, who frequetly led with his left hand and unconsciously clenched his fists.

Jim McMillan, University of Illinois athlete, who roomed with Red Grange in his college football days, attempted to emulate Gus Sonnenberg's flying tackle and threw himself clear out of the ring in his bout with Toots Mondt, of Colorado. McMillan and a reporter, who was struck by the flying body, were knocked unconscious for more than 10 minutes, but recovered without injury. Mondt won the decision.

Carrick Bowling League Dined

As the official conclusion of their most successful season, the Carrick Business Men's bowling league members were feted last night at the Seventh Avenue Hotel.

Several short talks by the league officers, and the presentation of a cash prize to the Brentwood Hardware, champions of the league, ended the business end of the affair.

The entertainment, which was very elaborate, featured several well known song teams. The singing end rested on the shoulders of Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers and the Magidson Twins. Miss June Kopf gave exhibitions of fancy dancing.

HEIDELBERG TO SEEK O. K. OF FAGAN

By TOM BIRKS

Manager Ernest Balsarini, of the Heidelberg Soccer Club, announced yesterday that his club is going to carry an appeal to the West Penn Football Association against the decision of the American Soccer League, which suspended Joe Fagan, Heidelberg's star fullback, for life. Fagan was suspended last Friday evening by the committee of the American Soccer League, of which Jimmy Angus is president, for an alleged attack upon William McKay, of the Corinthians, two weeks ago in the latters' dressing room, following a game at Heidelberg.

Joe Fagan.

Balsarini, a quiet fellow, who has little to say, is certainly going to bat for Fagan this time. "The whole decision seemed to be aimed at the Heidelberg club on the eve of its battle to bring to this sector another national championship," stated the Heidelberg manager. "The sentence is far too drastic and is anything but fair."

SOCCER FANS ANGRY

And now, after taking everything that seemed to have been thrown at him, this quiet fellow from Carnegie is going to fight back. Of course many soccerites are back of it, and the action of the American Soccer League caused many caustic comments at the Stadium from fans who are anything but Heidelberg rooters.

Balsarini feels that, aside from a few isolated people, everyone in Western Pennsylvania, and the Cleveland men on the national amateur cup committee, are having a fine time kicking him around the lot. Fagan has been with Heidelberg three years, and never in that time has he been up before a soccer body to explain his conduct. And in three years he has never been warned. Although everyone knows that he is no angel on the field, he certainly did not warrant a life disbarment from the game, when he had done so much to uphold Western Pennsylvania's teams on the field.

Every team in the last six years that left Pittsburgh in search of national honors had Joe Fagan in its makeup, and then a committee just on hearsay evidence goes on record with such an absurd sentence.

Balsarini asks this, and rightly so: "What did Ohio State do with the player who played a leading part in the uprising at Curry four weeks ago?" Balsarini feels that he received a raw deal on the Swissvale protest. Though the local commissioner told Swissvale the protested man could not play, he played. Balsarini protested, won the decision, but still is awaiting the $15.00 protest fee that the committee generously kept.

PAID OWN EXPENSES

Then, when the wonderful decision to take the Heidelberg-Magyar game to Cleveland was arrived at in New York, and possibly would have been had not President Patterson stepped in, Balsarini made a trip to the Forest City at his own expense, when it should not have been necessary.

The West Penn meets this evening. Balsarini has the word of two witnesses that Fagan acted in self-defense and struck back after he had been hit. Balsarini is fighting for Fagan to be back in the game when the Newark German club is met in the grand final of the national cup, and the West Penn Football Association will have this to settle at tonight's session.

The Heidelberg club is also protesting the awarding of the points in the Heidelberg-Corinthians game to the Corinthians, this decision carrying with it the championship of the American League. If ever a game should have been thrown out, that one should. When the appointed time to start the game arrived, neither team had 11 men. When the game started, the Corinthians had two unregistered men in the lineup. With the score 1 goal to 0 in favor of Heidelberg, county detectives stopped the game. Then, on the grounds that Heidelberg was late in starting the game, the American League awarded the game to the Corinthians.

BARTELL'S BOOT COSTS GAME

BOOTS SCORES THRICE

Boots Grantham scored all three of the runs on Bartell's smashes and George enjoyed the unique distinction of drawing four bases on balls in as many trips to the plate. Red Lucas seemed to fear the Arizonian who was on the bases much of the afternoon.

Grantham finished up the engagement at first base. Earl Sheely reached base on an error in the eighth and Coburn Jones was sent in to run for the first sacker. Fred Brickell went to left field, he having batted for Remy Kremer in the same round.

The sorrel top battery, Lucas and Gooch, made a fine job of stopping Paul Waner. The best Paul could show after five duels with Lucas and Johnny was a base on balls. Brother Paul helped Hill in one big situation with a sparkly catch of a liner down the right field marker.

ALLEN NEW STAR

Ethan Allen has developed into a star it would seem. The collegian is a fast-stepper who can slug the ball like a good fellow. Ethan, too, is well over the 6-foot mark and he is a right good fielder.

Hughey Critz, captain of the Reds, is an appealing boy who is never without a nice word or a wise crack. The writer was talking with Manager Hendricks on the bench before the contest. The Reds were just about ready to go to their club house for the little meeting that precedes each game. In these sessions the teams work out their daily plans.

"I don't know how we will make out on the field but we sure are going to give you fellows an awful pasting at this meeting," said Hughey as he went into conference.

Chess Masters Begin Double Match

LONDON, April 23.—(AP.)—Jose Capablanca, Cuban chess master, and Gaza Maroczy, Hungarian master, have begun a series of games of "double chess" at the automobile club of London.

The game is played on an oblong board containing 192 squares with two sets of chessmen. It was originated by Grant Haywar in 1916. Capablanca is testing it to see whether it meets his recent suggestion for a more complicated game, avoiding constant draws.

Both players said that the game was interesting, but very complicated, taking from two to three days to conclude one game.

PADDY HARMON MAY FORCE ICE WAR

CHICAGO, April 23.—(AP.)—Rumblings of a "hockey war" grew louder today.

Announcement by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin that his Chicago Blackhawks will continue to play in the Coliseum instead of the New Chicago Stadium opened a new flood of apparently reliable reports that Paddy Harmon, president of the stadium, would combine with other recalcitrants and form a hockey circuit opposed to the National League.

HARMON NEEDS TEAM

Harmon, backed by several wealthy Chicago businessmen in the $7,000,000 stadium venture, has said he would insist on Major League hockey being played next winter in his sports palace. But he has failed to buy a team in the national circuit and as the Blackhawks will play in the Coliseum, his friends today were certain he would make the next move by raiding the playing crop of Major leaguers in the United States and Canada.

Although Harmon refused to reveal his plans, he has said he would either buy up enough contracts to force his way into the National League or establish at least a four-team league in Chicago.

NEW LOOP POSSIBLE

Reports were also current today that a new league was to be formed by Harmon, Frank Patrick, veteran hockey magnate of Vancouver, B. C., and the Dempsey-Cole-Fugazy interests of New York. Dempsey conferred with Harmon last week, while Patrick is expected to confer with him next week. Their purposes have not been revealed.

PERCY MALONE, UHLE PITCH SHUTOUTS

By LESS CONKLIN.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 23.—As the second week of the National League season starts, the Chicago Cubs continue to live up to their 1929 reputation of being heavy hitters. In five games they have collected 56 hits, including 13 doubles and six home runs, for a team average of .318.

But it is the work of three of their pitchers—Percy Malone, Guy Bush and Sheriff Blake—that has made them favorites to win the pennant. Three, four and five hits a game is the lean menu they have been doling out to rival teams. McCarthy's twirlers have not been scored upon in their last 26 innings on the mound. St. Louis and Pittsburgh being the victims.

MALONE IN FORM

In winning his second start of the season yesterday Malone held the Cards to five hits, and gained a 3-to-0 decision over the veteran Grover Alexander, who had started the season with a winning five-hit performance.

Hornsby's home run, his second of the season, was enough to beat Alex yesterday.

George Uhle, who enjoys a good year every other season, is due to resume his place among the leaders this year. He pitched Detroit to a 1-to-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns yesterday for his second win of the campaign.

With Allen delivering four hits, Cincinnati came to life and bumped off the Pirates, 9-to-4. A six-run rally in the seventh turned the trick.

WHITE SOX VICTORS

The hitless White Sox also did a form flip-flop and pounded four Cleveland pitchers for 10 runs, while Alphone Thomas blanked the Indians.

Rain again held all the eastern teams idle. The Giants, who were unable to play a single game of their opening at home against the Phillies today.

Joyce Wethered Sets Course Record

LONDON, April 23.—(AP.)—Joyce Wethered signalized her return to competitive golf today by lowering the women's record for the Worplesdon course from 76 to 74 in the qualifying round of the Surrey women's championship.

The former British champion played brilliantly, driving far and accurately and putting with extreme confidence. She took three putts on only the last green.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

PULLING THE CLUB

What is the cure for topping?

Answered by

JOHNNY FARRELL,

Winner of Eastern, Metropolitan, Wheeling, Massachusetts, Philadelphia, Chicago and Pennsylvania open championships, 1927; La-Gorce Open, 1928; tied for Bahamas Open, 1928; National Open, 1928.

Topping is caused by hitting the ball on the upswing. This happens when the player makes a marked effort to lift the ball into the air. He pulls the club away from the ball coming through, and as a result he hits the top of the ball instead of the bottom of it.

The best cure for this mistake is to play the ball more in center when addressing it, and to hit down a bit more as you are making the downward swing. This will usually combat the tendency to hit on the upswing, which results in topping.

A. D. C. TOURNEY COMPLETED

Leaders in the American Duckpin Congress' second annual tournament, which came to a close on the Ritz Alleys, Brookline, last night, successfully withstood the final night's pin crashing, though two five-men teams, two doubles combinations and one individual landed among the first 10.

The Herman Clothes Shop team of Pittsburgh, with a score of 2503, took first money in the team event. In the doubles, Tortore and Bergman were high with an aggregate of 1045. P. Babic was the singles victor with 593.

In last night's rolling, the Muck Brothers team, of Braddock, went into fifth place among the five-men teams with a score of 2219. The Kabitzers, of Pittsburgh, finished sixth with 2187. R. Muck and Pollack crept into sixth place in the doubles with 962 and Webu and Shephard took eighth place with 931.

Only one bowler broke into the first 10 in the singles as the final balls were rolled down the alleys, Coleman setting up a 517 score to take fifth position.

The 10 leaders in each division follow:

LOCAL TENNIS BODY MEETS TONIGHT

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

The Pittsburgh Tennis Association will convene at the P. A. A. in annual business session at 8 o'clock this evening. Various affairs of importance confront local court moguls in the impending conclave, among these being the 1929 P. T. A. Inter-Club League campaign, the admission of the Wilkinsburg Tennis Club to the local circuit, and the Western Pennsylvania Championships.

A prime problem for association officials to contend with is that of the loop schedule. This involves particularly the matter of working in complete home-and-home programs for what may prove to be an enlarged entry list. Whether the system in vogue for the past several summers will be retained with modifications, or a new one inaugurated to mend old difficulties and to meet those likely to arise during the coming season must be decided tonight.

SEEK TOURNEY HOME

The West Penn tournament, more or less of a homeless orphan since the start of construction upon the Pitt Cathedral of Learning in the fall of 1926, will also encounter discussion. That the titular event will be staged is virtually a certainty, but where it will be run off is the subject of not untimely speculation. It is possible that the ultimate solution will lie in spreading the rather extensive competition over more than one battery of rectangles with the general supervision vested as usual in the P. A. A. tennis committee, whose unflagging interest has counted tremendously in keeping the net pastime alive in Pittsburgh for almost two decades.

President Frank McClintock of the P. T. A. has sent out urgent call to delegates to this evening's confab and it is probable that, in view of the extreme importance of the questions to be treated, a large and genuinely representative group will attend.

DUKE PREPS WIN

Capt. Billy O'Loughlin and his Duke prep netmen swept to a 5-1 triumph over Wilkinsburg High School in a nicely battled racquet engagement on the Bluff asphalt yesterday afternoon. O'Loughlin struck his cleverest form of the year to date in blanking Douglas, slender visiting youngster, 6-0, 6-0, while Behringer and Breen reached stride to out-drive and out-volley Miller and Burnett, Wilkinsburg luminaries, respectively, in a brace of straight-set contests.

The Dukelets garnered both doubles tilts without serious difficulty, but Summers, game and rangy, invading number two performer, ignored an ailing foot to outlast Dave Huttinger of the home delegation in three lengthy brackets. The preps are slated to tangle with Verona High School on the Hill today and with Peabody on the same rectangles Thursday. The summary:

Singles—O'Loughlin, Duquesne, defeated Douglas, Wilkinsburg, 6-0, 6-0; Summers, Wilkinsburg, defeated Huttinger, Duquesne, 4-6, 6-3, 9-7; Behringer, Duquesne, defeated Miller, Wilkinsburg, 6-4, 6-3, 9-7; Breen, Duquesne, defeated Burnett, Wilkinsburg, 7-5, 6-3.

Doubles—O'Loughlin and Behringer, Duquesne, defeated Douglas and Miller, Wilkinsburg, 6-2, 6-2; Huttinger and Breen, Duquesne, defeated Summers and Burnett, Wilkinsburg, 6-3, 6-3.

GAVUZZI GAINS IN PYLE'S RACE

VANDALIA, Ill., April 23.—(AP.)—Pete Gavuzzi, bearded Italian, of Southampton, England, increased his lead in C. C. Pyle's bunion derby yesterday when he finished in a tie for first place in the twenty-third lap, covering the 31.8 miles from Effingham, Ill., to Vandalia, Ill., in 4:06:50.

Ed Gardner, Negro, of Seattle, Wash., was tied with Gavuzzi, cutting down the gap between third and second places. Gavuzzi now leads John Salo, Passaic, N. J., policeman, who is in second place, by 4:20:30 hours, while Gardner approaches within 14 minutes and 13 seconds of the New Jersey cop.

Paul Simpson, of Burlington, N. C., sixth in elapsed time, followed Gavuzzi and Gardner into the control point, covering the distance in 4:23:10. Phillip Granville, of Hamilton, Ont., and Giusto Umek, of Italy, were tied for fourth, Salo was fifth.

HAGEN PAIRS WITH ARCHIE IN DRILL

MOORTOWN, England, April 23.—(AP.)—American and British professional golfers continued practice today for the Ryder Cup matches Friday and Saturday, playing over an extremely dry course which gave the ball much run.

Players who kept cards wrote many low figures on them. Fred Robson scored 69, playing with Abe Mitchell and Ernest Whitcombe, who were around in 72.

Walter Hagen and Archie Compston practiced together yesterday, their appearance causing some discussion as it was the first time players of the rival teams had fraternized on the fairways.

"When Capt. George Duncan was told of the international pairing, he remarked, "I don't mind Archie playing with Hagen so long as he beats him."

The long-hitting Americans were complaining today that the dry condition of the Moortown course left them no full length second shots.

The Americans have canceled their plans for visiting Muirfield, where the open will be played, in advance of the Ryder matches. They will continue to practice at Moortown until the international matches begin Friday.

SMOKE TALKS by the DUTCH MASTERS

By the way, when are you going to give Dutch Masters a trial? Or, are we by any chance addressing a fellow Dutch Masters fan?

The world's least satisfying smoke is the cigar you wish you had, some rainy midnight when you suddenly discover that the old box is empty. Which reminds us we must drop by the corner cigar store on our way home.

Dutch Masters affect most men a good deal like golf. Before you try them you wonder what makes the real devotee so enthusiastic about his pet cigar. After you try them, the chances are, you'll be as bad as he is.

Tune in the DUTCH MASTERS MINSTRELS

has played in as many games as the ex-resident of Coulter and Franklin is ahead of him.

Harris has batted .416 in 20 games and leads the league in base hits with 32 to his credit. Arlett, of Oakland, has an average of .426 for 20 games and has made five home runs. Hollis Thurston tops the league batsmen with .546 for 11 contests. Smead Jolley is hitting .348.

Bob Smith

BASEBALL followers are awaiting with interest the announced plan of the Phillies' management to convert Infielder Barney Friberg into a pitcher this year. Friberg has been used in the infield so far, as usual, but Manager Burt Shotton says he has not given up the idea of trying him on the slab.

Shotton is all the more hopeful that Friberg may come through on account of some recent remarks dropped by Johnny Evers, one of the numerous managers of the Braves. Evers was not discussing the case of Friberg, but was talking about Bob Smith, of the Boston club, who also was changed from an infielder into a pitcher. "The more I see of Smith, the more I come to think that he is one of the greatest pitchers I ever have seen," said Evers. Johnny expressed the opinion that Smith had been able to succeed as a hurler because he always possessed a remarkable throwing arm, and that is what gives Shotton more confidence than ever in Friberg, as Barney also owns one of the strongest arms in the country, besides having a natural bent for pitching.

Stock Rally Dampened | Local Stock Quotations

RISE IN MONEY SLOWS RALLY IN STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP.)—Broad scale buying operations carried more than a score issues to record high levels in today's stock market. Extreme gains in the active issues ranged from 1 to 8 points, with a few high priced specialties marked up 10 to 20 points in a thin market. The rally was slowed up in the early afternoon by a stiffening of call money rates.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7½ per cent but advanced to 8 in reflection of the growing demand for funds as a result of the increased speculative activity in securities. Time money, commercial paper and bankers' acceptance rates were unchanged.

RECORD SALE

One of the features of the session was the opening sale of a block of 100,000 shares of Simms Petroleum at 30, representing a turnover of $3,000,000. This is believed to be the largest individual transaction ever recorded on the exchange, although a few smaller transactions have exceeded it in dollar value. The sale was made to M. J. Meehan, who was reported to be acting for a powerful new group in that issue.

Failure of the reparation experts to reach an agreement also tended to slow up bullish activities. Hope is still held out in New York banking quarters that an early solution may be found of this troublesome problem and to date, there has been no panicky liquidation of either German marks or German securities. Except for the publication of another batch of favorable earnings statements there was little else in the day's news to influence speculative sentiment.

A brisk demand for the chemical shares also attracted widespread attention. Recent accumulation of these issues has been based upon the growing use of chemicals in manufacturing and oil refining activities, as well as in agriculture. A new chemical for the liquid cooling of airplane engines is reported to be one of the latest developments of the industry. Commercial Solvents was the leader in that group, soaring more than 10 points to a new high ground. Liquid Carbonic and Allied Chemical sold at least 6 points above yesterday's final quotations and Union Carbide moved into new high ground.

PEAKS SCALED

New peak prices also were established by American Telephone, Adams Express, Borg-Warner, Bohn Aluminum, North America Republic Steel, Consolidated Film preferred, Hershey Chocolate common and preferred, Philips Jones and New Haven.

There were a few soft spots, American Can, Bethlehem Steel, Allegheny Corporation, General Electric and Greene Cananea Copper, which had been prominent in the recent recovery, showed a tendency to fall back on profit taking.

Execution of buying orders for several large blocks of General Motors attracted an immediate speculative following which quickly ran the price up to around 87. Simms petroleum kept climbing and crossed 32, but Sinclair and Houston Oil turned heavy. International Harvester moved up three points on brisk bidding and Case Threshing fell back four. New Haven rose across 102, carrying with it some other popular rails. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 4,000,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, April 23.—(AP.)—Better export demand for wheat from North America helped to make wheat prices advance higher today but bulges brought about enlarged selling and setbacks ensued. May delivery of wheat touched a fresh low price record for the season, but simultaneous with the new bottom figures were bids ⅛c higher in different sections of the pit. Today's export business totaled 2,500,000 bushels and included some domestic hard winter wheat and durum.

Wheat closed irregular at ⅜@¾c net decline to advance; corn 1⅛ to 2⅝ down; oats ⅛c off to an equal advance, and provisions varying from 17c decline to 17c gain.

Commission house buying of wheat enlarged today when the market at the outset went below any level which May delivery had heretofore reached this season. Previous speculative sellers turned also to the buying side of the market. None of the purchasing was on the ground that this was the seventh consecutive day upon which price breaks had been witnessed, and that a reaction was overdue.

Friends of higher prices for wheat contended also that indications now pointed to passage of a farm relief bill which the President could sign. It also was asserted that a good-sized amount of export business in wheat from North America had been done overnight, and that European continental countries were absorbing liberal quantities of breadstuffs.

Investment Trust Listings.

New York Stock Exchange authorities are reported to have agreed in principle on the class of investment trust shares which will be admitted to trading. The governing committee of the exchange, after investigating the question for more than a year, is said to have turned it over to the law committee so that regulations for admission of the shares may be formulated. The exchange's policy toward investment trust shares has not been made public, but the financial district hears that a majority of the governors favors admission of the best of these issues, selected on the basis of a security's distribution, its age and earning power and holdings of the trust and its balance sheet position. Listing privileges for investment trust shares, most of which are now traded in the over-the counter market, would give them wider distribution. The market value of all such securities is now estimated at about $2,000,000,000. It is expected in Wall street that the law committee of the exchange will soon offer a plan whereby some of the investment trusts may qualify for listing. Final decision will rest with the governing committee.

Hardware Trade Speeds Up.

The general situation in the hardware trade of the country is one of great optimism, Hardware Age will say in its weekly market summary. "Employment is increasing at a rapid rate and is now at its highest peak for the past two years, the situation in this respect embracing unskilled labor as well as skilled. Coupled with this come reports of excellent crop conditions, and snow and rain of recent weeks has served to help them along with needed moisture. Damages to property incident to recent wind storms have had their reflection in sales of hardware replacements, and 'it is an ill wind that blows nobody good.' Buying of spring merchandise as well as staple items has been very brisk in practically all centers. The steel industry looks for continued activity in August, a condition that is considered unusual. Altogether the situation is very bright. Prices are firm and steady mainly, and collections are fairly good."

Utilizing Farm Waste.

Election of Clarence A. Broun, former executive vice president of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, to the presidency of Cornstalk Products Company, pioneer in the manufacture of paper pulp from cornstalks and other farm wastes, was announced today. Mr. Broun succeeds W. Jule Day, of New York, who becomes chairman of the board. R. E. Owen, of New York, and Scott McLanahan, of New York, have also taken places on the Cornstalk Products Company board. Mr. Day said the company had spent $1,500,000 in research and development work and on the construction of its first plant at Danville, Ill., and was now prepared to increase the investment to $2,000,000. The added capital will be used to increase the pulp output as well as to provide a chemical by-product recovery plant and other developments preliminary to expansion in the general field of farm waste utilization.

Baldwin Locomotive.

Although the recent policy of the Baldwin Locomotive Works of diversifying its interests and activities is to be continued, reports that the company is now negotiating for interests in two other companies are said to be premature. Present activities of the company are being concentrated in building up locomotive manufacturing operations at the Eddystone plant and in the construction of the General Steel Casting Company's new plant at Eddystone, adjoining the Baldwin property. Baldwin has one-third interest in General Steel Casting Company and its ultimate investment in this company may approximate $5,000,000.

New Haven Crosses Par.

New Haven crossed par yesterday for the first time since 1913. Interest in the stock was revived rather briskly as a result of the optimistic remarks of the head of the road read in his absence at last week's annual meeting of stockholders. Before the war New Haven was regarded as offering the highest type of railway investment, but ran into severe difficulties arising from over-expansion back in 1912. The stock broke through par in 1913 and was long a neglected issue. Steady improvement has been made in the last few years, however, with corresponding recovery shown in its earning capacity.

CAR BODY FIRM DOES RECORD BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

A CONTINUATION of the high rate of automobile production is being indicated by the operations of the Hayes Body Corporation. W. W. Hoagland, president of the organization, says that his company is enjoying the greatest business in its history.

All departments are running five and one-half days a week with night shifts in the metal stamping and steel manufacturing units. April sales are expected to exceed those of March by $1,000,000.

"The Grand Rapids plant is working at capacity on work for Chrysler," said Mr. Hoagland. "It is turning out 550 bodies a day. This schedule will be maintained for the balance of this month and throughout May. There is a possibility of an increase during this period.

"THE Indianapolis plant schedule calls for 300 bodies daily during May, which is nearly twice the output for March. This unit produced 3,700 bodies last month, is producing 5,400 in April and will produce 7,500 in May. The March output was the greatest in the history of this plant, with April running nearly 50 per cent better."

Mr. Hoagland explains the increase in operations at Indianapolis by the fact that sales of the Roosevelt and its acceptance by the public have been unprecedented. The Ionia plant producing Marmon, Chrysler and Reo parts will turn out 7? bodies a day for the remainder of this month and through May.

NET earnings of the Hays Body Corporation last year were the greatest in the company's history, reaching $838,917 after charges. This was equivalent to $3.36 a share on the 250,000 shares of common stock after deducting dividends on the preferred stock, which was retired in October, 1928. Contracts held by the company for 1929 indicate that its business this year will be at least double the production of 1928 so that a corresponding increase in profits is expected.

The local interest in Hays Body is believe to be large. K. W. Todd, investment banker of this city, is numbered among the company's directors.

THE Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation has started production of the newly developed Dick propeller for airplanes. After severe tests the product has been well received by prospective consumers. The Navy Department is known to have been greatly impressed by the possibilities of the propeller, which is made of hollow steel, giving it exceptional strength.

The output of this product has not yet been developed to a volume which has had any effect on earnings but, in spite of this, first quarter results of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company were very satisfactory. Bookings for the second and third quarters have continued to show greater totals.

EARLY this year the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation was merged with the Graham Bolt and Nut Company and the Colona Manufacturing Company. Good progress is being made in co-ordinating the operations of the three organizations. It is eventually planned to concentrate certain types of production at the plants which are particularly fitted for carrying out operations at a low cost.

Judging from the bookings received so far, the new company will show earnings for 1929 which will compare very favorably with the combined results of the original organizations last year. After deducting all charges the net profit in 1928 was $2,270,134 which was equivalent to $1.51 a share on the 1,500,000 shares outstanding after the consolidation.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP.)—An aggressive bull demonstration on the curb market in the first hour of trading today brought out heavy profit taking, and gains were for the most part substantially reduced or canceled before midday.

Although credit conditions have shown moderate improvement, the supply of call money remains small, and any large scale resumption of buying would probably send the rate soaring. This situation, added to the unsatisfactory developments at the reparations conference, was enough to restrain operations for the advance.

Aviation and utility stocks were again brisk demand. The aviation issues have been promoted by reports of expanding operations, with most companies sold out for some time ahead, and the utilities still respond to merger reports. Consolidated Aircraft, Fokker and Wright advanced 2 points or so during the morning. American Light and Traction, United Gas Improvement and American Superpower issues were again prominent in the utilities, with some gains running from 4 to 6 points. International Telephone ran into selling, sagging fractionally by early afternoon.

Deere had one of its characteristic spurts, shooting up 22 points, only to react and lose much of its gain. Farm implement shares generally have been in favor on the strength of the spring agricultural demand for equipment. Oliver again broke into new high ground. International Projector, Newton Steel and Servel were also well bought. Ford of Canada rallied to around the 100 mark. Firestone Tire was in demand for a time.

Oil stocks were depressed by reports that the American Petroleum Institute may abandon its curtailment program. Vacuum had an advance of over 2 points, but quickly lost it, and Humble was heavy. Newmont was a feature of the mines, rising 4 points during the morning. Hudson Bay eased.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

ENGINEERING RESUMES COMMON STOCK EXTRA

The revival of active trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange was again in evidence in the early market today, when a heavy volume of transactions was recorded, with prices holding close to the levels attained in yesterday's advance.

The sharp spurt in United Engineering and Foundry yesterday had its explanation today in the directors' announcement that the 25-cent extra dividend had been restored. The regular quarterly payment of 40 cents was also declared. The extra was suspended some time ago, but its re-establishment was understood to be only a matter of time. The company's outlook is considerably improved by developments in connection with the Steel Corporation's decision to install the American Rolling Mill Company's patented continuous sheet mill process, the understanding being that United Engineering will get the contract to place the equipment.

Other major steel companies are negotiating for license to use the process, among them Bethlehem. In addition to this angle, United Engineering is understood to be rolling up larger profits which warrant the resumption of extra payments on the stock.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt remained quiet and was handled around the figures prevailing on the close last night. The company's stock was admitted to trading on the New York Curb this morning. This is preliminary to listing on the "big board," which is expected to be announced shortly. While some of the trading stock has been sold out on the recent advance, it is said the larger holdings of the people informed as to developments have not been disturbed and are intact awaiting a demonstration when the shares are admitted to the New York exchange.

Carnegie Metals displayed further strength today and in the early dealings scored a larger fractional gain over the previous session's close. The company is said to have made arrangements which will provide sufficient power for the operation of its El Bote mine, a difficulty it has been endeavoring to overcome for some time.

U. S. Grain Exports For Week Increase

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP.)—Grain exports from the United States last week totalled 1,250,000 bushels, compared with 698,000 for the previous week, showing a gain of 552,000.

Department of Commerce figures show that wheat exports for the week ending April 20 were 867,000 bushels, compared with 277,000 for the previous week; corn, 201,000 against 249,000; barley, 77,000 against 102,000; oats, 88,000 against 70,000; rye, 17,000 against none.

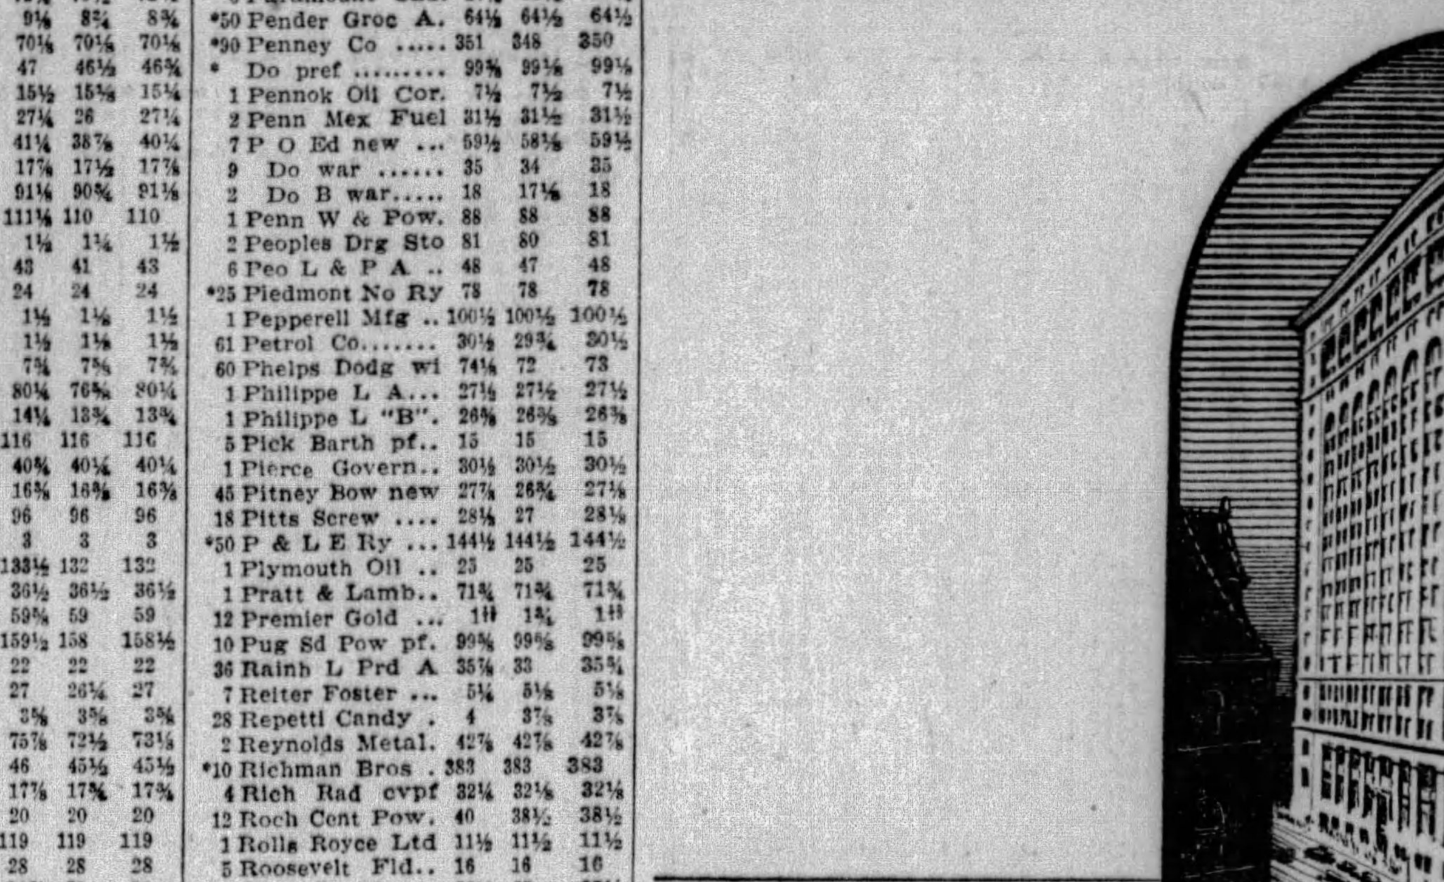
Canadian grain cleared through United States Atlantic ports totaled 2,077,000, compared with 2,588,000 the previous week.

I.C.C. Refuses B. & O. Anti-Trust Stay

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has denied the petition of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad asking permission to stay prosecution of the anti-trust complaint based on the road's ownership of Western Maryland stock.

Foreign Steel Firms Report Big Output

WASHINGTON, April 23.—General over-production is reported by the entire membership of the Continental Steel Entente in Europe, the Department of Commerce was advised from Paris today. Figures indicate Germany, France, Belgium and Luxemburg together produced 30,297,000 metric tons of crude steel last year, despite the established quota of 29,287,000 tons.



"IT BATTERS FROM STYLOBATE TO CORNICE"

Thus did the proud owners of the Frick Building describe Pittsburgh's first twenty-one story skyscraper on the occasion of its opening 27 years ago. Thus did they state in architectural terms that the walls of the building slant slightly inward so that the top is three feet narrower than the base.

Skyscrapers were built that way to enhance the appearance of height. Today the effect is achieved by set-backs.

Time has had little effect on the Frick Building. Its frame is of steel, its walls of granite, and its interior trim of white Italian marble and solid mahogany. It houses the offices of some of the greatest industrial organizations in the world.

Rich Men Lavishing Gifts On Their Home Communities

By B. C. FORBES

TWO things I have noticed about most of our really big men: They remain boys at heart; and the place of their birth, usually humble, retains the warmest spot in their hearts.

Did you ever stop to think how many Americans who have attained great place and power and wealth lavish gifts upon their old home community or upon the city that has afforded them their opportunity to succeed?

THIS observation is inspired by the announcement the other day that gifts planned by Arthur W. Cutten for Guelph, Ontario, the town of his birth and youth, include a modern hotel, an 18-hole municipal golf links, a baseball diamond, football field, tennis courts, playground and clubhouse.

JOHN J. RASKOB recently gave $1,000,000 (in memory of a son who was killed) for the relief and assistance of needy children, the headquarters to be in Wilmington, where the DuPont family, Mr. Raskob's sponsors and associates, have been located for more than a century. The DuPonts have given Delaware many notable institutions. Senator Coleman DuPont devoted millions to building a wonderful highway through the state. Pierre S. DuPont has donated millions, recent gift having been $330,000 to build a modern high school in Seaford. A. Felix DuPont recently gave $1,000,000 for a church boarding school for boys in Delaware.

ANOTHER General Motors family that are giving away more millions than the public knows anything about for hospitals and for religious and other charitable institutions in Detroit, are the Fisher Brothers. Especially extensive have been the gifts made by Fred J. Fisher, but much of his largesse has been conducted so quietly that the facts have never been published. Not long ago, Larry Fisher, the youngest of the brothers, gave Detroit a noble charitable institution.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB'S gifts have included, among many others, a beautiful Catholic church at Loretto (where he was born), a convent house at Cresson, a model road in place of the dilapidated one where he used to drive his stage coach, a church at Braddock, an industrial school at Homestead, $2,000,000 endowment to St. Francis College at Loretto, a school and an auditorium at Weatherly, all in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Schwab probably was inspired by the unique example in money-giving set him by his old chief, Andrew Carnegie, whose benefactions were heaped upon his native town, Dunfermline, Scotland, and whose total givings reached several hundred million dollars.

Another town in Scotland that has benefited greatly by the generosity of a native boy who migrated to America and made his mark and millions is Falkirk, its Santa Claus being Robert Dollar, the 85-year-old steamship and lumber giant.

OWEN D. YOUNG has done and is still doing much for the little village of Van Hornesville, New York, where he was born 54 years ago. Van Hornesville, thanks to its most distinguished son, today has a district school such as possessed by few other places in America. Mr. Young also conducts a farm on the most scientific lines and encourages all his fellow-farmers—Van Hornesville is Mr. Young's official residence—to come and see how things are done in the modern way, especially by means of electricity. Schwab, incidentally, also conducts a wonderful farm at Loretto, which has done much to improve methods and livestock in that territory.

GEORGE EASTMAN'S contributions to the home of Kodak have reached many millions, covering art, music, education, health, etc.

Milton S. Hershey is devoting practically his entire enormous fortune to making the home of his famous chocolate business, Hershey, Pa., an earthly paradise, especially for orphan children. George F. Johnson has been the exemplary "sugar daddy" of Endicott and Johnson City, N. Y., where he is "George F." to all his shoe factory workers and even to all the children. The Mellon family have been prominently associated with valuable contributions to the City of Pittsburgh.

William J. Conners gave $1,000,000 as a foundation for charitable work in his city, Buffalo. John H. Patterson spent both money and himself in making Dayton a better city. Asa Candler did the same for Atlanta. George M. Verity is doing similar work for Middletown, O. In San Francisco a community foundation was formed by 14 public-spirited citizens, including William H. Crocker, Mortimer Fleishhacker, Paul Shoup and Charles W. Merrill.

CHICAGO has enjoyed large-scale munificence at the hands of John D. Rockefeller, the Field family, Julius Rosenwald, Albert D. Lasker, the Armours, the McCormicks and other worthy citizens.

GEORGE F. BAKER, the dean of New York's bankers, has in recent years given millions for college purposes in New York and Harvard, and for other purposes elsewhere. The Rockefeller philanthropies almost cover the earth. Of late years the Harkness family has been scarcely less lavish. The Morgans, the Dodges, the Schiffs, the Strauss, the Warburgs, the Guggenheims, August Heckscher and James Speyer also have done a lot.

HAPPILY, more and more of our rich men are using their money worthily during their lifetime instead of holding on to it until they can hold on no longer—It was James J. Hill who once observed, "There are no pockets in shrouds."

STEEL MILLS BUSY IN OHIO

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 23.—Steel companies in Mahoning Valley this week maintain a high production rate. Independents are producing steel ingots at 92 per cent of capacity. Average output rate of Carnegie Steel properties has increased to 88 per cent, from an average of 80 per cent maintained for several months previously. Of 51 independent open hearth furnaces, 47 are making steel.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Republic Iron and Steel average 85 per cent.

Empire Steel Company will build a $40,000 addition to its Ashtabula plant, adding two annealing furnaces.

Sheet mill schedules show a moderate decline this week, which will be offset by larger scheduled before the week ends, it is said.

The annual stockholders' meeting of Youngstown Tube is being held today for election of directors. One vacancy exists on the board caused by the death of Harry Coulby, of Cleveland.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

There was a fair demand for all lines of fruit and vegetables today at the wholesale produce district in Pittsburgh. There were many changes in the quotations with the prices tending to become lower.

The poultry market was steady, demand good with supplies liberal. The prices on broilers took a drop of five cents.

The butter, egg and cheese markets were steady, demand fair and the prices of eggs somewhat higher.

Car lot supplies were nominal with a total of 438 cars on track. Arrivals included 13 cars of apples, 14 cabbage, 13 celery, 3 grapefruit, 6 lettuce, 16 onions, 7 oranges, 2 peppers, 56 potatoes, 3 strawberries, 3 sweet potatoes, 11 tomatoes, 9 beans, 1 carrot, 4 cucumbers, 3 cauliflower and 3 pears.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Money "Brake" Applied.

The rapid pace set by the market and the extent of the advance had some bearing on the firming in call money today. The feeling was expressed in some quarters that the market appeared today going too fast and as credit is the real "brake" on an overstimulated market, firming of the rate was probably resorted to. However, this did not change at all the expectation of the outlook for easier money over the next month or two.

Railroad stocks showed pronounced improvement, based on knowledge that one of the biggest investment trusts looks favorably on the Rails as a medium for some of their investment funds.

Going into the final hour of trading the firmness in money had its effect on the general list, retarding the advance and slowing down trading volume. Neither of these was regarded as an unhealthy sign considering the scope of the rally. The 8 per cent call rate held to the close although there was a considerable demand for money after the 8 per cent figure had supplemented the 7½ per cent renewal rate.

Expect Move in the Steels.

Brokerage gossip was confident that a move in U. S. Steel would get underway considering the strength of the rest of the list and the favorable earning developments of the next few days—Republic Steel showed over $3 a share for first quarter, Bethlehem's net for the second quarter is expected to be above $4 a share, while U. S. Steel's statement next Tuesday is being estimated at $6 a share for the quarter. This would be a record three-months' period.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

At annual stockholders meeting of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company today Harris Creech, president of Cleveland Trust Company, was elected a director to succeed Harry Coulby. President Campbell said the company in 1928 expended $14,000,000 for improvements, all out of earnings, and is spending this year at the rate of $1,500,000 a month for betterments, etc., mostly in the Chicago district. The money spent this year he said would also probably come out of earnings. The company now has $18,000,000 in cash, he said. He looks for continued good business this summer. The only line off now is the oil business.

Frisco Net Increased.

The St. Louis-San Francisco Railway System reports for the quarter ended March 31, 1929, net income of $1,705,202 after fixed charges, equal, after 6 per cent non-cumulative preferred dividends, to $1.47 a share on the 655,432 shares of common stock ($100 par) outstanding. This compares with $1,205,345, or $1.67 a share on the common in the corresponding quarter of 1928. In March, 1928, the company issued $49,157,400 noncumulative 6 per cent preferred stock and retired the old $7,500,000 6 per cent preferred stock. This accounts for the smaller per share earnings on the common stock in face of a larger net income for the quarter.

Orient Road Seeks Issue.

The Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railway of Texas has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue $4,000,000 general mortgage 6 per cent bonds and 30,000 shares of its $100 par capital stock. Securities will be delivered to the Atchison, Topeka and Canta Fe Railroad for cancellation of $9,116,663 first mortgage 30-year 4 per cent bonds of the Orient.

The San Angelo, Tex., Standard Times, says today that the Mexican spans of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railway have been sold to B. F. Johnson, sugar magnate of the Southern Republic. The newspaper received its information from C. M. Newman, of El Paso, reported to have been instrumental in arranging the deal. Mr. Johnson has not completed plans for development of the lines, Mr. Newman, a director of the Texas Orient Line, declared. New York and El Paso capitalists, it is understood, will join Johnson in the development of the rail properties. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Lines purchased the entire Orient system, including properties in the United States and Mexico last year.

Meehan Whirls Simms Up.

A big pool operation by the "Meehan crowd" was represented in the Simms Petroleum activities today. The action was stimulated by the new discovery well of Simms last week south of the Seminole area, in Oklahoma. Direction of the market destinies of Simms was taken over by M. G. Meehan and his friends last week, the house formerly regarded as handling the market in Simms stepping aside for the large operation, though still retaining a large stock interest. A block of 100,000 shares of Simms Petroleum which sold at the opening, was the largest single transaction ever recorded on the New York Stock Exchange, and duplicates the opening of similar size on the Curb in General Baking last May. The transaction broke a 20-year Stock Exchange record held by a block of 65,000 shares of United States Steel handled in June, 1909. Mr. Meehan is the New York Exchange member credited with engineering the sensational advance in Radio last year and has numerous other spectacular market feats to his credit.

Dormont, Mt. Lebanon 63

WHY?
$16,000, NOW $11,500
MT. LEBANON—ALL BRICK.
Bad location? No. It's one of the best near Mission Hills. Poorly arranged? No. It has 6 fine large rooms and sunparlor splendidly arranged. Down in a hole? No. On a good elevation with a beautiful view. Too far from school? No. It's only a short walk to Washington School. If this is all true, why the big bargain? Phone us and we will tell you, or come out and see it.

Maybe I'm Wrong

by JOHN P. MEDBURY

Efficiency Experts

A man will promise women and babies anything to keep them quiet.

The Good Old Daze

A woman's place may be in the home, but her daughter's place seems to be in a night club.

Take It or Leave It

In Chicago, life is full of trials with very few convictions.

Financial Note

When a cashier elopes with the funds, the bank usually charges it up to running expenses.

Among the Illiteratti

The little boy who said he wanted to learn to write so that he could grow up to be a great forger.

Thanks to the Reformers

This may be a free country, but it's hard to take many liberties.

Our Own Vaudeville

Johnny—Daddy, is that a blackbird?

Father—No, son. It's the dove of peace that's been flying over Pittsburgh.

BUGHOUSE FABLES

Styles in Bronze

"The senator is careless about his clothing."

"No matter. Did you ever see a statue of a man with creased pants?"

Oh, Well

"A girl used to say that the man she married must be able to support her in good style."

"Well?"

"Now she's satisfied if he can keep house."

Umbrage

"Want a ticket to a charity ball?"

"No, I'm not an object of charity, and if I were, a ticket to a ball would not do me any good."

Office Call

Mrs. Wombat says she misses the old family doctor.

"Got the rheumatiz this week," she says. "It ain't much, but I got it. I don't like to tell my symptoms to a fresh gal at a desk."

Admonition

Listen, festive parties,
Put this in your pouch,
Home is where the heart is,
Not the grouch.

Sunshine of the Office

"Your new stenog seems to be friendly with all salesmen and other men callers."

"Yes, she'd make a wonderful night club hostess."

COOK-COOS by Ted Cook

(Copyright, 1929.)

People are being urged to join the National Association of Safe Driving Motorists to spy on reckless automobilists and report them for license revocation.

All the thrills of big game hunting—minus the sporting element.

The fun will start when one member of the N. A. V. S. D. M. meets another member of the N. A. V. S. D. M.

OMIGOSH!

(News Item)

"This week was selected for an intensive educational campaign to eliminate reckless driving by the National Association of Veteran Safe Driving Motorists."

Employment Bureau

Caspar von Zephyr Doakes, prominent socially, would like permanent position indorsing cigarets, face creams, toilet soaps, mattresses, yeast, etc. Has large acquaintance. Can operate carpet sweeper in spare time.

* * *

Shawn Glenville, Irish actor, likes to tell this story:

Six men, shipwrecked, floated for days on a raft.

Reaching an uninhabitated island, the two Irishmen immediately got into a fist fight.

The two Scotchmen immediately started a distillery to supply the Irishmen.

And the two Englishmen immediately walked separate ways because the hadn't been properly introduced.

REWARD OF THRIFT

At honest labor Willie slaved
And thriftily his money saved,
But Johnny went from schoolboy knickers
Into the ranks of idle slickers.
When Willie had a well-filled sock
Smart Johnny sold him mining stock.
Now Willie lives on poorhouse fare
While Johnny travels here and there!

—Dalmar Devening.

PLAYING "TAPER" IS GREAT FUN

When the party drags, and the guests mumble and complain, it is a good idea for the hostess to propose a game of "Taper." The hostess stands on a little platform or pedestal, in the centre of the room, holding a lighted taper in her hand. Her husband selects two other gentlemen and the three hold hands facing the hostess. They then advance and retire, holding hands, and each trying as he approaches the lady to blow out the taper. This is repeated until one is successful. He then dances with the hostess, and the other gentlemen retire to the "den" to tell stories.

Milestone on path to Civilization—

"U. S. Ambassador Morrow asked the General how he felt. 'I have had two fist fights in the past year,' he replied. One scuffle occurred when the General punched the nose of a man who had dared to offer him a glass of orangeade."

* * *

What would have happened if the man had offered the General a chocolate malted milk?

BULL-ETIN.

(St. Paul Daily News)

"Morris Gest came to tell about the production of "The Miracle" in St. Paul next Fall. So overwhelmed was he by the warmth of his reception that he told the story of his own life—a tale that he refused for the readers of a weekly magazine.

"He divulged the fact that neither he nor Mr. Otto Kahn cares whether they lose or make money on the St. Paul production of "The Miracle"."

H. G. Wells has publicly indorsed sleep, in mattress company's advertising campaign.

It must be a pretty good thing, or a man like Wells wouldn't advocate it.

However, he will have a hard time trying to get the Prince of Wales to try it.

Fisher Attempts Defense In Coal Police Jolt

Gov. Fisher, in announcing the appointment of a secretary to be in charge of the operation of industrial police (including coal and iron police) operating under the amended Mansfield act, has stated that powers of this force will be restricted through executive regulation. He makes much of the requirements for appointment, which, however, are not as strict as under the Musmanno bill, as if that assured the end of brutalities that have arisen under the present tyrannical system. Also of the statement that he is empowered to fire any officer not living up to such regulations as are to be made.

That may be reassuring to the Governor, himself, but the public has demanded that property guardians be restricted to the properties of their employers, and no amount of explanatory buncombe about regulations can amend the law signed by the Governor. Section 10 of the act states "Every policeman appointed under the provisions of this act shall possess, exercise and enjoy the powers and prerogatives conferred by law upon members of the police force of cities of the first-class and upon constables of this Commonwealth."

In the Musmanno bill their scope of activity is confined to the property. In the original Mansfield bill it was confined to within 1,000 feet of the property, but that was cut out before passage of the bill, leaving it as above stated.

The law speaks for itself and Gov. Fisher speaks only for himself, when he speaks of "regulations." Even though he makes them strict and fires every man who does not obey them, the law gives no promise that future executives will do likewise.

The plain truth is that Gov. Fisher has slapped the face of the public.

Schools Could Show Well In Educational Week

This is educational week in many places throughout our land—a week in which the importance and value of education for all is stressed. A week in which accomplishments are viewed and contemplation is given to the possibility of improving all factors that are associated with the work of our greatest institution—THE SCHOOL. A week in which the parent and the pupil, the teacher and the school board see a related group becoming more familiar with their relationship.

Educational week partakes of various forms of activities, from exhibitions of school work and parent-teacher conferences to demonstrations of an elaborate nature with imposing programs that reflect the community's pride in its educational spirit and the results issuing therefrom.

It is a fine movement, the growth of which has been rapid. Our own school system, so excellent and so fruitful in worthy achievement, has no superior, we believe, in any part of the country. Educational week would be a most appropriate time to make the general public more fully acquainted with that fact.

It is to be hoped that when this "week" arrives again the county and city and borough school systems of Allegheny will have made arrangements for activities appropriate to participation in such a cultural revival.

Corporation's Purchase A Public-Be-Damned Act

Anyone who thinks the public-be-damned attitude has been abandoned by great corporations should turn his eyes to New England. There the largest electric utility organization, the International Paper and Power Company, which produces a million and three-quarters horsepower of electrical energy and serves several million New England customers, is disclosed secretly purchasing two great newspapers, the Boston Herald and the Boston Traveler.

We say it was a public-be-damned act because the power company knew that the secret purchase was bound to be known eventually. It happens that the exposure was made by W. R. Hearst's Boston American.

The power company simply didn't care what the public, when finally informed, might think about it. The power company was running true to the form disclosed in the government's sensational investigation of this business, with its revelations of the slimy trail of Power Trust money smeared over schools, legislatures and press.

Edmund Burke once said that you cannot indict a whole people. No more can a whole industry be indicted. There are upright public utility executives who, we suspect, share the disgust of other decent citizens at this barefaced purchase of the independent press.

Does the National Electric Light Association which is supposed to represent the whole industry, think that it is the proper business of a public utility to absorb the independent press?

We note that A. R. Graustein, president of the International Paper and Power Company, which bought the newspapers, is a member of the Public Policy Committee of the National Electric Light Association.

Does the National Electric Light Association sanction this as sound public policy? Or does the National Electric Light Association repudiate Mr. Graustein and his works?

According to the records, A. R. Graustein sits on the Public Policy Committee of the National Electric Light Association along with the following public utility magnates: H. T. Sands, P. S. Arkwright, John B. Miller, M. S. Sloan, W. A. Jones.

Do they stand for Graustein's "public policy"? Is it THEIR "public policy"?

How about it, gentlemen of the electric light and power industry?

Tales That Are Told

Quits!

TWO Jews were invited to a big dinner. As they stood behind their chairs waiting for the chairman to be seated, they were impressed by the display of plate.

Solomon whispered in Samuel's ear: "Look at the lovely thilver thpoons. I'm going to have one for a thouvenir!"

"For Heaven's sake," cried Samuel in great agitation, "leave the thpoons alone. I've thlipped one in my boot already. Two would be missed."

Solomon was annoyed and pondered how he could revenge himself on his friend.

Later on in the evening he was asked to make a speech, and an inspiration flashed upon him.

"Mr. Chairman," he said, "I will begin by performing a little feat of sleight-of-hand. You thee thith beautiful thilver thpoon! Vell! I place it in my pocket! Then I place my hand upon it, and I say, 'Presto!' And you will find it in my friend Samuel's boot!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S hardly a big party in Chicago or New York any more that don't break up with plans all made for a scientific exploring expedition in the South Seas or the North Ocean or some such place. Lately there was a big party somewheres on Long Island, and they decided along about four o'clock that they would start for the middle of Africa to hunt big game in the interest of science.

So they got started on a fine yacht, bound straight for Africa from East Hampton or some such a place. That was a month after the party, and they had all had their pictures in the roto sections for the big help there was going to be to science when they would come back with a shipload of dead lions.

"Well," says the boss of the expedition, when they were out to sea, "did we forget anything in the hustle at the last?"

"No," says the quartermaster, "anyhow, nothing important."

"Is the 40 cases of rye aboard?"

"Sure."

"And the 50 cases of Scotch?"

"Yes."

"And the wine and champagne and beer?"

"You bet."

"How about them scientists? I ain't seen them since we started?"

"Nope; they missed the boat."

"How about the guns?"

"They got left on the dock."

"And the cameras?"

"Yes, we got them."

"Well," says the boss, "I guess we'll get along somehow. Send up a case of beer."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

HE was a traveling man.

He had been a traveling man for such a long time that it was hard to realize that he had ever been anything else.

But of course he had. Once he had been a little boy Back Home. A little boy with warts and freckles, who snitched cookies and "belly busted" down slippery hills and dug pirate caves and tracked in mud. And who was, at all times, the apple of his mother's eye.

Every night, after he had become a great, big, clumsy creature with a squeaky, changing voice and stray hairs that would some day be a mustache, his mother had come to his bed to tuck him in and pat his rough, tumbled head. Often, after he slept, she tiptoed in again, in her woolen wrapper, and stood looking down at him with a prayer turning and turning in her heart.

For she couldn't realize that he wasn't a baby any more.

Indeed, she was never able to realize that he was anything but a baby.

And strange to say, in the secret depths of his heart, he WAS her baby.

Many a time, when things went wrong, he longed to bring her the hurt to kiss away.

Many a time, when things went well, he wanted to run shouting to her, as he had done when he was a little lad, and throw his arms about her and tell her how he loved her.

But he couldn't.

The years had done something to him.

They had put a strong finish on him that he himself couldn't break through.

Often at night, sitting in some hotel room in a strange city, he longed to call her up and say, "I love you, mother."

Just four short words—"I love you, mother"—surely it should have been so easy to say those words, or write them, or telegraph them.

They were in his heart to say—but he's grown self-conscious—he didn't know how to say them.

"I'd feel like a fool talking like that," he'd say to himself. "Perhaps tomorrow night I'll sit down and write her a good long letter" . . .

So he kept putting it off.

Then one day, when he was 3,000 miles from home, a wire came. It said:

"Mother not at all well. Come as soon as possible."

And suddenly, the most terrible need to say those words fell upon him!

To say them while there was yet time.

To put his arms around her and lay his tired head on her breast and say over and over again—"I love you, mother!"

To make her know, before she went away, how much she had meant to him all through the years.

Did she know? That was the terrible question that went through him like a knife. Did she know? He had taken it for granted that she knew, but in all these years he had never told her. Did she really know how much he loved her?

Did she know how the very thought of her had been like water in the desert—like a light in the storm?

Oh, he wouldn't feel like a fool if he could say those words now.

They were the greatest words on earth—the loveliest gift a man could give in return for his life.

But there was so little time left—perhaps no time at all.

IF ONLY HE COULD HAVE ANOTHER CHANCE.

COMET SCHEDULES

By Garrett P. Serviss

"What is a true comet? Do scientists determine the exact appearance of a comet—say Halley's—by calculations? Or is it by past performances that they expect it to appear at a definite time? Do they travel in any certain manner, i. e., what sort of a trail would they leave, or what kind of curve would they describe?—Nicholas B. Tkaczuk, Chicago, Ill."

A "TRUE COMET" is a body (small in comparison with the earth) or more probably a congeries of small bodies gathered into a "head," which travels around the sun, like a planet, except that its orbit is much more eccentric, or elongated, than that of a planet, and instead of being nearly confined to the same plane in which the planets move, it may have any inclination to that plane; and the comet's motion around the sun may be either in the same direction as that of the planets, or in the contrary direction, or at a right angle, or any other angle, to the planetary movements.

Yet while a comet thus appears as a kind of wild horse in the orderly solar system, it may be readily judged by its "past performance," although it is apt to cause considerable confusion in the records by a certain skittishness which leads it into complicated evolutions when it gets too near a large planet. In consequence of this tendency, small comets occasionally become lost, like runaway Indian ponies scurrying beyond the horizon, yet they may be picked up again when their untamed curiosity leads them back toward the place where the scare began. The huge planet Jupiter is a gravitational gorgon to small comets, and his influence over them is remarkable, sometimes driving them away and sometimes drawing them on.

In the case of a newly-discovered comet the astronomer is sometimes enabled to calculate what its future performances will be without knowing anything about its past. This is because it has been found that all comets travel in curves of a certain order. The curve may be an ellipse, like the orbit of a planet, or a parabola, or a hyperbola. When a comet is in that part of its orbit near the sun it is difficult to tell just which of these curves it is following because the three curves are very nearly of the same form near their foci—and the sun is always at the focus. But the majority of comets travel in curves which are, at least, very close to parabolas.

Having found, then, by observation, in which curve a particular comet is most probably moving, its future course can be calculated with more or less certainty. Now, there are a considerable number of well-known comets which travel in elongated ellipses, and it is comparatively easy to deal with these, although all of them are subject more or less to the panicy influences which may be said to dwell in the comet blood. Halley's comet happens to be a conspicuous example of one of these bodies traveling in an elliptical orbit, so that both its past and its future performances have been noted down, not by any means with the certainty of a railroad timetable, but yet with fair accuracy.

Halley's comet takes on the average three-quarters of a century to make one of its rounds. Sometimes it is delayed a few years and at other times it arrives ahead of the mean schedule, like cross-continent trains that have either found clear tracks and good weather along the whole route, or else have been delayed by blizzards, snow banks and swollen rivers.

Bible Passages

Faith Under Temptation

(James 1; 2-17)

MY brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations.

Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience.

But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.

If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him.

But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed.

For let not that man think that he shall receive anything of the Lord.

A double minded man is unstable in all his ways.

Let the brother of low degree rejoice in that he is exalted.

But the rich, in that he is made low; because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away.

For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the grass, and the flower thereof falleth and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth; so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways.

Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord has promised to them that love him.

Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man:

But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed.

Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin; and sin when it is finished, bringeth forth death.

Do not err, my beloved brethren.

Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.

Sanctuary

THERE is a sacred place that waits for me
Always when I grow weary of my task;
Like some green island in a sunlit sea
On whose white beach the tired swimmers bask.
Not only in the hours when work is done
Can I find entry in that haven sweet,
The stress of labor and the noonday sun
Erect no barriers to my sure retreat.
Within that sacred place no doubt can blight
The flower of my hope, and no despair
Can cast its shadow as of coming night
Across the memories that quicken there.
All things desired, all things serene and true
Await me in the blessed thought of you!

Isn't It So?

All Up in the Air

By Herbert Kaufman

MERLIN SONS, INC., are displaying their line of spring samples. Among the novelties of the season are slotted devices which automatically take the machine out of a tailspin and eliminate one of the prime menaces of sky-riding.

Another smart innovation is the Jenkins "radio eye," created exclusively for the military trade. This latest application of television enables scouting pilots to wireless birds'-eye views of enemy movements and actual battles—thus forecasting the day when boards of strategy will loll at desks across seas and direct, from the War Department itself, the most minute operations of field forces.

The culinary division of Grand Wizardy also begs to inform the public that travelers, flying out of Chicago to West Coast points, will be served by "overhead" restaurants of the Fred Harvey System.

Kipling's "Night Mail," in which the novelist stretched his imagination until it creaked, was a dismal flop as a prophet.

That noted flight of fancy, momentarily ranked with "The Sleeping Beauty" and "Sinbad the Sailor," simply goes to show how soon the dream books of one generation become the textbooks of the next—and very poor ones, to boot.

Even Kipling couldn't anticipate half the developments upstairs navigation has already adopted.

Submarines are also sprouting wings. Italy is building one with accommodations for a seaplane. And if journalism could peep over the shoulders of all the naval designers, you might hear that the other powers have secretly met Mussolini's move and gone him a few better.

All portents indicate the thorough and immediate occupation of the heavens. A company has been organized to insure both amateur and professional aviators against death and mishap. Henry Ford is burning midnight oil in his impatience to put little skim-abouts into limitless-quantity production.

And General Motors, not to be outdone, has a few roc's eggs hatching in its vast nest, too.

The stock market has been pronouncedly air-minded for several years.

Bankers, who felt that their reputations "couldn't afford to attend a dinner to the Wright brothers," are cross-bidding for control of air traffic; and finance corporations are estimating how many billions the next decade will require for landing fields, community hangars, and installment-sold machines.

You think that you'll never fly, just as your father swore that he wouldn't risk his precious life and limbs in an automobile.

And you will remember how soon after that he was at the wheel overtaking the Joneses—chuckling, meanwhile, at grandpa's reminiscences about the first railroads.

History and a few old-timers recall the same general fear of the locomotive, at 20 miles an hour, that you now feel at thought of a transcontinental cloud trip between sun-ups.

But familiarity always grows contemptuous of first squeamishness. Example breeds confidence. The crowd spirit convinces the hang-back. We all eventually follow the lead of friends.

The greatest salesman on earth is the family next door. So start reading the catalogs—begin to study the definitions of "joysticks," altimeter and banking gauges, and get a medical "once-over."

Try on your helmet and goggles and grow used to the feel of 'em.

Henry and Orville expect to sell a tri-motor, or at least a flying "lizzy," to somebody on your block within five years—likely as not, you.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 23.—Rich men can no longer be judged by antedated standards of their heredity. The town house, country estate, a box at the opera, a shooting lodge and string of polo ponies used to mark the millionaire. But that is "old stuff" in America's unprecedented prosperity.

The splurge of the rich is now expressed in personal and private comfort rather than in outward show. Display is the symbol of the nouveaux riche, and even the new rich are conscious of finger pointers. Wealth still feeds its vanity, but without brass bands and fireworks.

One of the busy millionaires maintains a four-room apartment under another name at a smart hotel, and uses it about an hour or so a week, merely for a haircut and massage, and while undergoing these ministrations receives intimate business associates and dictates to a brace of stenographers.

A San Francisco capitalist brings his barber on trips to New York and is registered under the barber's name to avoid interviews. Nearly every millionaire traveling abroad these days takes as part of his entourage a physician, masseur and private secretaries, and is not listed among ship passengers.

There are any number of apartments on Park and Madison avenue and other exclusive areas maintained by yearly rentals of from $30,000 to $50,000 and used by out-of-town visitors on sporadic visits. They are unlisted in the house directory and attendants will appear oblivious of their occupancy.

One of the unique establishments in town is a magnificent private house in the East Sixties. Its cellars are stocked with rarest vintages and walls are hung with tapestried treasures and works of old masters. A housekeeper and 14 servants are employed.

The gentleman who owns it is a middlewesterner and maintains the pied a terre the year around merely to entertain dinner parties for six weeks during the opera season. He has another town house with more sombre attenuations where he resides and where social high jinks are tabooed during his sojourn.

London was once the old clothes center of the world, but today it is Brooklyn. The Bush Terminal maintains a sterilization plant there from which discarded garments are shipped to every corner of the globe. The old coat of today may adorn the Moroccan shiek or the Siberian mountaineer tomorrow. Europe has a shortage of old clothes because everybody is wearing them out. Few Americans these prosperous days wear out their habiliments. Old derbies are especially in demand to ship to Africa to decorate craniums of tribal chiefs. Top hats and cutaway coats without pants—they do not care for pants—also make an appeal among uncivilized. The Cash Clo men now pay the highest prices in history and are sharing largely in the prosperity.

Those silver-haired ladies with such an aura of dignity serving as floor clerks in fashionable hotels have a background for their aristocratic manner. They are recruited largely from the army of widows who have met financial reverses and are forced to make their way. The Waldorf had one clerk who once maintained a $30,000 a year apartment on the same floor over which she presided. In adversity she sought solace amid scenes of happier days.

* * *

An agonized matron writes to a New York newspaper a butler 16 years in service has made away with rare wines costing $14,000 in pre-war days, gives big dinner parties while she is in Europe, and refuses flatly to air her pet dogs and she wonders what to do. A fellow like that should be sent away without even a character.

And another newspaper reader—you can have more giggles reading those letters to editors—thinks one of the tragedies of the metropolis is the sight of the spindly-legged tenement children to whom the live cow in the Central Park meadow is such an object of astonishing curiosity. From the taste of my milk at lunch today, there is at least one dairyman who would be similarly affected by the sight of a cow.

A New York hatter says he can tell a man's chief characteristics by the way he wears his hat and that recalls how the Elite Broadway Players' comedian convulsed Plattsburg, Mo., in the late 90's with: "Grandpa is in the barnyard with the cattle. You can tell him by his hat!"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

WHAT is your attitude toward life?

Is it filled with matters of the moment or do you have an ambition of which you never lose sight?

Are you too fond of having a good time to settle down to systematic work when you are put on your own?

Do you know things at their true value?

Do you find yourself able to get the true relative position of each thing you want to do in your life?

There are many things you want to do, of course.

But how far would they get you on the road and the goal you seek?

Are you willing to paddle along by the shore when you might sail the mighty ocean?

Are you so taken up with frivolous friends that you cannot recognize the ones more worth while?

Each person and each thing you encounter has a place in your life.

But are you putting the inferior things in first place?

Shake out of it and stop wasting time—make for your goal.

You will have to hurry, for there are many others working toward the point you hope to reach.

THE HEARST PAPERS DEMAND FOR AMERICA:

SCHOOLS—More SCHOOLS, BETTER SCHOOLS, more ADEQUATE and more MODERN school buildings; the best TEACHERS and the best COMPENSATION for teachers; a SCHOOL SEAT and a LIBERAL EDUCATION for every child in America, native or foreign born.

America is the great melting pot of the world, and the product of the melting pot must be competent, educated, loyal, moral AMERICAN CITIZENS.

1.—That is the nation's duty to itself and its contribution to the social organization.

2.—No politics in the schools, no race antagonism in the schools, no religious prejudice in the schools.

The schools are for all children; and all the children should there be taught and trained and graduated in that KNOWLEDGE WHICH IS POWER and in an enlightened understanding of AMERICAN PRINCIPLES AND IDEALS.

The government of a Democracy reposes in the hands of the people, and the success of that government, the progress, the prosperity, the perpetuation of the nation, depend upon the EDUCATION of the people, the ABILITY OF THE PEOPLE TO GOVERN.

SCHOOLS are the foundation stones of the Republic. Make them STRONG and SOUND and SUFFICIENT.

This is printed in connection with Public School Week, April 22 until April 27.
